Free Fishing Day

Deep Creek Lake

The Maryland Depart-

Set July 4 At

In cooperation with Johnny's Baithouse, the park ranger staff at the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area will be sponsoring a special fishing contest as part of this statewide program.

On July 4th, anglers will be permitted to fish the waters of Deep Creek Lake without purchasing a fishing license. According to Recreation Area Manager Paul Durham, "This program focuses on the family-oriented benefits of recreational fishing, and provides an opportunity for people who wouldn't otherwise take a fishing trip an incentive to do so, as the expense of purchasing a license is waived for that day.

Johnny's Baithouse is co sponsoring the event, and will be conducting a fishing contest until 6 p.m. in the evenings. Children 12 years of age and under can compete for the most fish caught, with first, second, and third place prizes of fishing tackle awarded. Individuals over 12 years of age can participate in a similar contest with gift certificates award for first through third place.

All participants in the contest will need to check their fish in at Johnny's before 6 p.m., and each will receive a free patch. Prizes will be awarded at 6 p.m. by "G.T., Good Time Turtle," the mascot of the State Forest and Park Service

"We're excited about rorking with the Forest and Park Service in promoting this event," stated John Marple of Johnny's Baithouse. "Fishing is something to be shared with family and friends, and this program is an excellent way to introduce children to the sport."

For further information on this "Free Fishing Day," persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area Office at (301) 387-5563.

G.C. Home Health Agency Receives Review Approval

The Garrett County Health Department's Home Health Agency received approval of their annual Licensing and Certification review recently.

Ms. Anna Marie Ugarte, Department of Licensing and Certification, Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, complimented the local agency for their outstanding survey review of home health care services which includes skillednursing, home health aides, physical therapy, and medical social worker.

Ms. Ugarte spent seven days making home visits with the nursing staff to various homes in the community and reviewing patient records, policies and procedures and staff credentials. She also visited the satellite health centers in Swanton, Accident and Grantsville and complimented the agency in their outreach to the individual communities

At the exit interview attended by key home health staff and Dr. Rex Archer. Garrett County Health Officer, Ms. Ugarte stated she was pleased with the patient

New Registration Rate Schedule Noted By MVA

According to information received from the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles (MVA), a new rate schedule and multi-year program for the state of Maryland will become effective July 1, the purpose of which is to stagger most vehicles into a two-year renewal program.

Maryland residents purchasing stickers with an expiration date of July 1992 will be charged according to the new rates and may also be required to renew for two years at a time. All June and older renewal will be subject to an $8 surcharge as well if the renewal takes place after June 30.

Pending the approval of ources at that office.

Further questions about the new rate schedule may be addressed to the clerks at the MVA office in Oakland, located next to Browning's Foodland. The office is open Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Persons may also contact the full-service branch in LaVale.

Today Garrett County is divided into three (3) county commissioner districts. One commissioner is elected from each of these three districts. This has not provided dispersed representation in county government. Many voters in the above areas feel orphaned and separate from the three main districts. Incidentally two of the three commissioners live within 3 miles of the Oakland Courthouse.

Under Charter Home Rule the county will have five (5) districts with one commissioner elected from each district. The commissioners will be called council members. Citizens in the above areas will then have more representation in the county government.

The Golden Years by Melissa Groves

Population growth ordinarily is considered a matter of births and immigration. But longevity is playing a part, too. From 1980 to 1990, the U.S. population grew to almost 249 million, an increase of 10 percent. In the same period, the number of Americans 65 and over increased 22 percent, to more than 31 million. People 65 and over now account for 13 percent of the U.S. population.

Marlene Dietrich won instant worldwide fame in 1930 with her performance in the German film "Blue Angel." Shifting to Hollywood, she reigned for years as a movie superstar. Then she dropped out of public life, as Greta Garbo did earlier with the terse explanation that "I want to be alone." At age 90, Dietrich was living a secluded life in Paris. Unlike Garbo, who occasionally was glimpsed on the street and in stores in New York, Dietrich was never seen outside her apartment, allowing only a few close friends to come and visit. They say she was spending most of her time reading, talking on the phone, and writing at her typewriter.

determines the indebtedness that a county may undertake not the form of government. Mr. Hessen should be better informed and should not mislead the public. The Home Rule Charter puts the Garrett voters in charge of our indebtedness service our indebteanes, where it should be. Richard C. Browning Sr. McHenry

To the Editor: This letter replies to the letter of Phyllis B. Trickett as published in The Repubican issue of June 18.

In your first paragraph, Mrs. Trickett, you question whether five members of the county council and an appointed administrator can improve the budget preparation and financial management. In answer to your question, the improvement will result from adoption of the provisions in Article V of the charter which require county use of state wide accepted principles for financial management and budget

In your second paragraph you state "It seems strange that in all other counties having Charter administrator or county executive is elected by the voters." Your statement is correct. The two rural Charter Home Rule Talbot Wicomico, have appointed county administrators. In your third, fourth, and fifth paragraphs you relate to the county council having the authority to go out of the county to recruit and appoint a county adminis-trator and that such would not be desirable. You are correct in that the charter provides for the council to recruit a county administrator from both within and outside the county boundaries. It is the elected council members who must make the choice of the best qualified person for a county administrator. It is reasonable to expect that, if at all possibly, they would find and appoint a qualified administrator who is a native or already resides in the county. Unfortunately, this has not been the case in the past. Our present county administrator or county lerk was recruited from other agency heads. The Charter Board gave this serious thought, but in the final analysis, decided the council should not be restricted from going outside the county in the event the best qualified administrator could not be recruited from within the Jessie McCullough

To the Editor:

It is very important that people vote on July 7 and that they vote against Charter Home Rule. Under Charter Home Rule, we would have the following: Five elected politicians to pay instead of three! A very expensive county adminis-trator. More and bigger government instead of less! Bigger government means bigger taxes, any way you look at it! I have been a Garrett County landowner for over

office as county surveyor. After publishing The Citizen Newspaper for over 30 years, I am no stranger to Garrett County politics.

A group of people are trying to get Charter Home Rule government in Garrett County. If you have followed the ads, you saw that there are many legal reasons why you should vote against this type of government. What I want to discuss with you is just plain common sense Charter Home Rule government would expand government's power in Garrett County to five elected officials and an expensive county adminis-trator who would have more ower than the grand jury! Do you realize what "more government regulations' mean? If you ever tried to give a piece of land to one of your children, or tried to build a home, or start a business, open a mine, run cattle in a watershed, dry up a field so you can plant it if you have, then you know what regulations are all

Actually, the Garrett County Commissioners over the years have been very good about not adding regulations to our already over-regulated lives. Most of our regulations come from the state. Try giving a piece of land to your children in Allegany County, then you will see that Garrett County is still a pretty nice place to live, with reasonable taxes and one of the last places in Maryland to "breathe free!" Let's keep it that way! Vote against Charter Home Rule July 7! But you have to vote! You may be sure those who want more government are organized and will vote in a block! If you don't take the time and trouble to go vote against it, you're going to get it and you will be sorry for the rest of your lives! But don't take my word for it. Learn about Charter Home Rule yourself, and I hope you will join me at the polls July 7 and vote against Charter Home Rule

To the Editor: This letter replies to the letter of the county attornev W. Dwight Stover, in The Republican issue of June

As the county attorney for the Garrett County Commissioners for many years, and of course a recipient of a high income from the county treasury, it can be expected Mr. Stover that you would be loyal to the commissioners and would not support the Charter Home Rule. What is not expected is that you would write a letter sing the charter whi would contain incomplete information and inaccu-

In regard to your item 1 is recognized that enabling acts can and are passed by the state legislature to enable the county governments to enact ordinances in certain areas. Under Charter Home Rule such enabling legislation, in most instances would not be required in a smuch as the county would already have that power. The important difference, which you don't mention, is that under Charter Home Rule the people would have the right to vote on ordinances by referendum. Under the commissioner form of government the people do not have that right In regard to your item 2,

politics and I held elected Public Information Act, Article 10 of the Maryland Annotated Code, "makes available to all persons upon written request public records" is grossly in error. The Freedom of Information Act provides that a person may request in writing public information. If the ounty commissioners or other government entity that receives the request refuses to furnish the information the only recourse to the person requesting the information is to go to civil court. To take the county commissioners or any other government entity to court is expensive. It is so expensive that it discourages further action to try to get information which should be readily available to the public. Mr. Stover if you will check your county files you will find requests for public infor-mation which has never been answered even though application for the information was made under the Freedom of Information Act. The charter provides for public information to be made available to the

> In regard to your item 3, provides for appointment of a new ethics commission and the preparation of a new code of ethics. The reason for this, Mr. Stover, is your 1982 code of ethics is not worth a plug nickel. It is so full of exceptions and language subject to multiple interpretations that it is of little or no value. Chapter 145, of the Code of Garrett County, which was published in 1985, states, "the Code of Ethics for the county will be inserted here." If you had a code of ethics worthy of publication why was it not published in the 1985 dition of the Code Garrett County, which had a chapter reserved for its publication? Why was it buried in the records of the Clerk of the Circuit Court? The answer is obvious.

In regard to your item 4, the growth in county revenues to twenty plus million annually demands the use of statewide accepted principles for inancial management and budget preparation as provided for in Article V of the charter. Also the people of Garrett County have a right to know how and for what their taxes are being spent. The charter provides that such expenditures be included for each line item in the budget. Over the past decades such information has not been available to the public. The county audits you refer to are audits, which for many years, you have made by an out-of-county firm in Bethesda. Their audit reports are by programs which are not relatable to items in the budget. In addition, the audits are so complicated that to be understood would require the assistance of a public accountant and basic data from which prepared.

In regard to your item 5, to the contrary from which you state, local public hearings are not held in the county before enacting bills into local laws. The bills are created in Annapolis and the public hearings on those bills are scheduled and held in Annapolis. The schedule for such hearings are not always published in the local news media and if they were it is difficult and costly to attend such hearings in Annapolis. While public hearings are held here in the county on ordinances, such hearings are perfunctory inasmuch as they are not subject to referendum and are enacted whether or not it is the will of the people. In regard to your item 6, you state Kent and Somer-set counties have less population than Garrett County. Therefore, Garrett County has more elected representation than any county other than Kent and Somerset. The question then is why does Somerset have five elected repre-sentatives? The answer is by having five elected representatives, charter provides for Garrett County, you have a more democratic decision-making government with more equitable distribution of

ment whereby all citizens will be knowledgeable of and may exercise their rights to participate in our local government. Mr. Stover, we need a county government that will equitably serve all the citizens of Garrett County, not just a select few. That time will come if we the people adopt the home rule charter by voting for it on July 7. We shall then have a county government of the people, by the people and for the people. I urge you, Mr. Stover, and all voters to vote for the

Charter Home Rule on July

John E. Hinebaugh

To the Editor:
On July 7 an important vote will be taken in Garrett County. If citizens against the proposed Charter Home Rule form of government become complacent and fail to cast their vote, Garrett County could be forced to live with a form of govern-ment which will become considerably more expensive, more bureaucracy, and will expand beyond the needs of Garrett County. I would recommend that instead of instigating the change in county govern-ment, we put our efforts in improving our present system and expect our commissioners and elected officials be held accountable spent in performing their duties. There is always room for improvement and their salaries should reflect the time and effort that they spend in their official duties. There are already rules on the books that state that records, budgets, minutes, etc., should be made etc. available to the public whenever requested, so let us exercise our power as citizens to demand these rights be given us in an open

I urge and recommend that you vote against the proposed Charter Home Rule form of government. Ruth DiPaolo

To the Editor:

In last week's issue of The Republican, a front page group of photos and captions incorrectly stated several facts concerning a June 17 incident at June 17 incident at Broadford Lake in Oakland. The incident involved a young boy missing from the park and allegedly drowned. A photo in last week's paper pictured an American Red Cross search and rescue technique known as the human chain.

This search and rescue technique, along with a full ground search of the area, was "initiated" on Wednes-day by members of the Broadford Lake staff. The rescue crews arriving at the incident scene did cooperate with the staff and volunteers in the search and rescue operation. Phil Rook of Emergency Medical Services stated that he was "pleasantly surprised" to see that the Broadford Lake staff had put their emergency plan into effect and that search and rescue was underway upon arrival of the EMS personnel. Broadford Lake's staff would like to express their appreciation for the timely arrival and knowledgeable expertise demonstrated by the Garrett County EMS. The entire swimming area had been quickly searched within the six-minute rescue guideline established for drownings. Deb Clatterbuck, Director Broadford Lake Park

DREAMS DO COME TRUE — It takes more than wishful thinking for dreams to become reality, but lots of hard work, determination, patience, and years of planning and fundraising by caring people has resulted in the recent completion and subsequent open house celebration of a fully-accessible facility at Deep Creek Lake for vacationing persons with developmental disabilities. Known as The Lodge at Sawmill Hollow, the facility is operated by TARGET, Inc., a non-profit, agency that provides quality residential, recreational, and vocational services to developmentally disabled individuals. Chief Executive Officer and President of TARGET, Dr. Don Rabush, Ed.D., Westminster, who has been offering his own summer home on the lake for many years to the vacationers, is understandably delighted that the project has come to fruition and can now more efficiently serve about 100 individuals throughout the summer months. District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards also played a role in the project by successfully introducing a bill in the Maryland C. Edwards also played a role in the project by successfully introducing a bill in the Maryland General Assembly that provided grant funds for the construction of the 6,700 square foot, 10-bedroom, seven-bath, three kitchen facility, complete with recreation and conference centers. (The facility will be offered for use during the off-season as a meeting place for non-profit organizations or as a retreat for small groups.) Many local individuals and businesses have supported the group's efforts, including the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club and Casselman Lumber Company, which donated labor and materials, respectively, for the construction of a boathouse; the U.S. Marine Corps and Bill's Marine Service, which provided a Bayliner boat; and Dave Houston, local lake resident who provided the group with a golf cart (an indispensable mode of travel for some of the vacationing guests.) The full-time staff is composed of Dr. Rabush and six area college students. Shown above is the front view of the new facility. Below, left to right, are Dr. Rabush; Bill Kelly, property chairperson; Delegate Edwards; and District One Senator John J. Hafer.

To the Editor:

Summer, a time of vacations, travel, and increased risk of injury and other medical emergencies. As we all enjoy the many resorts that Maryland offers, the emergency medical community encourages you to take common-sense precautions. Respect for the dangers that accompany our summer activities will lessen the risk of turning fun into tragedy for you and our loved ones. On the July 4th weekend, we suggest that you enjoy fireworks displays present-ed by professionals in your community. Backyard use of firecrackers carries tremendous risk of hand and eve trauma. An ill-timed explosion can cause terrible injuries to anyone nearby. In Maryland, many fire works are illegal to sell or use. The ban is well intentioned: some firecrackers have the explosive power of a quarter stick of dynamite and can amputate fingers or an entire hand! Also well intentioned is Maryland's new law that requires motorcycle riders to wear helmets. Although the law doesn't go into effect until October 1, we urge motorcyclists to use protec tive headgear as you travel the roads busy with summer motorists. Bicyclists are also wise to wear helmets to protect themselves from head injuries in a fall or crash.

The dangers of drinking and driving are obvious. Even alcohol distributors are sending warning mes-sages about the use of alcohol. We usually think of drunk drivers as a threat on the highways. But they also present dangers on the waterways when they take the helm of boats.

Asphalt Research Involves State Highway Admin.

The Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA) is tune Maryland's design prothe durability and performance of Maryland roads.

The first experiment involves testing different paveas part of the Specific Pavement Studies (SPS), a national research study. SPS was launched by the Strategic Highway Research Program (SHRP), a long-term highway research project authorized by Congress and administered through the National Research Council, in cooperation with the Federal Highway Administration and the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials. Maryland is one of the first states to participate in the five-year SPS study. SPS will help us fine-participating in two expericedures and standards for ments designed to improve paving," said SHA Administrator Hal Kassoff. "In turn, those design refinements should provide a big pay-off in more durable materials. ment mixtures on roadways cutting maintenance and repair costs and providing a safer riding surface." The second research project tests Stone Mastic Asphalt (SMA), a Europeandesigned gap-graded, hot mixed asphalt which provides an extremely rut-resistent pavement surface. Stone mastic asphalt is known to have a comparatively longer life than traditional methods of paving, said Dr. Haleem Tahir Deputy Chief Engineer, SHA Materials and Research.

U.S. 15, from US 340 to the Virginia state line southwest of Frederick, is the testing ground for the experiments, which are incorporated in the $1.4 million rehabilitation of the roadway. The project, which began in March, is 75 percent federally funded.

Nine 500-foot test sections of combinations of pavement surface preparation, overlay thickness and new and recycled asphalt concrete are being used in the SPS experiment. Four methods of asphalt binder modification are being used in the SMA test.

'After research is completed we will have a better insight into the performance of recycled versus virgin asphaltmixes," said Kassoff.

THE REPUBLICAN, OAKLAND, MARYLAND - THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1992 B-1 'It's progressive step and the benefits to SHA and motorists could be tremendous," said Robert Fisher, District 7 acting assistant district engineer for Construction. "The research may lead to greater advancement with the materials used in road

An open house on the project, hosted by SHA, the Federal Highway Administration, the Maryland Asphalt Paving Association and the contractor, Genstar Stone products Company of Hunt Valley, was recently held in Frederick Experts and other interested people from more than 31 states attended the conference, which included technical presentations on the design and construction of the SPS and SMA test sections and a bus tour of the U.S. 15 project and Genstar's hot mix asphalt concrete plant.

A CORPSE IN ARMOR JUNE 28, 1992

Background Scripture:

Devotional Reading: Psalms 47:1-9. I was 15 years old when World War II ended. From that day until last year we have lived under the threat of Communism. Now, children no longer go to bed fearful that someone will wake them to say, The Russians are coming, the Russians are coming." It is strange to me that, having waited so long for this day, people seem so blase about it. To be sure, there has been a little celebration, but hardly what we might have expected after living with this bogeyman

Maybe, in light of the subtlety with which the world seems to have reacted to the break-up of the Soviet block, we might have a hard time understanding the enthusiasm of the prophet Nahum. What he is celebrating is the immanent destruction of the Assyrian Empire. Nineveh has not fallen vet, but he is so certain of its fall that he speaks as if it had already taken place: "The chariots rage in the streets, they rush to and fro through the squares" (2:4). His relief at this prospect is easy to understand for the eastern world had suffered under the violent yoke of Assyria for two and a half centuries. Damascus had fallen to the Assyrians 732 B.C., Samaria in Mussair in 714, Babylon in 689, Sidon in 677, Memphis in 671, Thebes in 663, and Susa around 639. Only Tyre and Jerusalem remained free of Assyrian control in the year 612, probably

COVER STORY

Fabares feels fabulous that 'Coach' is now a hit

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

When "Coach" premiered in 1989, few critics ex-pected it to last past its initial 13 episodes. But Shelley Fabares - who plays Christine Armstrong, local anchorwom-den Fox on the ABC Tuesdaynight series - always knew that "Coach" would develop into something special.

Shelley Fabares

"It's very easy for me to sit here now and say, 'Oh, yes, I spotted it'; it's kind of like Monday-morning quarter-backing," she says. "But from the beginning - the initial script was very solid, intelli-gent and funny. You don't get a lot of that in television. And you had five characters who were very strong and really well-defined.

Now the rest of the world is catching on; this season, "Coach" became a top 10 show. "I remember that Barry Kemp ('Coach' 's creator) said at or point, 'If we get to stay on, this is the kind of show where people will say, "You know, this show is much funnier than it " Fabares recalls. "And he said, 'The fact is, it won't be. What will happen is that the audience will ther is doing, and four minutes before it happens, they're going, 'Oh, I know, I know

'Coach" 's lead, Hayden (Craig T. Nelson), is essentially an unenlightened male. On TV, such characters are invariably cartoon types. But not Hayden

At the beginning, it was a very fine line," says Fabares.
"If you made him too (unenlightened), you would question Christine. You would say, What is wrong with her if she's with this absolute idiot? But if you showed him making too much progress, you're tak ing the series too fast. You need to be able to understand for yourself what it is that she sees in Hayden, and you can only give that to the audience in little dollops."

Among women, Hayden seems to have struck a nerve. "I talk to women all over the country who usually roll their eyes somewhat heavenward and say. 'I'm married to Hay den,' " says Fabares. "Hayden is such a wonderful, creative, infuriating, darling character. As personified by Craig, who is such a gifted actor and is so great-looking besides, he's very appealing.

Fabares' previous series in-clude "The Donna Reed Show," "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" and "One Day at a Time." But "Coach" is her favorite. "From the beginning, when only six people were watching it, they would say, 'I love the show," says Fabares "They were passionate about it. And that's not the experience I had with other series tell you how grateful I am.

Clare Carey, Craig T. Nelson and Shelley Fabares (I. to r.) star in "Coach." The ABC comedy, which revolves around the mis adventures of a Minnesota football coach, airs Tuesdays.

John Houseman

Actually, John Houseman was born in Bucharest, Romania, in 1902. He came to the United States in 1925 on business for his father's company and ended up becoming a writ York City stage. He co-founded radio's famous Mercury Theatre with Orson Welles and worked on the "War of the broadcast. He also helped develop the script for Welles' classic 1941 film, "Citizen Kane." He won an Academy Award for his unforgettable performance as Charles Kingsfield in the 1973 "The Paper Chase, which he reprised in the televiion series of the same name. He died in 1988.

Shoo-in Olympic gold med-alists? The greatest basketball team ever assembled? Even the most rudimentary knowledge of international basketball would lead one to proffer tions. But the team has one hurdle to clear before it can begin to think about re-establishing American dominance in Olympic basketball

With the 1992 Summer Olympics less than a month away, the proving process for the 1992 U.S. Olympic basket-ball team begins Sunday, June 28, in Portland, Ore. That's when the squad of NBA superstars and one collegian (Duke's Christian Laettner) plays its first game — against the Cubans — in the Basketball Tournament of the Americas NBC's "Olympic Showcase" has live coverage of the U.S. Cuba matchup on Sunday, June 28, and live coverage of the final game next Sunday.

Besides the United States and Cuba, eight teams from North and South America will be represented at the tournament: Canada, Panama, Argentina, Mexico, Brazil, Uruguay. Puerto Rico and Venezuela. Four squads will qualify for the Olympics.

Also Sunday on "Olympic Showcase" is live coverage of the U.S. Olympic Box-Offs in Phoenix, Ariz., and live coverage of the U.S. Track and Field Trials in New Orleans.

• NBC and HBO continue their coverage as the Wimbledon tennis championships move into their second and final week. (Check listings.) The women's and men's finals air live Saturday, July 4, and Sunday, July 5, on NBC.

· ABC has live coverage of the Miller Genuine Draft 200 in the Milwaukee suburb of West Allis, Wis., Sunday, June 28. Michael Andretti won last

• The Irish Derby is run Sunday, June 28, in Dublin, Ireland, and ESPN has same-day taped coverage of the event. The Irish Derby, along with the English Derby and (take a deep breath) the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Dia mond Stakes, is one of the the British Isles. Last year's winner, Generous, was only the sixth horse ever to win all

• The Chicago White Sox visit the New York Yankees Sun-day, June 28, on ESPN, and one of three games — Chica-go-Atlanta, Cincinnati-Pittsburgh or Milwaukee-Kansas City — airs Saturday, July 4, on CBS.

'Star Wars' sequels headline the week

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

BC airs the "Star Wars" sequels "The Empire Strikes Back" (NBC, June 28) and "Return of the Jedi" (June though with the noticeable absence of the original -on consecutive nights. Since his introduction as the farmboy waif in "Star Wars" (1977). Luke Skywalker (played by Mark Hamill) has begun his warrior apprenticeship under a "P.O.V." documentary about a mother's reunion with the

tion in the early '60s, and an examination by filmmaker Camille Billops of why she chose a life as a New York artist over motherhood. The film interlays testimony from mother and child, home mov ies, and the insights of relatives, with amateurish fantasy segments that do little to elu cidate the film's themes. Billops is correct in her assertion that it's acceptable, in our society, for a father to abandon a child, but unforgiveable for a mother to do the same. However, Billops comes off as no more wrong - or right - than Christa's sailor father, who abandoned mother and daughter upon news of the pregnancy; her perception of feminism as a tool for justifying any and all of a woman's actions is misguided. Christa could have benefited from her mother's experience of cultural inequi ties and, the documentary sug gests, Camille could have He'll say, 'I can't answer this question, because I deny you the right to ask this question.' The man will take a vow of silence.

Contrary to some reports this will not be the first time a gay character has been featured in an in-depth role on daytime television. Donna Pescow briefly played a lesbian on "OLTL" in 1983, and from 1988-90, "As the World Turns" featured a major gay character named Hank Elliot (played by Brian Starcher). Hank partially explained the homosexual lifestyle to the citizens of Oakdale.

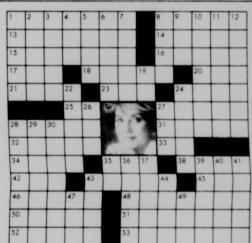

· At the recent "Days of Our Lives" fan luncheon in Los Angeles, Patsy Pease revealed that she'll be coming back to the show to again play Kimberly Brady Donovan. Pease left the show seven months ago to attend to her son Russell, who was born with a heart defect. Pease, who says she was abused by her father when she was a child, also revealed she has sold her life story to NBC to appear as a TV ovie. She will star as herself.

Also lengthening her stay on a soap will be Fiona Hutchison, who plays jewel thief Jenna Bradshaw on "Guiding Light." And, as Hutchison hoped, it looks like her evil character will be getting involved with that other icon of daytime evil. Roger Thorpe (played by Hutchison's old pal Michael Zaslow).

When the layoffs began at Wang Laboratories, John De vine (pictured with his wife) became known as the Funeral Director by his fellow em-ployees. He had been the head of human resources, but then he too was let go. His story and others are part of "Out of Work," airing Friday, July 3, on PBS. (Check local listings.) The hour-long special probes the emotional and economic issues involved with losing one's job and starting over

Board Approves New Toll-Free Phone Contract

Governor William Donald Schaefer said last week that Board of Public Works approval of a new contract for toll-free "800" telephone service for state agencies will maintain free telephone access to much of state government at a lower operating

The state currently has 191 toll-free numbers in operation at an annual cost of approximately $300,000 The new contract will reduce current rates by 37 percent on intrastate calls, and by approximately 50 percent on interstate calls. Chaired by the governor, the board also is comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases. property transactions, and other procurement actions.

This is another example of the state consolidating procurement under one contract and using its bulk purchasing power to achieve substantial operating savings," Governor Schaefer said.

Easily recognizable as toll-free, 800 numbers enable citizens throughout Maryland to call state agencies for information and assistance without incurring along distance charge for the call.

The new three-year contract to MCI Telecommunications Corp. standardizes the way in which 800 services are procured by the state. Previously, agencies used toll-free services from two companies at higher prices. By combining service onto one statewide contract, the state's purchasing power was enhanced and lower prices were the result. The contract format allows local government agencies to utilize the state contract and share in the savings. The Department of General Services has successfully cut costs substantially in a number of cases by utilizing open statewide contracts for telecommunications services. contract with AT&T for long distance telephone service was bid last year, generating savings of more than $4.1 million over three years. Another example is the statewide cellular telephone contract with Cellular One, which was also renewed last year with a 27 percent discount for airtime charges, and a 50 percent discount for subscriber fees

Financial Aid Offered To Child Care Providers

Financial assistance is available for people who want to become registered family child care providers in Mary-

The Department of Human Resources' Child Care Administration will reimburse a person up to $500 for money spent becoming a registered family child care pro-

The money can be used for criminal background checks, medical examinations for each family member in the provider's home, purchase of smoke detectors, fire extinguisher and other things a person may have to do or purchase to become registered The reimbursement program ends September 30. So far, over 300 people have taken advantage of the available money.

The money is part of a Child Care Development Grant Maryland received from the federal government. About $50,000 is still avail-

Audit Of State Energy Billing To Be Conducted

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced last week Board of Public Works approval of a contract to audit energy bills at certain state facilities and potentially recover money if billing overcharges or other errors are found

Maryland is one of the first states in the nation to use this approach to cut state energy expenditures. The state could gain hundreds of thousands of dollars in recovered energy payments during this initial phase, according to the governor's office.

Chaired by the governor, the Board of Public Works also is comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions, and other pro curement actions.

This is a smart way to reduce operating expendi-tures, and it won't cost the state a dime," Governor Schaefer said.

The auditing firm will initially study 45 billing ac counts currently processed by the Department of General Services, totaling $6.5 million annually. The analysis will cover consumption data and actual billings for the past 24 months. The auditor will seek to identify bill ing errors, meter mis-calibration, and inappropriate rate structures. The firm will then negotiate overcharges or requested rate changes with the appropriate utility or energy supplier to obtain refunds, rebates, credits, or rate reductions.

The state will pay no upfront costs for this project. The auditing firm will be paid according to a sliding percentage of actual refunds re-

ALL-AMERICAN PIE

Perfect for a warm day, this double-berry pie boasts sweetened cream cheese and La Creme Whipped Topping folded individually into pureed fresh strawberries and blue-berries. The two fruits form colorful layers on the baked crust for a pie that can be set aside in the freezer for instant use on a pie

> 1 Pet-Ritz Deep Dish Pie Crust Shell, baked according to

- package directions 8 ounces cream cheese, softened
- 4 cup sugar 21/2 cups La Creme Whipped
- Topping, thawed 1 cup fresh strawberries, pureed
- 6 drops red food coloring
- 2 cup strawberry or red raspberry preserves 1 cup fresh blueberries, pureed

In a large bowl, beat cream cheese and sugar until light and fluffy; gently fold in La Creme. Remove one-half of the mixture to another bowl. Gently fold pureed strawberries and red food coloring into half of the mixture. Spread into bottom of cooled pie crust; top with a layer of preserves. Gently fold pureed blueberries into remaining half of cream cheese mixture. Spread on top of preserves. Cover and freeze at least 6 hours or until ready to serve. Let stand at room temperature

WHITE CHOCOLATE BANANA CREAM PIE

After baking and cooling a frozen pie shell layer the popular banana with prepared pudding for instant cream pie. For a simple pie-de-resistance, top it with whipped topping speckled with grated white chocolate.

- 1 Pet-Ritz Regular Pie Crust Shell, baked according to package directions
- 1 box (31/8 ounces) vanilla or banana cream pudding
- (not instant) 2 cups milk
- I ripe banana 2 ounces white chocolate, grated
- (about 3/3 cup) 2 cups La Creme Whipped Topping, thawed

Prepare pudding according to package directions. Slice banana into pudding and pour into cooled pie crust. Place plastic wrap over top of pie and refrigerate. Gently fold one-half of the chocolate into the whipped topping. When pie is cool, spread whipped topping over pudding layer. Sprinkle remaining chocolate over whipped topping. Refrigerate at least 2 hours or until ready to serve.

When it comes to pies, nothing fills them better than fruit. A pie is a memorable way to salute fruit, season to season, and is easier than you think when you use frozen pie crust shells. Fresh fruits traditionally follow the seasons in a parade of flavor. with strawberries in spring and early summer, patriotic flair of blueberries for Fourth of July, peaches in August and apples in early fall. Mellow bananas and tangy fresh lemons are available year-round. Modern methods of production and storage allow the season for each variety to overlap so fruit can provide a showstopping pie on a whim.

The natural sweetness of fruit satisfies active people looking for a bite of cool refreshment. Eating fruit in homemade pie is a delightful way to help satisfy the healthful recommendation that ricans eat at least two servings of fruit each day

Most fresh fruit should be used within three to five days after it has been plucked from the vine or purchased at the produce market. Berries should be used in two or three days. Apples can be stored about one month. Refrigeration holds fruits' peak

With the help of convenient frozen pie crust shells, fruit pie favorites that are fresh at heart can be whipped up without missing

The wonderful thing about a ready-to-bake frozen pie crust shell is that it is the start of a dessert that is not only simple, but spectacular. The convenience of frozen crust endears it to the cook and the flaky quality gives the pie extra appeal. Prick the unbaked pastry with a fork on both the side and bottom to ensure that a crust without filling bakes to a golden brown with a smooth surface. To prevent sogginess, cool before filling.

Flavor and crunch can be added to a pie very simply by sprinkling the unbaked pastry with finely chopped nuts or ground cinnamon, then gently pressing into the crust before adding sweetened fruit. A top crust can be formed easily with a second crust that has been thawed 20 minutes, then gently formed on top of the fruit, its edges crimped and vents cut on top with a knife.

When looking for a refresher that is cool and flavorful, bring home fresh fruits. When seeking that perfect dessert to showcase your fruit, bring on a pie.

STRAWBERRY PIE DE CACAO

This soothing combination of cream cheese and creme de cacao is layered with fresh strawberries, then a fruit glaze made with the berries. Chocolate curls top all for

- 1 Pet-Ritz Deep Dish Pie Crust Shell, baked according to package directions

In a small bowl, combine cream cheese, creme de cacao and 1 tablespoon sugar Beat on medium speed of electric mixer until smooth. Spread on bottom of cooled pie crust. Slice tops off enough of the strawberries to make a single layer and arrange cut side down on cream cheese. Crush remaining strawberries. In a 2-quart saucepan, combine crushed strawberries, remaining 1/2 cup sugar and cornstarch. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened, about 61/2 to 8 minutes. Remove from heat and let cool 10 minutes; pour over strawberries. Refrigerate at least 4 hours. Before serving, garnish with chocolate curls.

TOPSY TURVY APPLE PIE

Two Pet-Ritz Deep Dish Pie Crust Shells create the "topsy-turvy" effect. A sweet and crunchy foundation of brown sugar and pecans is baked under the bottom crust, then the whole pie is turned upside-down to let the crunchy bottom become the "top" for serving. Select a cooking apple, such as Jonathan, or use fresh peaches for a surprising change of pace.

- 2 Pet-Ritz Deep Dish Pie Crust
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 1/4 cup brown sugar 2/3 cup chopped pecans6 cups peeled and sliced Jonathan
- apples (about 1¾ pounds)
- 1/2 cup sugar 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons cinnamon red hot

1 teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven and baking sheet to 375°F. For top crust, invert one crust onto waxed paper; remove pan. If pan is difficult to remove, gently fold the edge of the pan away from the crust. Let inverted crust thaw until flat, 10 to 20 minutes; remove the crimped edge. While frozen, carefully remove second crust (bottom crust) from pan; set aside. (It may be necessary to let crust stand at room temperature 3 to 4 minutes.) Brush butter onto sides, rim and bottom of pan. Add brown sugar and pecans; stir gently; carefully replace crust into pan. As crust thaws, gently press it

In a large bowl, combine remaining ingredients. Spoon mixture into bottom crust. Place top crust over apples. Crimp crusts together at edge; slit top crust. Bake on baking sheet 40 minutes. Remove pie from oven and immediately invert onto serving plate; do not remove pan. Let stand 15 minutes then gently remove pan. Let cool. Best served at room temperature. Makes 8 servings.

Note: six cups peeled and sliced peaches (about 24 pounds) may be substituted Estimated preparation time: 25 minutes

Fruitful Tips for Pies

Colorful fruit suits any occasion. To extend freshness, do not wash fresh fruit until it is time to use it, and then do so gently to avoid bruising.

Apples: Crisp, crunchy, juicy apples vary in vor, color and texture. Summer's backyard varieties, often tart, usually need sweetening when making applesauce or pie. Jonathan is a traditional pie apple, but has a lot of competition from Granny Smith, McIntosh and Winesap varieties. Look for a bright color, with a smooth, firm, unbroken and unbruised surface.

Bananas: Although bananas ripen off the tree best at room temperature, they should be used quickly once they are ripe. Ripe bananas can be refrigerated, but the peels turn dark.

Blueberries: Fresh berries should be plump and firm, with a light graying bloom. Like all berries, they are Lemons: Lemons, already ripe, should be chosen for their firmness and heaviness, so they are loaded with juice. The vitamin C in lemon juice keeps cut fruit like apples, bananas, peaches and nectarines from turning dark. Although tart by itself, a small amount of lemon enhances the flavor of other fruit, such as blueberries and bananas.

Strawberries: Size does not determine sweetness, but keep in mind that California strawberries are supposed to be large. Select firm, plump berries that are full-colored. Store them unwashed in a shallow pan lined with paper towels. Top with more paper towels, then cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate

Math Skills At GCC Enhanced By Unique Projects

Dr. Nancy Priselac, pro fessor of mathematics at Garrett Community College, regularly assigns students in each of her math classes to construct a three-dimensional project relevant to some aspect of the course. In addition, each student writes a mini-research paper on a mathematical topic

In Dr. Priselac's Spring 1992 morning college algebra class, the first place project winner was Robert Hottinger, who wrote a poem entitled "Math" utilizing math terms and concepts. The top five winners in that class were Lona Livengood, who made a geoboard; Lisa Grant, who constructed the four conics; Skip Warnick, who created a clay abstract using conics; Shelley Cassidy, who demonstrated the Pythagorean Theorem; and Christi Markwood, who designed a formula mobile. The first place research paper. "Isaac Newton and His Mathemati cal Contributions," was writ ten by Susette Lipscomb.

In the Spring 1992 evening college algebra class, the first place project winner was Amanda Wakefield, who created a mathematical kaleidoscope. The top six winners were Kathleen Gibson and Ray Uphold, who both constructed the four conics Peggy Riggleman, who made a geoboard; Robin Stanton who created a mathematical jigsaw puzzle; Linda Fousek and Toni O'Donnell, who both created games using algebraic concepts. LWV Urges Bush To Sign Voter Registration Bill

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County (LWVGC) this week applauded congressional passage of the National Voter Registration Act, also known as the national "motor voter" bill, and called on President Bush to sign the legislation

According to league president Connie Margison, "President Bush says he wants to heal the nation's wounds, Mr. President, here is one place you can start. Americans want to participate in their future. Americans need national voter registration reform to break down barriers that discourage and discriminate."

The national motor voter legislation will create a simple, uniform system for registering voters nation- Flinn wide, allowing eligible voters to register to vote at drives' icense bureaus, atother public agencies, and by mail, according to a spokesperson.

"This bill puts voters in the driver's seat," said Ginny Grove, LWVGC board member. "Motor voter is critical to opening up a closed and inefficient voter registration system. If our government values representative democracy, this legislation must be signed into law.

Voter registration reform is an integral part of the league's nationwide "Take Back the System" campaign to re-empower voters and reverse declining turnout at the polls. Nearly 40 percent of the eligible electorate, or 70 million citizens, will not be able to vote this year because they are not registered.

"The National Voter Registration Act will provide uniform and convenient voter registration opportunities for all of our citizens," stated board member, Barbara

MDA Strengthens Swine Disease Regulations

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has announced the strengthening of regulations to go into effect July 6, to protect against swine dis-

'Our new regulations will bring our state in line with the Code of Federal Regulations and help us eradicate pseudorabies disease," Walker said.

Pseudorabies is a disease of swine caused by a herpes virus that does not affect humans. Cases involving Maryland swine have been extremely rare

According to Dr. Henry A. Virts, state veterinarian, all swine sold by dealers or through auction markets or public stockyards must be individually identified by eartag, tattoo, or other approved methods. Before they can be sold for return to a farm, sellers must provide evidence that they have passed a blood test for pseudorabies within 30 days or that they originate from either a pseudorabies-monitored-feeder-pig herd or a qualified-pseudorabiesnegative breeding herd.

Except for those moved directly to slaughter, all swine sold or moved into Maryland are still subject to veterinary inspection for evidence of any infectious or contagious disease and are automatically quarantined at their destination for 30 days," Virts said.

A State Pseudorabies Committee composed of the Maryland Pork Producers Association, breeders, producers, veterinarians, ani mal scientists, and regulatory officials is working with state and federal officials to achieve "pseudorabies free status for Maryland swine

MANURE ON A SEEDBED FOR ALFALFA?

For years the experts have been saying you should avoid putting manure on alfalfa. I never could quite understand why not? Animal manure is high in potash, alfalfa's favorite nutrient. I guess the main reason was that manure generally carries a lot of weed seeds. Recent research work in Minnesota on mixing animal manure in the seedbed for alfalfa had positive results. Weeds were a problem at first, but leveled off with the check plots after the first cutting. The research found that it was extremely important to mix the manure thoroughly into the topsoil. Otherwise, alfalfa may be seeded into bigger concentrations of manure and wheel traffic over the seedbed many cause excessive compaction, Steers: 300-400 lbs., $90.00 to 93.50; 400-500 lbs., 85.00-both reducing alfalfa stand uniformity and yield. Alfalfa appears to be an acceptable alternative error for applying appears to be an acceptable alternative crop for applying

SWEET CORN NEEDS NITROGEN

Are we putting enough nitrogen on our sweet corn? More often than not, we are not applying enough nitrogen. A very common practice in our area is to use around 500 pounds of Triple 19 and forget about the fertility. That is not quite enough nitrogen to do the job. To maximize yields and reach early maturity, it takes about 150 pounds of nitrogen. If you are not at that level of soil nitrogen, I would suggest that you apply approximately 50 pounds of nitrogen by sidedressing dribbling liquid nitrogen. Yields increase should more

POTATO LEAFHOPPER ON ALFALFA

The cool weather has kept the potato leafhopper population down. In fact, the other night at our Alfalfa Field Meeting we netted very few leafhoppers. There is a good possibility that they may not be a problem until around the last of the second cutting. It all depends on the weather. If the weather gets hot, the hopper will develop faster. I still suggest that you check your alfalfa fields at least once a week. If you need instructions on how to determine when to spray, contact me (334-1990).

Walker Speaks To Visiting Chinese Delegation

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L Walker gave to keynote address June 11 at a Food Trade Conference held for a delegation of 20 food experts from China visiting Maryland to learn about agricultural trade and regulatory programs. The U.S.-China Council for International Exchange arranged for the senior executives from Beijing to be in the U.S. from May 31 to July 4.

"At the Maryland Department of Agriculture, we ave had a tremendous opportunity to host delegations from all parts of the globe. As always we are anxious to share ideas and information in the agricultural arena," Walker said.

In his speech to his Chi nese guests, Walker described the many diverse programs his department has to support agriculture and protect consumers. He talked about his efforts to promote Maryland products both domestically and internationally

"In Maryland we have taken a leadership position in establishing strong relationships with our counterparts all around the world. In May I returned from Russia where i solidified agreements in the agricultural arena. In April, I visited Romania where Maryland became the first state to sign a cooperative agri cultural agreement with the Romanian Minister of Agri culture for future exchanges," said Walker.

During the past three years, under these agreements and others, more than 100 farmers, students, specialists, scientists, veterinarians, aquaculturalists, professors and enterprise managers have visited Maryland to learn about U.S. agriculture.

in the future with our counterparts in China. As Maryland's agriculture secretary, I am strongly committed to broadening our trade and investment opportunities between Mary land and the great people of China," Walker said.

The Food Trade Conference allowed the Chinese delegation to meet and discuss potential trade and joint venture investment opportunities with U.S. food industry and food processing equipment manufactur

Healthcare Site Committee Helps Patients Lower Heart Disease Risks

Linda J. Moe, R.N. B.S.N., Healthcare Site Committee chairman of the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division, Garrett County Branch, recently announced that the committee is actively involved in helping patients to lower their risk of heart disease.

One primary responsibility of the Healthcare Site Committee, according to Moe, is to oversee the American Heart Association's programs in Garrett County used by doctors, pharmacists and other health professionals. These programs are based on the finding that positive lifestyle habits can lower the risk of heart attack and stroke in adults.

Healthcare site programs Heart Rx, Active Partnership, and the Pharmacy Car diovascular Risk Factor Control Program -- provide patients with information on exercise, nutrition, smoking and high blood pressure.

"It is our hope, through programs such as these, to contact as many people as possible with simple, educational materials about car diac related diseases." Moe

Other Healthcare Site Committee members include Marsha McKenzie, Sharon Buckel and Helen Heath, all of the Garret County Health Department.

For more information on the American Heart Association Healthcare Site Program, persons may call the Garrett County Branch at

*Pastor Mikhail Kulakov, head of the Moscow Adventist Seminary, who suffered intense persecution for his Christian faith before the fall of Communism, speaks daily at 11 a.m. about his personal experiences and those of other Christians in the former U.S.S.R.

* Dr. Ben Carson, worldfamous pediatric neurosurgeon from Johns Hopkins Children's Center in Baltimore, best known for separating the German Siamese twins joined at the head, will address youth and adults June 27

Also featured at the closing Saturday, June 27, will be a report by students from Mountain State Academy in Pennsboro, West Virginia, who took their senior class trip to Russia to share Christianity with high school students

During the week adult campers attend seminars on children's ministries, wills and trusts, family life, Christian family finances, and healthful living. Children and youth also have meetings and recreation geared to their age groups. Valley Vista's cafeteria serves meatless meals since Seventh-day Adventists recommend, and many practice, a vegetarian lifestyle. Following the annual campmeeting is a summer camping program for children, youth, and families

DURST RELEASES ALBUM - Rodney L. Durst, Swanton, has recently released his second album entitled "Tombstone Baptist," produced by Tim Greene and recorded in Boone, N.C. A single entitled "I'm Not Just a Germ" has been released to radio stations and the Country/Southern Gospel charts. The song revolves around a conversation between a professor and a born-again Christian, Durst explained. The singer wrote all 10 songs on the album, was praised by Greene who said Durst is a "great new artist and excellent songwriter." Greene added that "Tombstone Baptist" is one of the best albums he has recorded this year. Durst explained that the title of the album refers to a church that is "spiritually dead." Other songs include "I Shali Praise Him," "I Can See the Morning Sun," and "Window Above." The tape is available at Christian book stores, the Appalachian Bookstore in Oakland, or persons may contact Durst at 387-6333. The released single may be heard on local station WMSG Monday through Friday during the 10 a.m.-noon Gospel segment

"Smart Capsule" Releases Medicine

A new development in medication delivery to the body is being referred to as the "smart capsule." According to a recent issue of American Pharmacy, researchers who developed the device already have successfully tested the device's sophisticated tracking system in humans. The capsule contains a tiny radio transmitter which sends out radio signals. The signals can be picked up by a computer on the patient. When the capsule reaches its desired destination, the computer triggers the release of medicine inside the capsule. Drugs can be targeted for release in the stomach or small intestine

Accident's July 4 Homecoming Event Schedule Noted

For nearly 100 years, the town of Accident has observed July 4 with picnics. Beginning in 1989, the day's events were broadened into an allday festival featuring a Main Street parade and a wide array of activities. This year's event will honor the veterans of World War II and those whoserved on the home-front. This year's celebration will be held from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. and the following activities are scheduled:

10:30 a.m. - Flag Raising of American and Maryland flags at the War Memorial at Park East by American Legion Post 208, with music by the Accident Concert Band.

9 a.m. - 5 p.m. - Arts and Crafts Show and Sale at the upper level of the fire hall Art Exhibition at the Learn and Play Center.

11 a.m - Main Street Firemen's Parade with bands, floats, and more.

11:30 a.m. - Dinners at the lower level of the fire hall, served by the Ladies Auxiliary, and Accident and Cove Homemakers Clubs

All Day - Food and beverages available at lower level of fire hall:

11:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. - Carnival games at Park East for young and "Young-at-Heart;" historic walking tour, beginning at upper level of fire hall (weather permitting); horseshoe pitching contest at Park East, sponsored by Cub Scout Pack 80; displays of military uniforms at lower level of fire

Noon - Bagpipe music at the fire hall pavilion by the pipes and drums of Garrett ommunity College.

12:45 p.m. - Gospel and fiddle music by the Birkbys at the fire hall pavilion. 1-3 p.m. - Horsedrawn

Wagon Rides, beginning at 1:30 -5, and 7-10 p.m. Bingo on lower level of the fire hall, sponsored by the CHILDREN'S LIVING THEATER, presented this past weekend during Grantsville Days, took dozens of youngsters back to the time of King Arthur. Special costuming enabled the children to assume the roles of knights, fair maidens and sorcerers, as "taleweavers," professional story tellers, guided them through the adventures. An estimated 10,000 persons attended the 15th annual celebration. More photo coverage of Grantsville Days will appear in next week's edition of The Republican. Photo by Craig

Sheriff's Office Arrests Three For DWI Following Vehicle Incidents

The Garrett County Sher iff's Office logged three DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests this past week following one vehicle accident and two routine traffic stops. The officers made other arrests as well, and are investigating cases of property destruction and theft

John P. Montgomery, Woodsboro, (no age provided), was arrested for DWI Saturday following a one-vehicle accident. Montgomery reportedly failed to negoright turn on Deep Creek Drive just south of Point View Inn and struck a culvert with the rear passenger side wheel. This sheered the rear wheel off, causing the vehicle to skid sideways across the road and over the embankment.

The vehicle finally came to rest on a tree approximately 50 feet from the lake. Montgomery was apparently uninjured in the accident In a separate case, a Deer Park man was charged with several traffic violations on Saturday. Amondo R. Polce,), was pulled over near the Par-Matt Lanes Bowling Alley in Mountain Lake Park, and was subsequently charged with DWI, driving recklessly, maintaining a speed greater than reasonable, driving without a license, and failure to obey the lawful order of a police officer

Polce was released on his own recognizance, according to the press release

Jury Finds Man Not Guilty Of Child Abuse

A Mountain Lake Park man was tried by a jury and found not guilty of child abuse and assault and battery last week in Garrett County Circuit Court. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the trial Eugene W. Shiflett, 27, pleaded not guilty to the charges, which were incurred by him following an incident involving a 19-month-old male. The toddler's mother and grandmother discovered severe bruising on his buttocks in February of this year. In the police report included in the court document, the reporting officer wrote that the defendant admitted to the mother that he had punished the child with a belt. Photos of the child, submitted as evidence, showed numerous dark tocks. Based on the testimony given during the trial, the jury found the defendant not guilty of the crime. The testimony given did not prove that Shiflett had actually caused the child's injuries, according to a circuit court spokesperson.

bruises covering his but-

In a separate case, Thomas B. Dale, Elk Garden, W.Va., pleaded guilty with an alford plea to transferring or possessing a vehicle with its identification removed. Thayer accepted the plea and fined the defendant $200 plus court costs. Dale was arrested on September 25, 1991, after Dep. R. Sines of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office noticed that the tractor-trailer the defendant was driving had altered serial numbers. and that the numbers displayed were not registered in any state.

Gary Yoder Receives Awards For Carvings

Gary Yoder, Grantsville, was recently honored at the Ward World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition held in Ocean City. The artist received first and third place awards in the competition for his carving.

In the Open Level of Waterfowl Carving, he was awarded $150 for first place and $100 for the third place in the Open Level of Decorative Miniature Wildfowl.

The Ward World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition, sponsored by Ward Museum of Wildfowl Art, is the largest and most prestigious event of its kind, according to a spokesperson for the event.

Garrett Co. WIC Program Receives Nat'l Recognition

The Garrett County Health Department's WIC Program (Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children) was awarded a certificate of merit as runner-up for the J. Howard Beard Award on June 19. The award is sponsored by the National sociation of County Health Officials, and gives national recognition to outstanding. significant, and exemplary activities of local health departments. Dr. Rex Archer, county health officer, and Carol Bass, WIC Coordinator, accepted the award for Garrett County at the Association convention in Wash ington, D.C

The use of WIC as a gateway to health care access referral was a key reason for this recognition. Cooperation and coordination etween WIC, personal health programs of the Garrett County Health Department, private physicians, and Garrett County

Savage, who received a bachelor of science degree and his commission as a second lieutenant during recent commencement exercises, is a 1988 graduate of Southern High School. While at Southern he was an outstanding member of the football team (1987 state semi-finals), was a nationally ranked (NASTAR) ski racer, and a member of the tennis team, for which he was undefeated in the 1987 and 1988 seasons.

He was also an active member of 4-H and involved in his family's farming operation. He raised and showed the Garrett County Continued on Page A-16

July 4 Fireworks Set In Oakland, Deep Creek Lake

The July 4 weekend will offer spectacular fireworks in two locations to officially kick off the summer season in Garrett County

Broadford Lake Park located off Md. Rt. 135, outside Oakland, will host a celebration and fireworks on July 4. The park will be open from 10 a.m. until dusk with a variety of activities Community fireworks will also be held July 4 at the McHenry Cove at Deep Creek Lake, beginning at dusk. These fireworks are sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Business Association and may be viewed from the arrounding area.

Persons desiring additional information on either event may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Courthouse, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550, telephone (301) 334-1948.

Boaters Warned About 4th of July Fireworks

The Natural Resources Police are urging all boaters to use extreme caution while navigating their boats to McHenry Cove for the 4th of July fireworks Saturday July

Sgt. Tim Doolan of the Natural Resources Police has instructed his officers to inspect all navigational lights on all boats prior to entering McHenry Cove. Any boats that do not have lights or lights that are not properly working will be turned back.

After the fireworks, all boaters are requested to leave McHenry Cove using only idle" speed. This safety precaution is most important. Boaters must remember that every person is responsible for his own wake Boat operators who produce excessive wake will be cited for reckless or negligent operation," said Doolan.

WarVeterans To Be Honored At Broadford

Broadford Lake Park will pay tribute to the veterans of past wars in its annual Fourth of July Emblazon. The park gate will open at 8 a.m on Saturday, July 4, with festivities beginning promptly at 11 a.m. Activities for all ages will be a part of the day's celebration.

Windsurfing lessons and rentals will be available at Broadford's boat launch from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. Sunny Slope Stables will sponsor pony rides and a horse care demonstration at the park between 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A paint gun war at the breast of Broadford's dam will begin at 6 p.m. on Saturday. Supervised group play from 1-3 p.m. will include a visit from "Uncle Sam" and the distribution of small flags by the American Legion to all children visiting the park that day.

A Water Ski and Barefooting Stunt Show will be presented by the Deep Creek Water Sports Club at 4 p.m. at the beach area.

The evening will conclude with a fireworks display sponsored by the Town of Oak land and local businesses and individuals. Fireworks will begin at 9:45 p.m. A moment of silent tribute for area veterans will be observed with the playing of Taps in echo by local musicians during the fireworks show.

Broadford Lake admission for the Fourth of July Emblazon will be $3 percar and $1 perwalk-in. Early arrival for the day's events is suggested, according to a park spokes-

Key Personnel Among Education Board Employees To Retire

Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage this week nounced that a total of 28 board employees, including two assistant superintendents, have or will be taking advantage of the state early retirement incentive plan. Ryscavage told the Garrett County Commissioners during a staff meeting that the total also included 16 teachers (only seven of which will be replaced), three elementary school principals, three teachers' assistants, and one

Among those retiring are John Morris, assistant superintendent of administration; Albert Ringer, assistant superintendentofcurriculum and instruction; John Ledden, Specialist in Career Employability; George Brady, Supervisor of Maintenance and Operations; Accident Elementary School Principal Robert Wilson; Loch Lynn Elementary School Principal Herbert Lambert: and Swan Meadow chool Principal Esther Yoder. Reportedly, the current Director of Student Transportation Michael Sines, will be making a lateral move to replace Brady.

Ryscavage, along with all the other department and agency heads at the meeting, thanked the commissioners for funding the Fiscal Year 1993 budget requests, and noted that the funding and the retirement incentive plan set up by the state were the two main reasons the education board will be more fiscally sound this year. The education board will be screening applicants this mmer to find replacements for the available positions

Ryscavage also noted that an "active staff development plan is already underway' that will include workshops in elementary music, health, language arts, and math. The Summer Youth Employment Program has also be estimated 150-175 youth participating this year.

Health Department Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer, also thanked the commissioners for this year's funding, specifically, for not lowering the property tax rate which "has allowed us to move our contractual employees to fulltime employees with bene

In addition, the new funding set-up at the state level has allowed the department to develop a community outreach program designed to determine the health and safety needs of communities throughout the county. The program will include the hiring of six to ten workers on a part-time basis who will essentially serve as a spokesperson for the community after assessing that com-Continued on Page A-14

STUTZMAN CREATES ANOTHER COLLECTOR'S ITEM - Mark Stutzman, Mountain Lake Park resident and artist of the recently acclaimed Elvis Presley stamp, has achieved another claim to tame through the "Batman Returns" collector cups now available at McDonald's restaurants. He started on the project in February of this year, having one week each, back to back, to complete started on the project in Petrulary of this year, having one week each, back to back, to complete the six designs. He was allowed to see short clips of the film in March and was provided with some reference materials for each character. Ironically, the character for whom Stutzman was provided the least information was Batman himself. Part of the process involved approval by certain actors, including Michael Keaton and Michael Pfeiffer. Keaton apparently approved right away, but Pfeiffer wasn't completely pleased with Stutzman's image of her thighs, so he re-worked that portion of her wash tollinguished by the state of the designment, the artist almost refused because he would be given only three weeks to do the entire project and he didn't feel he would do quality work in that time. The clients then reconsidered the time limit and the deal was settled. Stutzman will be available to sign the cups at the upcoming "Saturday in the Park with Elvis," a celebration for the artist sponsored by the town of Mountain Lake Park on Saturday, July 11, from noon to 5 p.m. at the town Campgrounds area. Events planned include a parade, a two-hour performance of the Silver Eagle Band, several activities for children including pony rides and face-painting, and various booths. D.J. Dan Daniels will be on hand, as well as Cathy Clocker of WKHJ Radio who will conduct an interview with the artist. Several other activities are being planned and the public is structing a new roof. The original Drane House, then, was erected through three phases of construction initiated in the 1790's and concluded by 1825. Much of the surviving fabric reflects the craftmanship of skilled slave labor, and the original evolution of the building is quite evident today. The original residents of the home, James and Priscilla Drane and their eight children, were the first permanent settlers of the Accident

> The Preservation Project

In 1987, the Mayor and Town Council of Accident authorized the formation of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society for the purpose of developing, financing, and implementing a comprehensive preservation plan for the Drane House on behalf of the town.

The town acquired the property in November 1988 with Program Open Space funds. The Garrett County Roads department constructed an access road and parking area in 1989 under authority of the Board of Garrett County Commission-

At the same time, the Accident Cultural and Historical Society directed fencing and partial landscaping of the property and initiated a fundraising campaign which has resulted in private donations to the project of approximately $20,000. In addition. the Mayor and Town Council contributed a total of $10,000 in 1988 and 1989. The Maryland Historical Trust generously supported the Drane House Preservation Project with substantial capital grant awards in 1989 and 1990. A portion of this funding was expended in the investigation and preparation of a professional architectural history of the Drane House in 1989 by Preservation Associates of Hagerstown. Additional funding administered by the Maryland Historical Trust financed intensive archeological investigations at the site in 1989 and 1990 by R. Christopher Goodwin and Associates of Frederick. The archeological work focused on resolving architectural concerns and addressing agricultural, social, cultural, and educational issues pertaining to the site.

The Accident Cultural and Historical Society finalized comprehensive specifications for the Drane House Preservation Project in 1991 and awarded a contract to A.J. Wiley Construction Company of Springs, Pa., for initial stabilization of the home in October of that year. Building components were tagged, and the structure was carefully dismantled and reassembled. The first phase of preservation work was completed in June 1992. This work provided for a new foundation and subfloor system and rehabilitation of the log walls and roof, utilizing original building fabric to the maximum extent possible. Other fabric was stored for future phases of preservation

Our Conclusion...

With less than one week before Garrett County's special election to determine whether or not our county system of government will remain as is or be replaced with charter home rule, we wish to present our opinion on the question at hand.

First, we want to commend the members of the charter board, who spent literally hundreds of hours and, in a few cases, hundreds of their own dollars to fulfill their charge by the county commissioners to write a county charter. They took their job seriously and crafted a charter that received state-wide recognition for its completeness and conciseness. They did extensive research on other charters and then created one which they believe best suits Garrett County.

After reading the charter, doing some of our own research, and listening to the points made by proponents and opponents of the charter, we have concluded that charter home rule is not in the best interest of Garrett County.

Before the petition that required the appointment of a charter board was ever presented to the county commissioners, it was suggested by Delegate George Edwards and others that, instead of going full steam ahead with the charter home rule effort, a committee should be formed to investigate all forms of government and then make a recommendation as to what would best serve Garrett County. This remains a good suggestion.

There is no question, for example, that certain characteristics of charter home rule are desirable, such as the authority to pass certain local laws without having to send them through the state legislature. There are also characteristics of code home rule and the present county commissioner form of government that are desirable. It seems a combination of the best aspects of each would be possible.

The reasons we are opposed to charter home rule are basically the same that the various opponents have expressed in recent weeks. In general, we believe Garrett County is too small, population-wise, for charter home rule. We fear it would lead to much bigger, more complicated, more expensive, local government, even though the proponents of it claim that these are precisely the things that charter home rule would eliminate.

We also believe that much of the effort to adopt charter home rule has been spawned by certain individuals' frustration and dissatisfaction with the individuals who are now serving, or have served, as commissioners. It is unwise to use such rationale for changing one's entire system of government.

There are undoubtedly some readers who will assume that we, the local newspaper, are making this stand because of some form of financial benefit that is available to us under the present county commissioner form of government. On the contrary, if we were basing our opinion on how it would affect us financially, we would staunchly support charter home rule, because the amount of legal advertising would be increased substantially. We would also probably have more issues brought to referendum under charter home rule, which would likewise create additional advertising dollars for us.

We agree that there is a need for change in procedure, and possibly attitude, in the commissioners office, particularly when it comes to providing financial information that is requested by citizens. This information should be readily available for any taxpayer who requests it.

As a final comment, even if charter home rule is happened two Saturdays defeated next Tuesday, we believe that the work of the ago when we had the charter board has not been in vain. Already, the county opportunity to attend a tee responsive by providing financial information not Park.

My grandson, Colbey commissioners have been more responsible and previously shared. We thank the charter writers for Web this, and hope that, regardless of the outcome of the election, the commissioners continue to be more responsive to such requests.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Board of Realtors is an organization made up of large and small independent business people located throughout the county. In addition to being business people, we are citizens with a wide variety of political iewpoints; however, we have developed a consensus opposing Charter Home

Clearly, Charter Home Rule will result in larger government and more bureaucracy. This bigger government machine will be funded by individual and business taxpayers who will inevitably pay the resulting higher taxes. This additional cost of doing business in Garrett County will affect existing busine and existing jobs. Potential new business development will be reduced and ventures may look to other regional areas with more favorable business climates

Another result of bigger government is more regul ation and administrative hurdles for individual and businesses. The personnel time and money required to comply with additional regulation and larger ureaucracy is an added cos of doing business in Garrett In this time of nationwide recession, can this county afford to overburden business and jeopardize jobs, increasing the already high unemployment rate?

The Garrett County Board of Realtors feel that implementing Charter Home Rule will lead to these adverse effects on local business, which will in turn ness climate and higher unemployment. We encourage all county citizens, whether employer or employee, to vote against Charter Home Rule on July 7th.

Jeremy R. Thayer President Garrett County Board of Realtors

To the Editor:

In two letters to the Editor (May 28 and June 25), Dorothy Leighton, chairman, Citizens of Charter Home Rule and Charter Board Committee, used Talbot County as an example of the Charter Home Rule government. She stated that ts government seems to be economical and referred to its $.69 tax rate as opposed to Garrett's $2.24, as proof

There is almost no comparison between thes two counties: Talbot (259 sq. miles) is less than half the size of Garrett (657 sq miles); Garrett has approxi mately 700 miles of roads. Talbot about 400 Talbot's winters are mild compared to Garrett's. As a result, the portion of Talbot County's operating budget allocated for county roads is about 6.2 percent, compared to Garrett's 27 percent

In spite of this huge difference (more than $3 million in the 1991-92 budgets), the total 1991-92 operating budget for Talbot son) more than Garrett's (less than $700 per person.)

It is meaningless to compare Talbot's tax rate with Garrett's. The bottom line is, regardless of the tax rate, Talbot County still has to pay its bills. Since it obviously can't do it with property tax revenues, it must do so with revenues from other taxes.

It seems that the Charter Board Committee was so interested in cutting a few salaries, it forgot other considerations. What's the sense in saving a few thousand dollars in salaries. if we end up paying millions of dollars more for what seems to be a much more expensive form of govern-

We all want more open government. The question s, how much are we willing

Another concern of mine is, where are we going to find candidates to run for five positions on the council when we can't find enough to run for three?

Finally, I resent Ronald Rowan's suggestion in his letter to the Editor (June 18) that those of us who don't agree with this "people empowering initiative his or her own agenda and is in some way connected with the "Big Three" (county ommissioners)

His idea of freedom of thought and expression is too narrow for me. The rationale seems to be, if you agree with "us", okay, if not, you must have an axe to grind. I don't especially care forthis type of "intellectual" intimidation.

Sincerely, Jerry Stewart Oakland

Paula King, played on the Wolf Welding team. That Saturday's game was to be Colbey's last game of the season for Wolf Welding, as he and his sister. Amber. will be spending the summer in Tulsa, Oklahoma

After the game ended, the coaches called all of the players into the dugout. We heard clapping, cheering, and then silence. As we peeked into the dugout, there stood one proud little ball player, as all his were autographing a brand new Tee ball for him! As they handed Colbey his ball and he walked out of that dugout to show us the ball, teardrops were very obvious in my little buddy's eves

Needless to say, there were soon tears in our eyes also This thoughtful act of kindness by the Wolf Welding team made one boy's parting very proud and happy to have been part of the tee ball

I hope all of us can show little acts of kindness every day of our lives.

To the Editor: If you are a registered voter, a citizen of Garrett County, and concerned about the future of our county, I urge you to vote on July 7th. There is a lot of confusion and statements being made which tend to lead people to believe something that is not true. People are led to believe that if the Charter Home Rule is adopted, we will be like the state of Garrett County and no longer under state urisdiction and laws Believe me, that's a joke! We will continue to be a ounty in the state of Maryland and under our state legislature! County was well over $5 thing that will change is the million (over $800 per per-method used to enact local thing that will change is the

People are also led to believe that Charter Home will be less expensive, which does not make sense to me. When I add up five council members salary and then add 70 to 80 thousand

I also question the one man or woman administrator theory which can lead to a one person government, who could be influenced by every special interest group who could swing a gold nugget in their face. Could the administrator system turn out to be like the Gates situation in Los Angeles, where the city could not get rid of him and had to beg him to resign? When I read the Charter, I decided the Charter was too complicated and it would take someone with a great amount of political knowledge to compile this document. I later learned that the Charter Board was, as stated, assisted by some agency of the University of Maryland, who deals with governmental policy. So if it's adopted we are led to believe that we won't be under Annapolis control, but be moved a few miles to College Park. If you have followed the articles in our county paper, we have been given an example of a big government policy at work in Garrett County. The Institute for Governmental Services from the University of Maryland, who I suspect assisted in writing the Charter Home. has furnished information to the town of Oakland that they are due to a tax differential from the county. If so, then Grantsville Friendsville, Accident, Mtn. Lake Park, Loch Lynn, Kitzmiller, and possibly others are entitled to some tax differential. If we get into this type of govern-mental policy, it will take more than five part-time councilmen to oversee our county government. In conclusion, we should applaud our county commissioners for making the operate county landfill instead of having an outside contractor do it. If the landfill is operated and managed properly, it could finance at least half of the county's annual operating expense and accept no hazardous material.

that does not show less

Yet in her letter it is evident she has never read the proposed home rule charter Garrett County and has based her negative comments on advertise-ments by the opposition to the Charter. As a former newspaper editor, had she read the Charter, she would not have honestly stated "five elected politicians to pay instead of three" and "a very expensive County Administrator. The Charter does provide for five elected representa-tives to the County Government. However, the annual pay for the five elected representatives is considerably less than annual pay of three County Commissioners. The Garrett County Commissioners will receive an annual salary of 500 (1993) and $28,000 (1994). Compare that to the $12,000 received by the Allegany County Commissioners. The annual pay prescribed in the Charter is $15,000 annually which is still a higher salary than paid by nine other Maryland counties.

To put it another way, the Charter will provide for five elected representatives in our County government at less annual pay than the three County Commissioners and we will have more equitable representation in the courthouse from areas in the county which have heretofore been neglected. One representative will be elected from each of five county districts. To say the Charter will bring about a "very expensive County Administrator" is an admission that the writer does not have the knowledge that Garrett

In practice the Garrett County delegate and senator make the real decisions in a system of "you vote for my bill and I'll vote for yours." County bills which the delegate doesn't like are rarely passed; those which he likes are most often passed. The only reason the system works at all is that we have a sensible and decent delegate. This has not always been the case and there is no assurance that it will always be the Charter rule is home rule. Legislative power will be vested in a council which the citizens of Garrett County elect. If we don't like their laws, we vote them out of office. Other counties will no longer have decisionmaking authority over how our county is run; the delegate from Garrett County still has considerable power, but he no longer acts as a gatekeeper for all county legislation.

2. At the present time, executive power in the county rests with the three commissioners. Our present commissioners are all amiable people, but not one has any experience running multi-million dollar government. The present ambiguous system in which the putative county administrator and the commissioners share executive power encourages commis sioners, administrators and the public to confuse functions. Hence the messy system we now have which led to the drive for home rule in the first place.

Under Charter Rule, executive power will be vested in a professional dministrator, a person who is trained to operate county governments and who has governments and who has acquired experience in the field by serving in similar governments or businesses. The administrator will carry out the laws, ordinances and policies of the council the council.

Neither system guarantees higher or lower costs, better or worse legislators or administrators. Good and bad, efficient and wasteful can flourish under either system. In the long run, the change has nothing to do with individuals presently in power nor with those who want to be in power. The true issues concern who will govern the county.

I am writing regarding the proposed Charter Home Rule for Garrett County that will be voted on July 7th. I have spent a considerable amount of time recently reviewing the performance of our present form of government over the past ten years. While anyone may have an occasional gripe or two, the overall performance of the various Boards of County Commissioners have been quite good, in my opinion, during that period of time. I really think that it would be a big mistake to abolish our present form of government in order to adopt a system that offers nothing but uncertainty as to whether or not it will do the job. Should we give up a proven system that works for what is basically a "pig in the poke?"

Given what I know from experience about our present form of government, I hope the people of Garrett County vote to reject Charter Home Rule and to keep the form of government that has served us well for that has served the past 120 years. Sincerely,

Bob Groves Loch Lynn

To the Editor:

The barrage of letters from people opposing the changes suggested for Garrett County's form of government has been interesting. The burden of the argument seems to be that the County's forefathers knew what was best not only for their time but for all time, and that any changes would be, if nothing else, disrespectful to their wisdom. The implications of disrespect are more surprising when one looks at the background of the members of the Charter Board.

Three Board members are direct descendants of honored early settlers. Jack Hinebaugh, chairman, is descended from John Friend, a first settler. Jack operates Friend's Store at Sang Run, which was established in 1769. Jessie Guard McCullough is also a descendant of John Friend and of both a county com-missioner and a delegate. Richard Condon Browning is a direct descendant of Meschach Browning, another esteemed early

To the Editor:

Allow me to add my thoughts to those of many others regarding the "special election" of July 7th. The opportunity to vote is indeed a precious one; paid for the blood, sweat, and tears of our forebears. We must maintain faith with them and exercise this privilege on the 7th of July. The issue in question is one with far-reaching consequence for all the citizens of this county for years to come. Though I have friends and associates on both sides of this matter, I must firmly oppose the proposal. The spectra of larger government at more cost and greater govern-mental restriction cannot but lead to the old idiom "if it ain't broke, don't fix it." I don't agree with everything that is done by our local government, but on the whole our local government is responsive to its constituency; it has been very cost conscious; and in short it is, and has been a very satisfactory one. I recommend opposition to the Charter Home Rule on July 7th, and I urge all citizens to vote -- pro or con

VICA Conference

John Moreland, a student Southern High School, attended the 28th National Leadership Conference and VICA United States Skill Olympics in Louisville, Ky.

Moreland, Oakland, and his instructor are sponsored by General Motors Corporation, one of more than 450 businesses that support the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA). He competed against other state winners from 49 states, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico in the Automotive Service Technology competition.

VICA is an organization for students in public school trade, industrial, technical and health occupations training programs. Through professional development programs, and skill competitions, industry and vocational education are united in a spirit of cooperation and commitment to these students and to their futures as members of America's workforce. The VICA Skill Olympics were held June 22-26 with more than 7,000 students and instructors in attendance. Winners of the events were honored at an Awards Ceremony at the Kentucky Fair & Exposition Center Freedom Hall Coliseum.

OFFERING WRITING WORKSHOPS - Susan Haydel, awardwinning poet, will be offering creative writing workshops this summer for area children and teens. The workshops will be held at Haydel's McHenry residence, and young writers will be invited to share their written works with other workshop participants. Intended to be a supplement to school language arts programs, the emphasis will be on self-expression through the mediums of story, poetry, and play writing. Spelling and grammar skills are not necessary, and younger children may participate by dictating to an adult or older child, according to Ms. Haydel. Workshop dates are August 3-7 for those entering grades 1-4, August 17-21 for those entering grades 5-8, and August 24-28 for those entering grades 9-12. The cost is $35 per participant. To register, persons may call 387-9518. Ms. Haydel, who has won poetry awards from Scholastic Magazine and Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum, is pictured above with her daughters Emily and Jamie.

Dr. Archer stated. "We are very proud of our WIC Program. Generally across the state and nation the communities that have high unemployment and other indicators of poverty have high percentage of babies born with ow birth weight which is a significant cause of infant deaths. Our WIC Program has helped us to have fewer low birth weights similar to the rates in low unemployment/high wage counties. It is one of the most important reasons why we have reduced our infant death rate to less than one out of 120 births compared to one out of 12 births sixty years ago.'

Abounding Hope Ministry Set For Month of July

Abounding Hope is a ministry for troubled people, according to a Church of the Nazarene spokesperson. "In particular, during the month of July, we reach out specifically to victims of depression, perhaps accompanied by suicidal urges, said the spokesperson. Those in need are encouraged to contact the Rev. Bruce Knorpp, pastor of the Oakland Church of the Nazarene, at 301-334-9161 to make an appointment for confidentialconversation and prayer. That number serves both the church and the parsonage and is covered in the pastor's absence by an answering machine.

This ministry is provided without cost because someone does care," said Pastor Knorpp. "God can put his light of hope at the end of your darkness.

Alcohol Awareness Program Changes Are Announced

The 1992 session of the Maryland General Assembly made several changes to a $1989\, state \, law \, that \, requires$ the licensee or an employee of an establishment that serves alcoholic beverages for onsite consumption to complete an approved alcohol awareness training course, says State Comptroller Louis L.

"The legislature, among other things, expanded the alcohol awareness training requirement for the first time to licensees who sell alcoholic beverages for off-site consumption. Those licensees are required to attend an approved training course before July 1, 1993," Goldstein

According to other changes enacted by the legislature, licensees or employeeswhocurrentlyholdavalid alcohol awareness training certificate must be retrained every four years after July 1, 1993. An alcohol awareness training certificate issued on or after October 1, 1992, will have a four-year validity. the legislature also decided that an alcohol training certificate issued prior to August 1, 1989, will not be valid after July 1, 1993.

The law now also mandates that all approved alcohol awareness training courses must include a section of how to determine if a customer is under the legal drinking age The comptroller has approved 22 training programs that can be used to comply with the state law. The prothe effects of alcohol on the body, on serving alcohol in a way that minimizes intoxication, stopping service before the customer is intoxicated, and drinking and driv-

The training program providers are required to notify the respective county liquor boards of the names and addresses of individuals they have certified, along with the certification date and the name and address of the licensed establishment the person represents.

"Local liquor boards are monitoring the alcohol awareness training requirements as part of their routine liquor dealer inspections," Goldstein

Penalties for non-compliance include a first offense fine of $100 and subsequent offenses carry a $500 fine and/or suspension of liquor licenses.

Astronomy To Be Offered To Youth By FSU

The Frostburg State Uniersity Planetarium offers 'Sky Explorers," a summer course for third through eighth graders interested in astronomy. The class will meet Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 11-13 and 18-20, 7:30-9 p.m. Early registration is advised as the class will be limited to 20 students. The last day to register is August 6.

According to Dr. Bob Doyle, director of the FSU Planetarium and instructor of the course, one of the most interesting science areas for students in the primary and middle school grades is outer space, and many students receive telescopes as gifts which all too soon find their way into a closet or attic. rarely to be seen again. "Sky Explorers is designed to bring those instruments back into service," explained Dr. Doyle.

The students will be taught by eye the important stars and star groups in the sky, then the basic usage and maintenance of binoculars and small telescopes. Students will learn the significance of what they have viewed through their optical equipment. "The course concludes with an introduction to scientific calculators. pocket-sized marvels that can handle the vast space distances and can be used to predict the time of celestial happenings." Garrett Legion Team Drops Four Of Five Contests

It was a rough week for the Garrett County Junior American Legion baseball team, as Coach Ed Wildesen's team dropped three Mountain District contests and split a doubleheader in a non-district match-up with Bridgeport, W.Va.

Garrett was topped last Thursday evening in Cumberland by Cumberland Legion Post 13, 9-5; was edged by league-leading Farrady Post 24 in Frostburg on Saturday, 5-4; lost the opener to Bridgeport, 6-1, and won the nightcap, 3-2; and then fell to visiting Fort Cumberland Post 13 on Tuesday at Garrett Community College, 10-6.

KEYSTONE HOMES

We are taking orders now for September, October, and November, so don't delay. See us today so you can begin planning your home to fit your own exact needs. We have many styles to choose from. Ranchers, split foyers, 2-story split levels, Cape Cods, town houses, and duplexes. Get your order in now and you will be in that new Keystone Home before the snow flies.

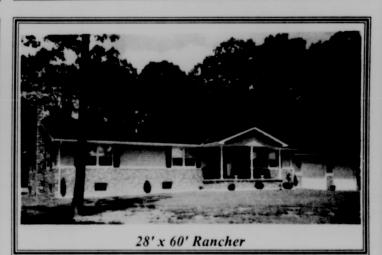

25' x 54' Rancher

Completely finished from the plate up on your foundation. We set all of our homes with a crane so there is no stress on your foundation. All of our homes come with the energy package which is standard. Insulation is R19 walls, R19 floor, R32 ceiling, Andersen Thermopane vinyl-clad wood windows with screens, a very big energy-saver, and they never need painting. Exterior doors are metal insulated with storm doors; total electric heat with thermostats in each room. You have your choice of interior drywall, paneling or both. Drywall has two coats of the paint of your choice; beautiful, textured 1/2" drywall ceiling over a 3/8" plywood sub ceiling. Nice selection of top grade carpet throughout home except for kitchen and baths. There we offer a no-wax linoleum by Armstrong. This is put over a super strong floor. Floor joists are 2x10, 16' on center. Kitchen and bath have your choice of vinyl wall coverings, beautiful kitchen cabinets with stainless steel sinks, 30" GE electric range; exhaust fans in kitchen and bath, vanity-in-bath, with a one-piece fiberglass tub and shower; 52-gallon hot water heater, vinyl siding, shutters, gutter and down spouts, 5/12 roof pitch on 25' and 28' wide models. This home can be designed to fit your own needs at no charge. A home is a big investment today so shop around and compare. But before you buy, be sure and see a Keystone Home...we think it will speak for itself.

DISASTER CALL RECEIVED -- The first major disaster drill in nearly a decade took place last week as the call was received by Garrett Central Alarm communications center that a severe electrical storm in the Oakland area had caused fire, explosions and injuries to local residents. The event was staged by the Cuppett Management Company, Inc., whose Director of Resource Development Robert Trantham stated that the exercise followed the format of a disaster drill developed and implemented by the Nursing department of Dennett Road Manor in September 1982. Evaluators critiqued the event which is designed to "measure our capabilities in the event of a real disaster by identifying our strengths and weaknesses," said Trantham. Shown above is Mike Saunders, a dispatcher at Central Alarm, who received the call at 6:01 p.m. last Thursday.

DISASTER SCENES took place at both Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home and Loch Lynn School, where emergency personnel and nursing staffs helped with the injured victims (shown above and above right), some of whom were then transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for the appropriate care, as is depicted below. The less serious injuries were handled at the National Guard Armory. The last disaster drill on this large a scale took place about 10 years ago. This award is given annually by the council and was presented this year at the Maryland Career Development Association's annual Spring Conference held in Columbia. "College and Me" is an innovative early college intervention program developed by the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett Community College. The program serves all fifth grade students in the public school system, providing them with enrichment activities and increasing their college awareness. Students participate in activities such as constructing an electronic math board, studying whitewater currents, conducting a mock archeological dig, and participating in a variety of arts and theatre activities. workers. During two days of training participants learned about techniques for dealing with the emotional and financial impact of being laid off, as well as job search skills. Small group sessions focused on identifying transferable skills, locating job opportunities through networking, completing applications, preparing resumes and interviewing successfully. Training and employment options were also explored. The training was sponsored and funded by the Western Maryland Consortium, in conjunction with Garrett Community College and the Office for Employment and Economic Development. Those leading the training included Sandy Major and Lynne Glotfelty from GCC, Sue Shockey from the Western Maryland Consortium, Ms. Anderson from the Department of Economic and Employment Development, and Jim Hazen, a dislocated worker counselor. Thirty-five former employees of Garrett Manufacturing who were laid off because of a recent plant shutdown participated in the classes. While many of these workers will be seeking new jobs in the near future, others will be entering training programs to develop new job skills. Employers interested in learning more about those seeking jobs are encouraged to contact The Western Maryland Consortium at 334-8136 or The Job Service Office at 334-3972.

Hospice Forms Committee For Support Services

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc. recently formed a committee designed to provide support services to people who have been diagnosed with a terminal illness or people who have family members who are terminally ill.

The committee will work with each individual person's needs and provide emotional support, education, and guidance, according to a Hospice spokesperson. The eventual goal of the committee will be to develop support groups for people with terminal illness and, if the need exists, for family members of the terminally

The support group will provide a format for individuals to interact with others in situations similar to their own. "This has proven most effective in reducing a person's sense of isolation and hopelessness," said the spokesperson.

Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice stated, "A number of people have contacted our office looking for this type of support. We see a need in the community and we want to help. This service will be available to anyone in the county. You do not need to be a Hospice patient to participate.

Some purposes of the support group will be: To offer support and friendship to others in like

THE PRESIDENTIAL ACADEMIC FITNESS AWARD was presented to several fifth grade students at Accident Elementary School. The criteria for the award requires the students to attain a B+ average and score in at least the 80th percentile on a standardized achievement test. In the front row, left to right, are Janelle Bender, Erika Kahl, Jesse Shimrock, and Ann Seboid. In the second row, same order, are Jeff Carr, Lee Railey, Kerry Ashby, and Kelli Elliott. The students received a certificate signed by President Bush and an award pin. Janelle Bender and Lee Railey, the girl and boy who attained the highest grade point average in the group of academic fitness award winners, were specially recognized by having their names added to an engraved plaque that displays the names of the highest girl and boy achievers for each year. The plaque was donated by the school's PTA. Ann Sebold, a fifth grader at the school, is shown below with Robert Wilson, school principal. Ann earned the Woodmen of the World Award for achieving the highest average in social studies. She was given an engraved plaque

Two Treated At Local Hospital Following Mishap

Two persons were trans-ported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a 3 p.m. mishap Wednesday involving four vehicles. The mishap occurred at the intersection of Md. Rt. 135 and Loch Lynn.

Treated and released from the local hospital were Shirl M. Thomas, Swanton; and Sheree R. Friend, Oakland, according to a nursing spokesperson at the hospital. Thomas J. Panther and a juvenile also involved in the accident were reportedly not seen at the hospital, said the spokesperson.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, the accident occurred when Panther, operating a GMC pickup, stopped behind a car making a left hand turn in the westbound lane of Rt.

Large Crowd On Hand At Third Annual Logger/Forestry Field Day

Association Third Annual Logger/Forestry Field Day held on June 12-13 was deemed a great success by its organizers. There were 33 commercial exhibitors, 25 information and education groups and four crafts groups in attendance. Approximately 2000 people attended the day and a half event.

The Field Day activities began at noon Friday with a ribbon cutting ceremony. Pete Miller, Planning Committee chairman for the Western Region Field Day and MFA vice president served as master of ceremonies. Dignitaries present for the ribbon cutting were: Senator John Hafer; Elwood Groves, county commissioner; John Forman, MFA president; Robert Webster, re-

The forest industry has one of the highest accident rates in the nation, so safety was stressed throughout the event as several exhibitors had safety equipment on display used to promote individual safety.

In addition, the Maryland Department of Transportation Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division and the Maryland State Police provided truck inspection demonstrations to show loggers and truck drivers the importance of properly maintaining their vehicles to comply with the law Phil Pannill, DNR-Forestry Division, provided "gold card" training for over 50 loggers on sediment and erosion control practices for forest harvest operations. Every forest harvest operation must have at least one person on the job at all times that has a "gold card" certifying that he has received training in sediment and erosion control

Special attractions this year were a falconry demonstration on Friday and Saturday afternoons by Floyd and Sharon Presley from Frostburg; chainsaw evaluations by Keystone Stihl; a log loader contest put on by Hubler Brothers; and a crosscut saw demonstration by students from Allegany Community College's Forestry Club. Horse logging demonstrations were provided by Aaron Tice, Grantsville; and Orcal Shaffer, Hyndman, Pa. The Fun Run this year drew 13 runners from the 5K run.

The information and education groups this year included several sportsmen's clubs, displays from three colleges, six Department of Natural Resources units, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, and Potomac Edfson Company.

Public Comment Is Requested On Forest Plan Goals

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has released draft goals for the Green Ridge State Forest and Potomac/Garrett State Forest 10-year Resource Management Plans.

Brown said the effort to establish broad goals represents an early step in the planning process. DNR is currently soliciting public comment on the goals which are based on those developed for the Savage River State Forest in 1991. Dr. Brown said, "The goals reflect DNR's legal mandate for balanced meetings will be held in the insurecontinuing benefits for multiple use in the forest as well as an evaluation of the wants and needs of the pub-

PRESBYTERIAN

Background Scripture: Devotional Reading:

Habakkuk voices concerns that are very timely in our own day. It is the voice of a man who has waited for God to answer his prayers and we can discern his impatience and perturba-tion: "O Lord, how long shall I cry for help, and thou wilt not hear? Or cry to thee "violence!" and thou wilt not save?" (1:2). It is an anguished question that sounds very much like a com-

Haven't you ever felt that way: "How long shall I cry?" How many years do I have to go praying the same prayers? Where is all this help we've been taught to expect? What's the point in 'keeping the faith, if the faith doesn't keep me Are you there, Lord. And if you're there do you hear me? And if you hear me, why don't you answer? I'm told you will eventually do something, but my need is now; why can't you be on

CANDID PRAYERS

Please note that when Habakkuk pours out his heart in complaint, God does not respond with indignation or pique God is not put off with hard but honest questions such as these. Better that Habakkuk is honest with the Lord and puts his questions and complaints on the table where they can be dealt with. Some times that which weakens our prayer life is a lack of candidness. We would all be better off if we were more honest to God. If we try to deceive him about the way we feel, it is ourselves that we are deceiving.

What is bothering Habakkuk? Essentially it is a matter of injustice: "Why dost thou make me see wrongs and look upon trouble? Destruction and violence are before me; strife and contention rise ... For the wicked surround the righteous, so justice goes forth perverted" (1:3.4). We can also identify with Habakkuk in this, too, for our world is full of injustice and there are so many places where the wicked are not only getting away with it, but prevailing, too. We're told that eventually God will cause justice to tri-umph, but we're here now and we can't help asking/complaining, "O Lord, how long, how long?) TWO VOICES Habakkuk 1 is a dialogue

between Habakkuk and the Lord. After the prophet has voiced his complaints, God answers in his own inimitable way "Look among the nations, and wonder and be astonished. For I am doing a work that you ould not believe if I told" (1:5). Habakkuk may not have thought God was hearing and answering his prayer, but that s because the prophet doesn't have the spiritual discernment to always know what God is doing. If Habakkuk could see what God is doing he would be "astonished" -- for that's how different it is between the way God works and the way we think. Because we see no direct evidence that God has heard our prayer, we wrongly assume

God was directing the affairs of nations so that he could respond to this great need for justice. But it was not in a way which would be easily recognizable to the people. "For lo, I am rousing the Chaldeans, that march through the breadth of the earth, to seize habitations not their own" (1:6).

So, is God as unpunctual as he often seems? By our standards and concepts of time --which are hardly cosmic -- the answer can hardly escape being "yes." But, if we could get a we'd realize that God is truly in control and that he never really keeps us waiting: "For still the vision awaits its time; it hastens to the end -- it will not lie. If it seems slow, wait for it; it will surely come, it will not

This Western was released in 1943. It was short - only 57 minutes long. Its large cast included Dave "Tex" O'Brien, Jim Newill, Guy Wilkerson, Janet Shaw and Cal Shrum and His Rhythm Rangers (Robert Hoag, Don Weston, Rusty Cline and Art Wenzel). An even shorter version of the movie was released in 1947 under the title "Thundergap Outlaws."

SOAP SCOOP

'Guiding Light' special was pretty dim viewing

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

t's not a bad idea to hype daytime soaps in prime time.

A special edition of "Days of Our Lives," airing prior to "The Soap Opera Awards," rated well on NBC, which also aired a special episode of "Another World" before the recent Daytime Emmys.

But CBS's "Guiding Light: The Primetime Special" last month was a disaster, made all the more painful by the fact that "GL" is the finest soap on the air right now.

The special wasn't as much a commemoration of the oldest soap on the air as it was a pitch for "GL" to the prime time audience. How else could you explain the opening montage of explicit sex scenes that have aired on the show over the past few years? They were hardly representative: over most of its history, "GL" has been the most conservative soap on the air!

The special featured interviews with soap stars who with "GL," such as David Canary (who plays Adam on "All My Children"), Jeanne Cooper (who plays Katherine on "The Young and the Restless") and Erika Slezak (who plays Viki on "One Life to Live"). The only two alumni who seemed happy to be there were Kim Zimmer (who once played Reva on "GL") and John Wes-ley Shipp (who once played Kelly on "GL").

And the scripted dialogue! A segment in which cast members blurted soap operatic lines like "It's your baby" and "It's my baby?" to one another was ludicrous. The excellent regular "GL" writers appar ently had nothing to do with this; someone named Lee Worst of all, viewers learned nothing of "GL" 's glorious history. The tribute to the beloved Charita Bauer, who played Bert Bauer from the show's 1952 TV debut until her death in 1985, was paltry. Agnes Nixon, Bill Bell and Douglas Marland, all of whom had been writers for "GL, were interviewed briefly, but they all looked adrift. Historical clips were presented with little or no explanation. Some notable characters, like Mike Bauer (formerly played by tioned at all!

Sure, it was great to see brief 15-year-old clips of young Roger and Holly (played by Michael Zaslow and Maureen Garrett) and 10-year-old clips of Lisa Brown (who now plays Iva on "As the World Turns" as the irrepressible Nola Reardon, if you understood their context. BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE IS GOD PUNCTUAL? July 5, 1992

Background Scripture: Devotional Reading:

Habakkuk voices concerns that are very timely in our own day. It is the voice of a man who has waited for God to answer his prayers and we can discern his impatience and perturba-tion: "O Lord, how long shall I cry for help, and thou wilt not hear? Or cry to thee "violence!" and thou wilt not save?" (1:2). It is an anguished question that sounds very much like a com-

Haven't you ever felt that way: "How long shall I cry?" How many years do I have to go praying the same prayers? Where is all this help we've been taught to expect? What's the point in 'keeping the faith, if the faith doesn't keep me' Areyou there, Lord. And if you're there do you hear me? And if you hear me, why don't you answer? I'm told you will eventually do something, but my need is now; why can't you be on

Please note that when Habakkuk pours out his heart in complaint, God does not respond with indignation or pique God is not put off with hard but honest questions such as these. Better that Habakkuk is honest with the Lord and puts his questions and complaints on the table where they can be dealt with. Some times that which weakens our prayer life is a lack of candidness. We would all be better off if we were more honest to God. If we try to deceive him about the way we feel, it is ourselves that we are deceiving.
What is bothering Habakkuk? Essentially it is a matter of injustice: "Why dost thou make me see wrongs and look upon trouble? Destruction and violence are before me; strife and contention rise... For the wicked surround the righteous, so justice goes forth perverted" (1:3,4). We can also identify with Habakkuk in this, too, for our world is full of injustice and there are so many places where the wicked are not only getting away with it, but prevailing, too. We're told that eventually God will cause justice to tri-umph, but we're here now and we can't help asking/complaining. "O Lord, how long, how long?) TWO VOICES between Habakkuk and the Lord. After the prophet has voiced his complaints, God an swers in his own inimitable way "Look among the nations, and ; wonder and be astonished For I am doing a work that you ould not believe if I told" (1:5). Habakkuk may not have thought God was hearing and answering his prayer, but that is because the prophet doesn't have the spiritual discernment to always know what God is doing. If Habakkuk could what God is doing he would be "astonished" -- for that's how different it is between the way God works and the way we think. Because we see no direct evidence that God has heard our prayer, we wrongly assume he is doing nothing.

God was directing the affairs of nations so that he could respond to this great need for justice. But it was not in a way which would be easily recognizable to the people. "For lo, I am rousing the Chaldeans, that bitter and hasty nation, who march through the breadth of the earth, to seize habitations not their own" (1:6)

So, is God as unpunctual as he often seems? By our standards and concepts of time . which are hardly cosmic -- the answer can hardly escape being "yes." But, if we could get a God's-eye view of our world, we'd realize that God is truly in control and that he never really keeps us waiting: "For still the vision awaits its time; it has tens to the end -- it will not lie If it seems slow, wait for it; it will surely come, it will not

'In a New Light' seeks an end to an epidemic

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

oe Lovett's ambitions for his ABC special dedicated to the fight against AIDS, "In a New Light" (airing Saturday, July 11), may be grandiose, but one can only hope that he fulfills every single one of them.

We want to stop this epidemic," the producer says. "No one who is not infected today need become infected tonight. or any other night. We want to make people aware of it. We want to put them in an emotional frame of mind so they can get information to take action, to change their behavior, to help to change other peoe's behavior, and help for the people who are being

The special, introduced by Elizabeth Taylor and hosted by Linda Lavin, Bruce Davison and Robert Guillaume (who lost his own son to AIDS), boasts a star-studded lineup. "Barry Manilow sings 'I

Barbara Walters called me and said that Phil Beuth wanted to get involved in a project about AIDS where he could make a difference," says Lovett. "It turned out that his son had died of AIDS. I had done a documentary on the first 'Heartstrings' tour (a musical tour that has traveled with the AIDS quilt). I showed him the documentary and said, 'Do you think you could help me get it syndicated?' Phil said, 'I think we can do better than that; I think we can get it on the network

TV DIALOGUE

JULIE JULIE JULIE Didn't Julie Andrews have her own TV show in the past, or am I confusing this with her frequent appearances on "The Carol Burnett Show"? Also, how old is she, and what part of England is she from' D.K., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

1972-73. Andrews hosted "The Julie Andrews Hour," a variety show, for which she won an Emmy Award. In addition to her frequent appearances on "The Carol Burnett Show," Andrews has appeared with Burnett in the musical specials "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall" (1962), "Julie and Carol at Lincoln Center" (1971) and "Julie and Carol: Together Again" (1989). Andrews recently returned to TV with a limitedrun ABC sitcom called "Julie Andrews, who is 56, was born Thames-on-Walton, Hopkins is British but not English: He was born in 1937 in Port Talbot, Wales, where his parents owned a bakery.

BAD' MEMORIES - I remember a vintage cowboy movie called "Bad Men of Thunder Gap," but none of my elderly friends can recall it, and I don't remember who starred in it. Can you help? M.M., St. Louis

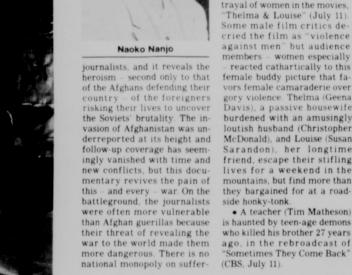

This Western was released in 1943. It was short - only 57 minutes long. Its large cast included Dave "Tex" O'Brien, Jim Newill, Guy Wilkerson, Janet Shaw and Cal Shrum and His Rhythm Rangers (Robert Hoag. Don Weston, Rusty Cline and Art Wenzel). An even shorter version of the movie was released in 1947 under the title "Thundergap Outlaws."

With the All-Star break coming up next week, this is a good time to review how some of this season's more notable free-agent transfers have been faring in their new surroundings.

First up: Bobby Bonilla, who inked a five-year, $29 million deal with the New York Mets that should provide for several generations of his family. B-

The Mets' preseason spending binge also produced veteran slugger Eddie Murray, who has been every bit as productive as Bonilla - and at a fraction of the price — and second baseman Willie Randolph, who has been hitting well under his career average

Across town, the Yankees

Danny Tartabull brought a hefty batting average and slugging percentage, but hamstring problems have ham-pered his effectiveness.

The Toronto Blue Javs. seeking the final pieces to their championship puzzle, added pitcher Jack Morris and designated hitter Dave Winfield. Morris hasn't led the staff, but he has become a strong second man in the rota tion behind Juan Guzman Winfield has been reborn north of the border, where he is among the team leaders in most offensive categories. As always, pitchers figured largely in the preseason sweepstakes: Besides Morris, Rick Sutcliffe and Frank Viola changed addresses via free agency. Sutcliffe, who earlier this season became one of the few pitchers to have defeated all 26 major-league teams, has been a strong addition in Baltimore, where he led the staff in wins and innings pitched. SOAP SCOOP

t's not a bad idea to hype daytime soaps in prime time.

A special edition of "Days of Our Lives," airing prior to "The Soap Opera Awards," rated well on NBC, which also aired a special episode of "Another World" before the recent Daytime Emmys.

But CBS's "Guiding Light: The Primetime Special" last month was a disaster, made all the more painful by the fact that "GL" is the finest soap on the air right now.

The special wasn't as much a commemoration of the oldest soap on the air as it was a pitch for "GL" to the primetime audience. How else could you explain the opening montage of explicit sex scenes that have aired on the show over the past few years? They were hardly representative; over most of its history, "GL" has been the most conservative soap on the air!

The special featured interviews with soap stars who have nothing whatsoever to do with "GL," such as David Canary (who plays Adam on "All (who plays Katherine on "The Young and the Restless") and Erika Slezak (who plays Viki on "One Life to Live"). The only two alumni who seemed happy to be there were Kim Zimmer (who once played Reva on "GL") and John Wesley Shipp (who once played Kelly on "GL").

And the scripted dialogue! A segment in which cast members blurted soap operatic lines like "It's your baby" and "It's my baby?" to one another was ludicrous. The excellent regular "GL" writers appar ently had nothing to do with this; someone named Lee Miller wrote this disaster

Worst of all, viewers learned nothing of "GL" 's glo-rious history. The tribute to the beloved Charita Bauer, who played Bert Bauer from the show's 1952 TV debut until her death in 1985, was paltry. Agnes Nixon, Bill Bell and Douglas Marland, all of whom had been writers for "GL, were interviewed briefly, but they all looked adrift. Historical clips were presented with little or no explanation. S notable characters, like Mike Bauer (formerly played by tioned at all!

Sure, it was great to see brief 15-year-old clips of young Roger and Holly (played by Michael Zaslow and Maureen Garrett) and 10-year-old clips of Lisa Brown (who now plays Iva on "As the World Turns" as the irrepressible Nola Reardon, if you understood their context. But everything was left a puzzle. What a

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has released draft goals for the Green Ridge State Forest and Potomac/Garrett State Forest 10-year Resource Management Plans.

Brown said the effort to establish broad goals represents an early step in the planning process. DNR is currently soliciting public comment on the goals which are based on those developed for the Savage River State Forest in 1991. Dr. Brown said, "The goals reflect DNR's legal mandate for balanced meetings will be held in the insure continuing benefits for multiple use in the forest as well as an evaluation of the wants and needs of the pub-

The purpose of the goals is to provide general guidelines for the development of plans for the long term management of Green Ridge and Potomac/Garrett state forests. Currently a technical planning team is assessing all of the resources in each forest, and citizens advisory committees for each forest have begun to look at longterm management issues, Brown said. Once the goals are finalized, he said strategies and alternatives for implementing them will be developed in August. Public

PUNCTUAL? July 5, 1992

Background Scripture: Devotional Reading:

Habakkuk voices concerns that are very timely in our own day. It is the voice of a man who has waited for God to answer his prayers and we can discern his impatience and perturba-tion: "O Lord, how long shall I cry for help, and thou wilt not hear? Or cry to thee "violence!" and thou wilt not save?" (1:2). It is an anguished question that sounds very much like a com-

Haven't you ever felt that way: "How long shall I cry?" How many years do I have to go on praying the same prayers Where is all this help we've been taught to expect? What's the point in 'keeping the faith, if the faith doesn't keep me Areyou there, Lord. And if you're there do you hear me? And if you hear me, why don't you answer? I'm told you will even tually do something, but my need is now; why can't you be on

Please note that when Habakkuk pours out his heart in complaint, God does not re spond with indignation or pique God is not put off with hard but honest questions such as these. Better that Habakkuk is honest with the Lord and puts his questions and complaints on the table where they can be dealt with. Some times that which weakens our prayer life is a lack of candidness. We would all be better off if we try to deceive him about the way we feel, it is ourselves that we are deceiving.

What is bothering Habakkuk? Essentially it is a matter of injustice: "Why dost thou make me see wrongs and look upon trouble? Destruction and ence are before me; strife and contention rise ... For the wicked surround the righteous, so justice goes forth perverted :3,4). We can also identify with Habakkuk in this, too, for our world is full of injustice and there are so many places where the wicked are not only getting away with it, but prevailing, too. We're told that eventually God will cause justice to triumph, but we're here now and we can't help asking/complaining, "O Lord, how long, how long?) TWO VOICES

Habakkuk 1 is a dialogue between Habakkuk and the Lord. After the prophet has voiced his complaints, God answers in his own inimitable way "Look among the nations, and see; wonder and be astonished. For I am doing a work that you would not believe if I told" (1:5). Habakkuk may not have thought God was hearing and answering his prayer, but that is because the prophet doesn't have the spiritual discernment to always know what God is doing. If Habakkuk could see what God is doing he would be "astonished" -- for that's how different it is between the way God works and the way we think. Because we see no direct evidence that God has heard our prayer, we wrongly assume he is doing nothing. God was directing the af-fairs of nations so that he could respond to this great need for justice. But it was not in a way which would be easily recogni able to the people. "For lo, I am rousing the Chaldeans, that bitter and hasty nation, who march through the breadth of the earth, to seize habitations not their own" (1:6). So, is God as unpunctual as he often seems? By our standards and concepts of time --which are hardly cosmic -- the answer can hardly escape being "yes." But, if we could get a we'd realize that God is truly in control and that he never really keeps us waiting: "For still the vision awaits its time; it hastens to the end -- it will not lie. If it seems slow, wait for it; it will surely come, it will not

The special was put together through the efforts of Phil Beuth, ABC president of earlymorning and late-evening

Barbara Walters called me and said that Phil Beuth wanted to get involved in a project about AIDS where he could make a difference," says Lovett. "It turned out that his son had died of AIDS. I had done a documentary on the first 'Heartstrings' tour (a musical tour that has traveled with the AIDS quilt). I showed him the documentary and said, 'Do you think you could help me get it syndicated?' Phil said, 'I think we can do better than that; I think we can get it on the network.

Beuth spoke to his superiors at ABC and sold them on a revamped prime-time ("which I hadn't even been thinking about," says Lovett) special.
"If we can get somebody to call someone who has AIDS and say, 'I want you to know I'm there for you,' we've accomplished a tremendous amount," Lovett says. "If we organization and get involved, we've accomplished even more. SOAP SCOOP 'Guiding Light' special was pretty dim viewing BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA t's not a bad idea to hype daytime soaps in prime time.

A special edition of "Days of Our Lives," airing prior to "The Soap Opera Awards," rated well on NBC, which also aired a special episode of "Another World" before the recent Daytime Emmys.

But CBS's "Guiding Light: The Primetime Special" last month was a disaster, made all the more painful by the fact that "GL" is the finest soap on the air right now.

The special wasn't as much a commemoration of the oldest soap on the air as it was a pitch for "GL" to the prime-time audience. How else could you explain the opening montage of explicit sex scenes that have aired on the show over the past few years? They were hardly representative; over most of its history, "GL" has been the most conservative soap on the air!

The special featured interwith "GL," such as David CaMy Children"), Jeanne Cooper (who plays Katherine on "The Young and the Restless") and Erika Slezak (who plays Viki on "One Life to Live"). The only two alumni who seemed happy to be there were Kim Reva on "GL") and John Wesley Shipp (who once played Kelly on "GL"). And the scripted dialogue! A segment in which cast members blurted soap operatic lines like "It's your baby" and "It's my baby?" to one another was ludicrous. The excellent regular "GL" writers apparently had nothing to do with this; someone named Lee Miller wrote this disaster Worst of all, viewers learned nothing of "GL" 's glorious history. The tribute to the beloved Charita Bauer, who played Bert Bauer from the show's 1952 TV debut until Agnes Nivon Rill Rell and Douglas Marland, all of whom had been writers for "GL, were interviewed briefly, but they all looked adrift. Third Phase Of Maryland Tax Law Changes To Take Effect July 1

The focus shifts from conumers to mostly businesses is the third phase of changes n the Maryland's sales and se tax law takes effect July , when cleaning services for ommercial and industrial buildings become taxable, according to Louis L. Goldstein, comptroller of the Treasury. Businesses will also be affected by several administrative changes to the sales tax. effective July 1. Maryland's 5% sales and use tax applies to charges for janitorial services, floor, carpet, wall, window, ceiling and exterior cleaning in commercial and industrial buildings. The taxable services include restroom maintenance, sanitizing, deodorizing, and disinfecting; furniture dusting and polishing; interior trash collection; floor care, including carpet cleaning; high pressure water cleaning, sandblasting and chemical cleaning; construction cleanup and fire and flood restoration. Heating, ventilation and air conditioner cleaning services are not taxable

So far, 504 cleaning service firms have registered to collect the tax on their services, Goldstein said. Cleaning service firms who have not yet registered to collect the tax can set up sales and use tax accounts over the phone by contacting the Taxpayer Service Section toll-free at 1-800-492-1751. Businesses which already have a Maryland sales and use tax license do not need to register

Beginning July 1, businesses will also find several administrative changes. The due date for filing monthly sales and use tax returns has been advanced to the 15th of the month from the previous due date of the 21st. Thus, the due date for filing the July 1992 return will be August 15

Effective July 1, the charge for paying taxes with a dishonored check increases to $30 from $10. The charge

also applies to dishonored electronic payments, including payments made under a direct debit agreement with Effective July 1, businesses holding Maryland sales and use tax licenses may no longer claim the resale exclusion on purchases for resale of less than $500 when made with cash, check or credit card. However, the tax on cash, check or credit card sales or goods for less than $500 does not have to be collected on sales made on the credit of the purchaser, on sales of goods which would be exempt even if not sold for resale or on sales of products regulated by Article 2B of the annotated Code of Maryland.

Businesses that paid tax on cash, check or credit card purchases of goods intended for resale may claim a credit for the amount of tax paid on line 6 of their next sales and use tax return, or by filing a refund request form. Businesses can get the refund request Form COT/ST 205 from the Taxpayer Service

PARENT VOLUNTEERS HONORED - Route 40 Elementary School parent volunteers were recently honored with a luncheon for their efforts in performing a wide variety of tasks at the school. The gathering was organized by the staff and teachers at Route 40. Very important Parent awards were given by Patrick Delaney, principal, and book markers crafted by their own children were given to each parent. The volunteers met each Wednesday afternoon and listened to oral book reports, provided classroom materials and bulletin boards, instructional aids for use in the classrooms, and a birthday bulletin board in the cafeteria. The parents also drew, colored, laminated, and cut out needed materials. Other services provided by the volunteers include assisting in the school library. a birthday bulletin board in the cafeteria. High visibility saturation patrols are deployed in elected areas throughout the state. According to the DNR Police, statistics com-piled by the NRP alcohol enforcement program are used to establish SWAMP sites, and Deep Creek Lake has been selected to conduct SWAMP programs on July 4, July 18, and August 8.

The operation consists of at least three patrol units and six officers who have been trained in advanced alcohol detection techniques. Any vessel suspected of violating the state's boating laws will be stopped and inspected, according to a DNR spokesperson. Officers will look specifically for violations traditionally

Fisher Outdoor Furniture Table Sets: Round Gliders, Settees, Chairs, Rockers, etc. Come See Us! 301-387-4005 O'Brien Road, Swanton PLEASE-NO SUNDAY CALLS!

Farm weather and bright sunny days mean baseball, vacations and the return of an all-American favorite — — the picnic. From the first hint of spring to the last days of Indian summer, most people love to pack up their favorite foods and head outdoors.

Favorites typically include big juicy burgers, potato salad and coleslaw, tuna sandwiches, chips and brownies. But those foods can also add up to a picnic basket full of fat and calories. That's why we've updated the American picnic menu with an eye on health, nutrition and flavor.

Our new American picnic is simple, delicious and much lower in fat and calories. For example, switching from beef to turkey burgers saves you over 100 calories and reduces the fat content by 58 percent. Turkey is naturally high in protein, low in fat, convenient and economical. And for salads or sandwiches, turkey is available in fully cooked deli varieties.

Pasta is also a natural for the new American picnic. Versatile, economical and an excellent source of complex carbohydrates, pasta is the perfect addition to any picnic table. Healthy eating doesn't mean just cutting down on calories, but also making the most of the calories you do consume. Serving nutritious pasta meals three times a week is an easy way to reduce the fat in your diet and increase your intake of energyboosting complex carbohydrates.

Remember, when watching your fat intake, it's not just what you eat, but what you put on it. If you're searching for taste and health, virtually fat free mustard is the perfect condiment. Low in calories and without cholesterol, mustard is a great way to top a burger or a sandwich, or to add flavor to salad dressings. And now there is Creamy Spread mustard made especially to complement light meats such as turkey.

Compare the traditional menu to this American picnic makeover. You'll see cutting fat and calories doesn't compromise taste and it's inexpensive too.

SUCCESSFUL RESCUE - Two youths were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Tuesday following a nerve-wracking experience for both the victims and the rescuers at Swallow Falls State Park. According to a park spokesperson, the teenaged boys were swimming near the Lower Falls in the park when one was swept up in a strong current. He reportedly struck his head on a rock and was disoriented. The other youth jumped in to assist and he, too, was caught in the current. The two managed to reach a rock and were helped onto it by some bystanders, and the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and Oakland Fire Department were called. The boys were transported out of the park under the supervision of Park Rangers Roger Riley and Donald Shumaker. Another ranger, Mike Berry, had early this spring devised a special stretcher with a large wheel designed especially for use in river rescues. The rangers were able to utilize the stretcher, pictured right, to transport both victims to the waiting ambulances. Both boys, who are from the Mt. Savage Youth Center, were treated and released

May Vote To Join Union

The United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) has filed a petition with the National Labor Relations Board recently seeking an election to determine whether employees of Mettiki Coal Corporation will be represented by the UMWA. Mettiki is currently engaged in discussions with the labor board to arrange the details of the election, which is expected to be held

Mettiki opposes its efforts to organize its employees because Mettiki believes that the unionization of the workforce is not in the best interest of Mettiki, its employees and their families, or the community, according a press release from spoken," stated Bea Crosco, chairperson of the Committee for Good Government, following the nearly six-toone defeat of Charter Home Rule in a special election held Tuesday to afford county residents the opportunity to decide whether or not to change the current form of government from the county commissioner form to charter home rule.

"We're overwhelmed," Crosco continued. "We thought the charter might be defeated by three to one, maybe, but Garrett Countians are smart people and they got what they wanted."

The final tally, released

just this morning, reveals that a total of 4,288 votes were cast against the charter, while only 771 were cast in favor of the charter According to Carol Paugh. Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors, the voter turnout was officially determined to be 42.2%, after the absentee ballots were counted.

The high voter turnout has reportedly been attributed to the controversy surrounding the issue, as well as the amount of attention given to it by the public and

> Advocates of the charter form of government contended that the charter would have provided for more representation, more accountability, and less expense. They also said the charter would allow for more participation in local government ov citizens.

Opponents, however, countered that charter home rule would lead to more expense to the taxpayers and would not solve the problems that may currently exist in terms of accountability and representation. Some opponents said the charter form would be too cumbersome and unnecessarily bureaucratic and complex for a rural county such as Garrett.

Accident Man Charged With Three Cts. Of Assault, Reckless Endangerment

Larry E. Artice, 30, Accident, has been charged with three counts of assault and one count of reckless endangerment following a Sunday morning incident, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry.

Artice was charged by the police after they were contacted by Tonya L. Tomblin and Eugene F. Layton, both of Accident, who reported that they had been asleep at Artice's residence when Artice appeared with a .270 caliber rifle. Artice allegedly stated that he was going to

When Tfc. S.H. Anderson arrived, he discovered Artice standing in the living room with a rifle in his hand. He refused to open the door for police and reappeared at the living room window. He pushed the curtains open with the barrel of the rifle, pointing the gun at the officer. After a 30-minute standoff, Artice released the gun and gave himself up.

Artice was taken to the Garrett County Jail but was released the same day after posting bond, according to a Sheriff's Office spokesperson.

Savage River State Forest Ten-Year Plan Completed

Governor William Donald Schaeferannouncedthisweek the completion of the final 10year resource management plan for the Savage River State Forest. The plan is the culmination of an 18-month public process of hearings, meetings and collaborations between a citizens' advisory committee, technical planners, and the public.

In making his announcement, Governor Schaefer said that the final plan does an excellent job of balancing the competing demands on the forest with the protection of the unique natural communities and ecosystems within it, according to a Maryland Department of Natural Resources spokesperson.

Governor Schaefer noted the difference of opinion expressed throughout the planning process. "Some people want to stop all timber harvesting on public lands, while others feel that this plan unnecessarily restricts harvesting," he said. "We beWoman Given Three Continued from Page A-1

The County Has Spoken.

The Garrett County electorate has spoken loudly and clearly that the vast majority of county voters are opposed to changing local government from the county commissioner system to Charter Home Rule. While we are pleased with the outcome of the election, we hope our county commissioners do not interpret this outcome as an overwhelming vote of confidence in them or that, in the minds of most voters, everything is just peachy with the status quo.

One of the main reasons the whole issue of Charter Home Rule came about was frustration with the county commissioners. The term "accountability," as related to finances and performance, was echoed again and again by the proponents of Charter Home Rule. Even during the process of writing the proposed charter, the Charter Home Rule committee had to invoke the Freedom of Information Act in order to obtain certain county financial information. It is ridiculous that they had to go to such lengths.

In this age of computerization, we suspect that our present system of recording and reporting of county finances is grossly out of date. We see no reason why the county commissioners can't purchase the necessary computer software that could provide a running list of every single county expenditure and receipt. Copies of such information should be readily available to any local taxpayer who requests one. Taxpaying citizens are entitled, by law, to this information and they should not be given a run-around nor forced to utilize the Freedom of Information Act to obtain it.

As for performance of county employees, there should be job descriptions, salary information, and even job evaluation reports also readily available to the public. Government employees are employees of the tax-paying public and thus each "payor" is entitled to such information. These, too, could be provided at the touch of a computer button in the treasurer's office.

As we stated last week, the efforts of the charter writers were, hopefully, not entirely in vain even though the charter was not accepted. We did not agree with them that our system of government should be changed, but we do agree with some of their gripes about certain methods utilized by our county commissioners.

(P.S. It is an outrage that county offices were closed Tuesday because of the special election. Who made this decision and what on earth was the justification for it? No wonder special elections are so expensive.)

To the Editor I returned home on July 7 to find two important pieces of mail. The first piece of mail I read was the newspaper with your editorial of July 2. The article was excellent and I agree with your comments. The second piece of mail I turned to was my tax bill. I'm not going to say that I was excited to receive my tax bill, or any bill for that matter, owever, I am proud to pay taxes to Garrett County. I believe the services I receive for that investment to be money well spent, remembering that many Garrett County taxpayers are not residents of our county. The education of my children, the highways I travel, and the salaries of individuals who work in our various county agencies are a few of investment. Instead of complaining about our taxes, we should look at ways to government, such as the improve expenditures to adoption of local legislation. guarantee that every taxpayer feels his investment in Garrett County is being used to its fullest potential If you are not convinced then help to find ways to improve our county services and eliminate waste. I am already convinced that I am getting my money's worth from Garrett County.

I also applaud the Char-ter Board for their work in developing the charter, and I applaud the Committee Good Government for their work in opposing the charter. Clearly, the election results indicate that those signing the petition for Charter Home Rule jumped the gun and forced the expenditure of tens of thousands of dollars on advertising and a special education for something flocked to the polls to not want. Instead, we should have directed the time and money to a study of different forms of government, as proposed by Delegate Edwards, Senator Hafer, and the County Commissioners. It's not too late. Let's set aside our differences and the personal attacks and move Garrett County forward. This election has divided us and pittea against one another. This time, we may have been our personal attacks could ssibly have been avoided had we all worked together to bring about a positive change for every Garrett County citizen and tax-The charter efforts were not in vain as now we Rule is not desirable, but certain aspects of the charter have brought new insights into

I, for one, would like to see a study of the merits of Code Home Rule, like our neighbors in Allegany ounty have in place. The three commissioners in Allegany County are able to local legislation on certain issues. Recently they approved a bicycle helmet law, which is truly a great idea for the safety of our children and visitors here in Garrett County. Please join me in calling for a study of different forms of county government and commissioner form of government. After all, if it is not broken it is not in need of fixing. The tre-mendous voter turnout is something for which we can proud, as our voters exercise their right to vote in the special election. This indicates a tremendous concern on the part of voters, and an issue which warrants further study. It is not important how you voted. It is important what you are willing to do to bring about positive change for our great county.

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

A REPORT FROM THE EFFICIENCY HOTLINE by Governor William Donald Schaefer

More than 1,100 of you from all over Maryland have called our hotline to offer suggestions, about how the state can provide government services more efficiently. The hotline was scheduled to end in early April, but because we continued to receive constructive suggestions, we kept it open.

I promised at the start of the hotline that we would look into each suggestion and we are doing that. We are answering each call with at least a letter of response, and some of you are receiving follow-up telephone calls so that we can ask some more questions about your suggestions. I think it's munity support. been a learning process for everyone involved. We had the chance to find out what you are concerned about, and in turn, had a chance to give people a better idea of how state government works and specify which services the state does and doesn't provide.

Some calls offered broad suggestions, without much guidance, like: "cut state employees." But some of you were much more specific, citing a particular suggestion from your community. It was good to see that many of the thoughts expressed by callers were for changes that state has already implemented or has attempted to implement. Each idea was passed on to the appropriate department.

Alot of callers thought Maryland should not require two license plates on each car -- an idea that our Economy and Efficiency Commission proposed as part of its legislative package this session. Initially, the savings would have been under $1 million, but the commission estimated more substantial savings when fleets of state cars needed new licenses. The legislature didn't agree with the single license plate requirement, and did not adopt the bill, but maybe that suggestion is worth trying again.

A large number of calls dealt with the taxes and fees, expressing a wide range of sentiments. Some people don't want to pay more taxes, and some said they didn't mind paying taxes and fees if it protected certain programs or directed the new money to areas like education, health or public safety.

Many callers had suggestions about welfare reform, with the overriding message being that welfare recipients should take responsibility for themselves. In December we announced changes to the welfare system that would encourage recipients to take charge of themselves -- changes that first needed regulatory approval from the legislature, but are taking effect May 1. A good number of calls had to do with staffing and labor issues. Some callers suggested that college and university professors teach more courses, instead of relying as much on graduate assistants, an idea that we passed along. Still others were concerned about how much the state soends on prisons, suggested that inmates be required to contribute to their own upkeep. A check with the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services showed that inmates are assigned to jobs inside and outside the prisons. Maryland prison inmates assigned to work release programs are required to pay for their room and board, plus the cost of transportation to and from their jobs. Work release in mates paid nearly $1 million into the state corrections system in the 1991 Fiscal Year, while work crews saved the state an extra $3 million in labor expenses. We are continuing to track down each suggestion, and hope we will receive some more while the line continues to operate. Please call us if you have an idea to share, in Baltimore, at 225-1037, or toll-free at 1-800-677-8969. In the meantime, I still want to hear from you. Write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis, MD

An Update From The Superintendent

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent Of Garrett County Public Schools

(This article was written by Mr. Richard Buckingham, Assistant in Food Service with the Garrett County Board of Education.)

Authorized through the National School Lunch Act of 1946 with cash grants to states, the National School Lunch Program was initiated. The money was to be used for the initiation and maintenance of non-profit school lunch programs. However, it was not until 1970 that the General Assembly of Maryland enacted legislation stipulating that every public school system in the state should provide a subsidized and/or free feeding program. The State Board of Education was designated to develop and publish the standards to be met by the children who would benefit from the

While performing physicals for young men and women being drafted into the armed forces, it was discovered that only one out of every five applicants passed the minimum requirements. Therefore, Congress enacted the National School Lunch Act with a goal to improve the health and wellbeing of the American youth. In this act was also a provision that foods from the Department of Agriculture's surplus and price support activities be funneled to the food distribution sections of the state agencies

All school children under 21 years of age are eligible to enefit from the lunch program. There are, however, three categories of payment for the lunches these students reeive. These categories are "Free" (totally subsidized), Reduced" (partially subsidized), and "Paid" (subsidized very slightly)

The family size and income are used to determine the meal category for which children are eligible. In Maryland, free or reduced priced meals comprise more than half of the 62 million lunches served annually. Approximately 650,000 meals are served to Garrett County school children annually. This number includes both lunch and breakfast.

The criteria for participation in the breakfast program the same as that in the National School Lunch Program. However, in Garrett County, the students in middle and high school do not participate for one reason or another. The Garrett County Board of Education has run pilot programs at the secondary level in the hope that these students who did not have a chance to have breakfast at home would be able to have breakfast at school. Participation in these pilot programs was not sufficient to continue. Breakfast is, however, served in all elementary schools with the exception of Swan Meadow. Garrett County Food Service serves approximately 800 breakfasts each day

Children from families whose household size and income fall within the United State Department of Agriculture guidelines are eligible to receive free or reduced priced meals. Applications for participation in these programs are sent home with every student in the Garrett County School System. When the applications are returned to the schools, they are sent to the Food Service Department Office, where the determination of eligibility is made. As an example, a family of four whose income is at or below $18,135 annually may receive a free breakfast and lunch. A family of four whose income is at or below $25,808 annually may receive a reduced breakfast and lunch. All families of students in the Garrett County School System are urged to fill out the application and return it to the school.

The Food Service Department is a self-supporting entity within the board of education. The board pays for the food service personnel's workmen's compensation and hospitalization plans. All other expenses incurred in the daily operation of the lunch, breakfast, and a la carte programs e paid for with student and adult payments along with federal and state reimbursements. As the cost of food, wages, equipment, supplies and materials, and many other items increase, the food service department has to it enue. The only place where we can do this is increase lunch prices. The board is very aware of this situation and agonized over it each time it's necessary to have an increase.

AIITCO 1992 Pow Wow Is Bigger And Better Than Ever

by Bernice Kepple

Beautiful weather last weekend brought large numbers of dancers and spectators to the 10th Annual American Indian Inter-Tribal Cultural Organization (AIITCO) Pow Wow at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The number of dancers was increased this year by the appearance of the Buffalo Creek Dancers from up-state New York. These dancers performed Iroquois social dances, which are different in many ways from the Plains-style dancing pow wow visitors expect to see. Iroquois dancing is usually done indoors, not outdoors on the grass as the AIITCO Pow Wow dancing is done, their dress is different, and they are accompanied by a small water drum, all making this variation an exciting addition to the pow wow.

The Buffalo Creek Dancers fit in well when inter-tribal dancing began, as they joined in with members of approximately 35 tribes from across the nation. As the dancers all entered the dance arena, I was reminded of something Master of Ceremonies Ezra Fields said while speaking to a group of friends the night before. Back in time, Indian 'criers" roamed throughout the village before a pow wow, inviting the people to come to the dance arena. He said that they were asked to "come to the dance arena with a pure heart." They were told to leave their troubles and animosities behind, or to take them down to the river and leave them there, but to enter the dance arena with a pure heart.

As the photos on this page, and the people in the pow wow arena demonstrate, there has never been any visible animosity taken into the dance arena at the AIITCO Pow Wow. Old friends meet and shake hands, new friends are welcomed, and Garrett County residents are made to feel like treasured friends.

Leading the dancing this year were Head Man Dancer William Austin Sebastian and Head Woman Dancer Cheryl A. LaPoint (pictured at top of page, center, leading the twostep). Head Dancers are selected not only for their dancing ability, but also for their personal qualities and actions inside and out of the dance arena. They lead each dance and other dancers wait respectfully until they begin dancing. Sebastian and LaPoint represented AlITCO well in the arena this year.

Visiting again this year was storyteller Dovie Thomason, Thomason has a knack for entertaining children (and adults) with stories from the past. Gathering the children around her, she tells them of such things as the possum who had a bushy tail, and why the raccoon has a mask. During her presentation, Thomason asks that no photos be taken and no tape recorders be used. She says that today, everyone depends upon such things for information, and they don't

Being an adventuresome kid, I went to all the amusement parks, fairs and carnivals I could get to. Once there, I'd stand in line forever just to get on one ride. From the "Avalanche" to the "Zipper," I've twisted, zigged, zagged, rolled and splashed on the best of them. All of them but the

On the Snooper, unlike other rides, you're accompanied by an Engineering Technician and have to wear a hard hat. What kind of ride requires all that? Actually, the Snooper is no an amusement ride at all. The Snooper is an underbridge inspection unit used by the Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA) to inspect Maryland bridges and

The unit has a bucket attached to a 45-foot crane which goes over, around and under a bridge

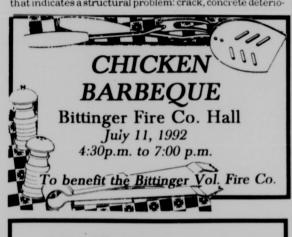

While going over the side of a bridge in a little bucket may seem fun to some people, "It's a serious job," according to SHA Engineering Technician Harry Warnick, who operates one of the four state-owned inspection units. "We have to be extremely careful. We're usually pretty high up in the air and have to be alert at all times," Warnick said. "I don't recommend it for people who are afraid of heights."

Technicians like Warnick conduct hands-on inspections on Maryland's 2,393 bridges and overpasses constructed and maintained by SHA.

The state moved to the hands-on inspection program (actually going under the structure to look and feel for defects) several years ago, according to Joseph Miller, SHA division chief of Bridge Inspection and Remedial Engineering. "Nation-wide, we're at the forefront of bridge inspections. With our hands-on program, we can quickly and effectively find and repair problems.

Miller said that many states still do not get within arms length of all structural components when inspecting their

When a problem is found, structural engineers are sent in to determine it severity. This could result in the bridge being posted with a weight limit to advise drivers of the maximum weight it can safely handle. It is then quickly scheduled for repairs. Posted weight restrictions are required on all state maintained bridges whose original design is to adequate for today's heavy traffic loads.

Bridges with recurring problems are inspected as often ascircumstances warrant.

In Maryland, portions of bridges above water or in shallow water areas are inspected every two years. Professional divers experienced in underwater bridge inspections inspect underwater portions every four years.

The Golden Years

by Melissa Groves

For many people, age 70 brings two changes that affect their financial status. First, people who work past their 70th birthday no longer have to contend with an earnings "cap" that can reduce the amount of their Social Security benefits. At age 70, they are entitled to full benefits regardless of how much they earn. Second, upon turning age 701/2, they must start taking taxable withdrawals from IRA, Keogh, 401K and other retirement accounts -- even if they continue to work. The amount of "minimum required withdrawals" is determined by Internal Revenue Service formulas. Most banks and other administrators of retirement accounts make the computations, once they are notified that the account holder is approaching age 701/2.

We remember so well the day you were born. It seems like yesterday. We were so filled with joy! We heard you cry and you were so perfect. Your Mom's face beamed with joy and happiness.

Thirteen days you were with us. And when it was time and you left for home, We couldn't believe it. We all miss you so much! Though you were here only a short, short time, you were loved so much by so many. Sometimes we don't always understand the Master's Will for our lives. But we do trust in Him.

Coach Ed Wildesen commented on Sunday's game, "Really, it's the only game all year we haven't been in. Frostburg has been playing pretty well. They also scored 17 runs on Cumberland before they played us. However, we will go nowhere until our pitchers throw on their own during the week. Our pitching staff is very capable of containing Frostburg and Cumberland, but only if they throw on off days to keep their arms in shape.

Legion Players Participate In Brewers' Tryout

A total of 12 players from the Garrett Legion baseball eam participated in the Milwaukee Brewer's tryout camp held at Garrett Community College on Tuesday. Over 80 players from Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland took part in the tryout camp Trying out were Brian Garth Glotfelty, Ritchie Baldwin, Shane Skipper, Matt Newcomb, Josh Woods, Gary Upole, Allen Sebold, Bobby Fritz, Paul Edwards, Doug Brenneman, and Jeremy Fitzwater.

Former Garrett Legion players Charlie Plauger and Chad Cooper also tried out.

"Congratulations must go out to Brian Free and Shane Skipper who caught the eye of the scout," said Coach Ed Wildesen, "not as players to be signed to professional contracts, but as future, fine college baseball players with potential to be signed later. Wildesen continued, "All Garrett players did well and we were proud of them, but these two, along with three from Garrett Community College (Bo Bishop, Tony Angelo, and Rod Friedman) as well as a few others received special attention. The scout said they would have taken two of our players but they were too old -- one was 21 and the other one was

DNR Educating Anglers On Proper Catch, Release

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Fisheries Division is teach ing anglers to use fishery resources wisely. In cooperation with DNR, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation sponrs seminars on proper catch and release techniques. The seminars, taught by the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, are offered during the spring and summer and are attended by 20-25 volunteers er session. The objective is to educate the volunteers so that they will in turn inform other anglers. Barbless bait hooks will be given to anglers for catch and release fishing. By using barbless hooks and learning proper ways to handle fish, anglers can reduce stress on the caught fish. DNR has been conducting research studies on an gler induced mortality and hook retention for the past two years. The sport fishing conservation education pro gram was initiated by DNR and the Chesapeake Bay Foundation as part of a continuing effort to encourage sponsible fishing.

All seminars are free and open to the public. For more information, persons may call (410) 974-3365 or (410) 268-

Central Garrett Takes Hyndman In Bi-State Forfeit

Central Garrett won its seventh game of the season when Hyndman protested a call at home plate and stopped play in the third inning of Wednesday's Thursday's Bi-State Pony League game at Northern High School.

Central Garrett, which was leading 11-0 at the time of the protest, received a 7-0 forfeit victory

The play at the plate occurred when the baserunner slid into home. The umpire called him safe and Hyndman protested by refusing to play the rest of the

Garrett County was led at the plate by Matt Umbel's two doubles and by Tim Sines's double Central Garrett will play Keyser today at 6 p.m.

NOTE: Central Garrett led 11-0 in the third inning when Hyndman ended the game in protest. However, the official score of a 7-inning protested game is 7-0 as the headline and linescore show above.

Sailboat Racing Lessons Offered

Deep Creek Yacht Club at Turkey Neck, Deep Creek Racing Association, and Fleet 6 of the Flying Scot Association are sponsoring sailboat racing lessons for novices. These lessons are free and open to any person on the lake with a sailboat and with the basic ability to sail it.

The lessons will start on July 12 and will continue every Sunday until Labor Day weekend, running from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Any sailboat with the basic Coast Guard approved water safety equipment (lifejacket for every person aboard) is welcome. The organizers expect most of the boats participating to be Flying Scots. If the boat is sloop rigged, it must be manned by a two-person crew. No previous racing experience is

The lessons will consist of about 30 minutes of "chalktalk" on racing rules, start ing techniques, racing tac tics, sail trim, followed by short practice races. If the participant's boat is capable of carrying a third person, the organizers will put an instructor/coach on board for the practice races, according to a spokesperson.

Participants must have their boats at the Turkey Neck Deep Creek Yacht Club dock before 9:30 a.m. fully rigged but with the sails and the second race was com down. Those who have room for an instructor/coach on their boat and want one may call Dan Muss at 301-387 9528 and leave a message including a telephone contact number. Persons may call that same number with southwest any other questions about the program.

Step Back In Time . . .

THE ANNUAL SUMMERFEST AND QUILT SHOW is set for this weekend, July 9-11, from a.m. until 5 p.m. each day. This event displays the talents and products of some 70 craftsmen and many quilters from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and other areas. The event showcases craftsmen working with wood, clay, glass, metal, fiber, wax, and oils. Featured are pottery, wood carving, weaving, and stained-glass. There is usually a blacksmith, a tinsmith, a cooper, a basket-maker, a chair-caner, a rug-braider, a wool-dyer, and numerous artist and fiber artisans. Summerfest also features folk music and story-telling. The Quilt Show is held in the Grantsville Elementary School simultaneously with the Summerfest in Spruce Forest Artisan Village near Penn Alps.

Jun-Jilled GRANTSVILLE DAYS!

NONE TOO YOUNG is the philosophy of Tailweavers, a Pittsburgh-based touring company which introduces children of all ages to "living theatre." Pictured above, left to right, are munchkins Katie Brown, 4, Somerset, Pa., and Natalie McLister, 3, Frederick, standing ready to live the adventures of fair maidens in the days of King Arthur. The two had travelled with their respective families to Grantsville for family reunions.

School, sang "Rockin' Robin" in the talent show that featured 18 different performances by local students.

CLOSING CEREMONIES -- The Grantsville Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts stand in formation during closing ceremonies Sunday afternoon.

EAT MY DUST might have been the most appropriate cry as the tractor pull contestants fought it out on a very dry track in high winds. Contest results were not available at press time.

"MISS LIBERTY" was one of numerous historical figures that peared during the Northern Garrett Community Chorus

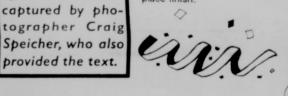

"MOST BEAUTIFUL BOOTH" -- If there was, indeed, a most beautiful booth at the park, Grantsville Sons of the American Legion had it!

HIGH GEAR -- The horse pull competition instantly hit high gear this year and stayed there until the end. With only 14 teams participating last year in lightweight and heavyweight divisions combined, this year's competition soared to include 46 horses. The crowd of spectators increased similarly, forcing some fans to watch from a pickup bed.

Field Day Held At Tree Farm On Forest Management

A field day was held on Saturday, June 20, at Pat and Sonny Newhall's. Britany's 'n Bird's Tree Farm west of Oakland on the Fingerboard Road. The program was sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, the Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources, the Ruffed Grouse Society Coverts Project, and in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Resource Conservation Service, Wildlife and Forestry Divisions.

The purpose of the field day was to provide private woodland owners with some "handson" insights into the forest management practices they could utilize to enhance or improve the wildlife habi tat on their property. Thirtythree landowners partici pated in the field day, with twenty-six landowners travelling 100 or more miles to take part in the field day.

Sonny Newhall welcomed the group to his tree farm and introduced his wife Pat and their son Andy. Mr. Newhall gave the group some background information on how he got started managing his woodland and how the work has progressed to the present time.

Jonathan Kays, Cooperative Extension Service, gave the group information on the Coverts Project, which is sponsored by the Ruffed Grouse Society. Leslie Johnston, D.N.R. Wildlife Biologist, and Ernie Metz, D.N.R. Project Forester, presented information on the Stewardship Program and the cost share assistance available to private forest landowners

After lunch, the attendees split into two groups to tour the farm. Each group looked at examples of crop tree release, thinnings, edge cuts, aspen regeneration, and forest road maintenance.

Devotional Reading:

Proverbs 14:26-35 Unless you are partial to cosmic-size "destruction derbys," the picture that the prophet Zephaniah draws is not a pretty one. The whole book bearing his name is based upon his expectation of the terrible day of the Lord" which, with the exception of a small remnant, will bring universal destruction: "I will utterly sweep away everything from the face of the earch," says the Lord ... " I will cut off mankind from the face of the earth" (1:2,3). There are lots of doom-laden prophecies in the Old Testament, but none more sweeping and devastating than these by Zephaniah: "In the fire of his ealous wrath, all the earth shall be consumed; for a full, yea sudden end he will make of all the inhabitants of the earth'

WORDS OF DOOM What was behind these words of doom? Zephaniah spells out God's judgment upon the morality of all people in in particular. There is a long catalog of private and corporate sin: the adulteration of devotion to God, the adoption of pagan ways, rampant materialism and greed, and galloping moral decay. Whenever people flaunt their evil in the face of God, the potential for the Day of the Lord grows stronger. At the heart of Zephaniah's condemnation, however, is the underlying arrogance that characterizes many of the people This is not just a matter of the corrupt things they did, but of the sinful persons they became. The key to all of this is a disastrous pride. Some of these people assume that their finan cial wealth will exempt them from God's judgment. But God says through Zephaniah: "Nei ther their silver not their gold shall be able to deliver them on the day of the wrath of the Lord" (1:18).

What God is looking for is true humility, not the arrogance he finds at every level of society. that arrogance finds its ultimate expression in these words: This is the exultant city that dwelt secure, that said to herself, "I am and there is none else" (2:15). You may have to read that a few times to grasp its meaning. It is the ultimate of ego gone rampant. It is simply another way of saying: In this world there is only one who WHO IS SECURE? Lots of people today believe that and, to the best of their ability, live it out in their lives. Not only individuals, but groups an exhibit this arrogance Zephaniah mentions a whole city: "This is the exultant city, that dwelt secure.." (2:15) There will be nothing over which to exult on the Day of the Lord and no one should be so presumptuous as to feel "secure."

God also despises the depreciating remarks that are meant to undermine his reign among ople. "I have heard the taunts of Moab and the revilings of the Ammonites, how they have taunted my people and made boasts against their territory' (2:8). Even the people of Judah have made disparaging remarks about God -- "those who say in their hearts, "The Lord will not do good, nor will he do ill" (1:12b). These people of Judah think of God as one who either does not care or who is impotent to do anything.

Actually, there are lots of us today who, although nominally Christian, take pretty much the same attitude. We do not deny the reality of God -- in fact, we might be scandalized if anyone should do so -- but we speak or act as if God were of no conse quence in this world, as if sin will forever go unpunished and without consequence. That is truly the ultimate blasphemy. derestimate Him -- as if "I am and there is none else.

All-Star break is an occasion to look back

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

The 1992 baseball season reaches its midway point this week when the National and American Leagues take a three-day break for the "63rd All-Star Game." This season, the contest is played at Jack Murphy Stadium in San Diego. and CBS carries the action live Tuesday, July 14. After last year's 4-2 AL victory in Toronto, the junior circuit heads into this year's contest having won four straight and five out of six. That's the best run the Americans have had since the '30s and '40s, when they dominated the an-

Aside from the game itself, the All-Star break traditionally leaves a gaping hole in the sports programming land-scape, and this year is no different. But the pause is made more bearable by a trio of specials - none of which conflicts with the game - that fondly remember America's pastime as it used to be, and as it probably never will be again. On Monday, July 13, "When day, July 18 and 19.

It Was a Game II," an hourlong follow-up to last sum mer's ACE and Peabody Award winning "When It Was a Game," premieres on HBO. Visually, the special relies exclusively on 8mm and 16mm home-movie footage shot between 1925 and 1960 - the vast majority of it in color and in remarkable, crystal-clear condition. The images are married to an evocative mix of reminiscences and baseball prose, poetry and song.

The images of Jimmy Foxx, Goose Goslin, Satchel Paige. Lefty Grove, Babe Ruth, Jackie Robinson, Connie Mack and others roaming the grounds of Ebbets Field. Yankee Stadium and Shibe Park are ones you'll want to keep. "When It Was a Game II" is replayed July 14 and 18 this week and three more times later this month. Also on July 13 (and replaying July 18), "Last of America's Classic Ballparks" has its U.S. premiere on The Discovery Channel. Jeff Daniels hosts the hour, during which he visits Tiger Stadium, Wrigley Field. Fenway Park and the old Comiskey Park, which was torn down shortly after the segment was shot in 1990.

Finally, on July 14 (replaying July 17), The Discovery Channel rebroadcasts "The Glory of Their Times," Bud Greenspan's documentary based on Lawrence S. Ritter's oral history of baseball in the early decades of this century.

SOAP SCOOP

'Guiding Light' party was like family reunion

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Guiding Light: The Primetime Special" (which aired last month on CBS) may have been a real bomb - it finished 67th in the weekly Nielsen ratings - but "Guiding Light": The 40th Anniversary Party was an unqualified hit. Held at Manhattan society haunt Maxim's, the event turned into such a warm, chatty, family affair that hardly Soap parties were almost a weekly event during the Reagan '80s, but in the austere '90s, they are a rarity. (This party was thrown by sponsor Procter & Gamble, not Chairman Larry Tisch's budget-conscious CBS.) As People paparazzi photographer Robin Platzer blurted, "I'm seeing people I haven't seen in 10 years." All kinds of reunions were going on.

Former ingenue Elvera Roussel (who played Hope Bauer Spaulding from 1976-83) wore a big dress; other traces of the Bauers, the show's founding family, were Ed Bryce (who played Bill Bauer in several stints with the show, starting in 1959 and concluding in 1983) and Mart Hulswit (who played Dr. Ed Bauer from 1969-81) Also in the party spirit were Grant Aleksander (who played Phillip Spaulding from 1984-91) and Michael O'Leary (who played Rick Bauer from 1983-91). O'Leary can currently be seen in beer commercials.

One set of current cast members unexpectedly roamed the party hand in hand: Beth Ehlers and Mark Derwin (who play lovers Harley and Mallet). Vincent Irizarry and Kimberley Simms (who play Nick and Mindy) were no-shows. Recently, Simms' contract was not renewed. Fiona Hutchison (who plays Jenna) arrived in an Indian skirt, with her longtime ove, John Viscardi. "Point Break," premiering on HBO Saturday, July 18 boasts one of the surd plots ever: An agent (Keanu Reeves, l.) infiltrates a band of surfers, led by Patrick Swavze (r.), that is sup porting its water habit by robbing banks. The agent finds the gang's lifestyle a tad vicious - but unexpected-ly seductive. If you can get past the plot, though, the wave action is great, and Reeves turns in an appealing KEEPING B & L BEAUTIFUL - The Housekeeping QAT at Bausch and Lomb, Inc., Mtn. Lake Park, held a Landscaping/Clean-Up Day on Saturday, June 27. The QAT members are Chris Lattimer, Katrina Kuhn, Doug Kight, Barbara Lucas, Robbi Cline, Mike Shaffer, Glenda Stahl, Robin Tasker, Richard Friend, Kenneth Goodrich, and Donna Glotfelty. Over 60 employees volunteered their time to landscape, plant, paint, pick up trash, and clean. Shrubbery and plants were obtained from Green Acres. A supervisor from that business also helped with the planting. Wishing wells and flower boxes were purchased from Kenny Savage and the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department "washed down" the employee parking lot. The QAT expressed its appreciation to all who helped make the day a "success," especially Bill Pickering for videotapir Lori Malcolm for taking photographs, and M.J. Tasker for the drawings on the posters. Lunch and t-shirts were provided for all volunteers.

Volunteers Sought For Health Fair

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging (AAA) is again sponsoring health fairs for senior citizens during September 1992. In an effort to reach those senior citizens in greatest need of the services offered at the health fairs, the AAA is seeking community outreach volunteers to identify seniors in individual communities who would benefit from health fair screenings. Volunteers would also actively promote participation and address questions pertaining to the fairs, such as times, locations, transportation information, etcetera. The fairs, which are sponsored by the United Church of Christ, Catoctin Association, will offer numerous health screenings such as vision, hearing, oral cancer, blood pressure, blood chemistry, and others. Educational tables on a host of health will also be available.

Individuals who wish to assist the AAA and the senior citizens in their communities through volunteering as outreach workers are asked to contact the Area Agency on Aging at 334-5856, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until Md. Low-Interest Mortgage Loans Now Available

Governor William Donald Schaefer today announced that nearly $57 million in ow-interest mortgage loans is available for income-eligible Maryland homebuyers from funds available through the Department of Housing and Community Develop-ment's (DHCD) Maryland Mortgage Program on Behalt of Jurisdictions (MMP). Most MMP eligible people are pur chasing their first homes with the loan, according to reports.

"The Maryland Mortgage Program helps low- and moderate-income people buy homes," said Governor Schaefer. "More than 29,500 Maryland families and individuals have purchased homesthroughthisprogram."

The Maryland Mortgage Program is administered by DHCD's Community Development Administration, which recently issued taxexempt revenue bonds to finance the program on behalf of 21 Maryland counties and Baltimore City. This arrangement enables local governments to take advantage of the state's excellent bond rating, share the cost in issuing the bonds, and benefit from the centralized administration of the program Montgomery and Prince George's counties did not participate in the bond issue because they separately issue revenue bonds for housing programs in their jurisdictions.

To qualify for an MMP 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage loan in most parts of the state, individuals may earn up to $32,800 a year and families up to $40,950. Two interest rates have been established for the program based on household income. The interest rate is seven percent for people earning $28,900 or less a year. Those earning more than $28,900 a year, up to the program's maximum income limit, will pay 7.75 percent

Maximum purchase prices vary depending on location and whether the home to be purchased is newly constructed or an existing house in Garrett County, the maximum purchase prices are $80,000 and $85,000, respecTHE REPUBLICAN, OAKLAND, MARYLAND -- THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1992 B-7

- Adding Pizazz to the Party...

 If guests are returning for a visit after having moved to a new state, ask them beforehand to come prepared to "paint a picture" of their new area by bringing along photographs of their home, new friends or even a food or recipe for which their state is known. (Children especially will enjoy doing this.) Display a large map of the U.S. and mark the route they have travelled. If it's a family reunion, use the occasion to begin or update a written - chronology of the generations of your family.
- Convert old home movies—starring family and friends—to videotape for showing at the party.
- Collect baby photographs of everyone who's attending and use them to make fun place cards at the table.

In a memo sent to Armed Services Committee colleagues, Bryon and Aspin outlined the steps which will be taken over the next several weeks. "Sexual harassment cannot and will not be tolerated in our military. By exercising our Congressional oversight and investigative responsibilities, we believe that we can make a positive contribution in moving the Pentagon to eliminate sexual harassment and bring about the full assimilation of women in the military."

The first investigation will focus on the cultural beliefs, attitudes, and perceptions about women and how tochange stereotypical thinking. Byron and Aspin noted

Loyola To Sell Hagerstown Branch To First Federal

First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland, parent company of First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland and Lovola Capital Corporation, parent company of Loyola Federal Savings Bank announced recently preliminary agreement for Loyola to sell its Hagerstown banking office

In Loving Memory Of Charles L. Clary who passed away July 12, 1989 We Miss You, Wife Hazel and Family and deposits to First Fed-

First Federal has assets of approximately $340 million and 11 banking offices in Western Maryland. Loyola has approximately $1.9 billion in assets and 34 banking offices in Maryland and Washington, D.C. Both Loyola and First Federal meet all federal capital standards. The sale is contingent upon approval by the Office of Thrift Supervision and, if approved, should be consummated sometime this year. Richard Deckerhoff, chairman and CEO of First Federal, expressed First Federal's pleasure at acquiring its first banking office in Hagerstown, a market closely related to that of Cumberland.

FB Calls Supreme Court Decision A Victory For Agriculture

The United States Supreme Court has reaffirmed the constitutional sanctity of private property rights by ruling in favor of a South Carolina landowner. The Supreme Court's stand behind private property not only strengthens the foundation of the free-enterprise system, but it also bolsters the continued success of American agriculture, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The Supreme Court, in "Lucas vs. South Carolina Coastal Council," overturned the South Carolina Supreme Court, which had earlier refused to compensate David Lucas when the state regulated away the entire value of his property.

The Supreme Court said South Carolina must compensate Lucas if it cannot prove that the taking was justified under existing state law

This is a clear-cut victory for all Americans, including America's farmers and ranchers," said Dean Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which filed a friend of the court brief in support of Lucas. "Agricultural producers have been as subject as anyone to restrictive regulations that impact property rights. There is a lot at stake when regulators reduce or eliminate our ability to provide food and fiber for this na-typically, as here, by requiring land to be left substantially in home for his family on one and sell the other. Before he could do either, the state enacted the Beachfront Management Act, which left Lucas' plans, a sizable investment, in ruin.

The Supreme Court's declaration of a compensable taking in this case delivers a message to regulators that they have gone too far in taking private property without awarding just compensation to landowners." Kleckner said

"Just as owners receive compensation when their property is taken through eminent domain, now compensation will be mandated when private property is taken through regulatory Whether a farmer loses his field to a new high way or to restrictive wetlands regulations, we believe the result is the same in each case -- a taking is a taking When compensation is not paid, the landowner's constitutional rights have been violated According to AFBF General Counsel John Rademacher, the court's favorable ruling toward property rights in the Lucas case returns the nuisance exception, which regulators have attempted to apply broadly, to its basic common-law roots. This, in turn, should expand the range of circumstances in which state and federal government must pay compensation when regulations intended to benefit the public destroy the value of an individual's ruling

This decision supports the key safeguard that James Madison and the other framers of our Constitution offered American property owners," he said. The ideal that a property owner has a fundamental and natural right to develop and use property, as long as direct harm is not caused to others, is a key part of our Bill of Rights.

Kleckner said that as a farmer himself, he knows America's farmers and ranchers welcome the Lucas

Agriculture is frequently subject to government regulations which substantially reduce the value of our land as well as our ability to use it productively," he said. "Wetlands regulations are one example of how the use of our private land resources are being restricted. Incomes have been reduced. In some cases, the value of land has plummeted at the stroke of a regulator's pen, leaving a farmer without the resources necessary to earn a living, and without the assets earned over a lifetime. "The bottom line in this ase is that if the public enefits from the regulation of private property, then the public, not just the individual landowner, must pay

Higher CAFE: The Stakes For American Agriculture

by George Berg. Transportation

American farms and ranches are among the most productive anywhere -- so much so that the United States for decades has not only fed itself but also helps feed the world. This as tounding productivity is the result of hard work, agricultural know-how -- and having the right tools for the job. On ranches and farms, the list of indispensable tools includes pickup trucks and other utility ve-

Now these tools could be lost, if Congress imposes drastically higher Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) standards on future cars and light trucks sold in the U.S. Higher CAFE standards could force automakers to downsize or eliminate full-size pickup trucks and utility vehicles, and sharply raise prices of the remaining full-size models to discourage sales. Either way, farmers and ranchers

The American farmer needs large, affordable pickup trucks on the mar ket, both for safety and utility. With drastic CAFE legislation, Congress is asking the American farmer to carry heavy loads on rough terrain in undersized ve hicles, which doesn't make any sense. Also, some members of Congress don't seem to care that the farm family may have to pay more money for less truck -- pickups that are lighter, smaller, less sturdy and less safe.

Proposals pending in ongress would increase CAFE levels for cars to as high as 45 miles per gallon (mpg) by 2001 (up from the current 27.5 mpg). And standards for light trucks and vans could be raised by 30 mpg from the current level of 20.2 mpg. Only a few cars and trucks can meet the drastic standards -- and they are small, low-powered models, which don't meet the needs of most consumers. Yet those could be the cars and trucks of the fu-

Some bills do not call directly for CAFE increases, but rather for a stabilization of carbon dioxide (CO2) emissions, supposedly to reduce "global warming." However, this approach would almost certainly lead to higher CAFE standards. of burning fossil fuels, and unrealistic increases to the only way to reduce CO2 emissions from vehicles is burning less fuel. But the legislation would have little or no effect on any global climate trends, since only a small fraction of worldwide "greenhouse" gases come from the U.S. cars and light trucks. In early April, the prestigious National Research Council released a study that highlighted the signifi cant trade-offs involved with improved fuel economy. The report said that large increases in CAFE standards would re duce highway safety, limit ability to reduce improvements in harmful tailpipe emissions and raise vehicle sticker prices as much as $2,750. The increases would also destroy jobs and damage the U.S. economy. That study urged policymakers to exercise caution, and sugfundamental gested changes in the whole CAFE regulatory program.

Secretary of Agriculture Madigan recently joined other federal officials in opposing drastically higher CAFE standards. The American Farm Bureau Federation, National Cattle man's Association, National Grange and other farming groups are firmly on record against such proposals. Farmers, ranchers and other rural Americans should let their members of Congress know of their strong opposition to any legislative proposals that would directly or indirectly force

According to speakers at a health care conference sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation. June 23-24, other pieces of the health care puzzle remain jumbled. Who should control the system? From what source should payments originate? What types of care should be covered by insurance?

One area most speakers agreed on was that access to critical health care procedures would decrease under a full-blown national health insurance plan controlled by the federal government. According to Patricia Schoeni, director of communications for the Health Insurance Association of America, the public also agrees on one major point the need for some changes in a system that devours 12 percent of the nation's GNP, vet leaves 32-33 million people uninsured.

A recent bipartisan public opinion survey conducted on behalf of Schoeni's organization discovered that 41 percent of the American public wants a significant change in the U.S. health care system, seven percent want minor changes and another 24 percent want some change.

On the public's agenda of congressional issues, health care costs came in second to larger concerns about the economy as a whole. There is considerable uncertainty among the American public about what changes they would like made in the present system, according to Schoeni.

"People want it all," she said. "They want everybody to have care and pay no or very little money for it. They don't want to have any tax

"When we asked people if they wanted national health insurance the overwhelming majority of people in this country say, 'Yes.' When you ask them what national health insurance means, not even half understand the concept. When you tell them it means the system will be run by the government they say, 'No, we don't want that.' When you say you have to pay for it through taxes they say,

The public is much better off when it controls the money and pays for the smaller expenses and uses insurance only for large, catastrophic and risky medical events." he said.

Current tax laws that discriminate against farmers and other self-employed individuals also encourage runaway health costs.

We have a tax law that says if your employer buys health insurance for you, instead of paying wages, those premiums avoid a 28 percent income tax, 15.3 percent Social Security and FICA tax, and a 4, 5 or 6 percent state or local income tax," Goodman said. "In essence, the government is paying about half the premium. This is a very generous subsidy that encourages us to continue doing things as we are now.

"By comparison, if you are self-employed, you're forced to pay taxes first and then pay for your health insurance with what is left over. So the self-employed are paying nearly twice as much for their health care as those covered by employ-

Testing Available For West Virginia Corn Producers

Are you interested in saving money on fertilizer? If you are, consider testing your corn fields for nitrogen fertilizer needs, advises the Preston County Soil Conservation Service.

Nitrogen is an essential plant nutrient for corn production. Research has shown a relationship between the amount of plantavailable-nitrogen and corn production. When nitrogen fertilizer is increased, production will increase to a point. At this point, added nitrogen will not increase production. Therefore, corn producers should have realistic yield goals to determine their nitrogen fertilizer needs. Realistic yield goals, based on soil capability and management, will help the corn producers avoid over-fertilization of their corn fields. Recent technological advances in the agricultural community have made possible the determination of the amount of nitrogen a corn plant needs to reach a realistic yield goal. The Nitrate Quick Test developed by Penn State and Hawk Creek Laboratory can analyze soil samples taken from corn fields to provide soil nitrate amounts. Based upon the soil nitrate content, a sidedress nitrogen fertilizer recommendation can be made Last year, 14 Preston County farmers participated in the soil nitrate testing program totaling 450 acres with 91 fields tested. "Corn producers saved approximately 27,000 pounds of nitrogen with an estimated cost savings of $8,000 to the participants," according to Joe Hatton, NPS Environmental Specialist, WVSSCC, "and with no decrease in production due to lack of nitrogen.' Nitrate is the organic form of nitrogen. Nitrate sources of nitrogen come from manures, legumes, crop residues, cover crops, etc. These nitrogen sources are readily available on farms and can be used to save dollars for fertilizer.

The problem with these or-Goodman said health ganic sources is determining the nutrient content, specifically nitrogen, crop production. The Nitrate Quick Test can analyze these soils for organic content. By doing so, the corn growers should be able to cut back on the commercial fertilizers needed to Increased use of designated drivers and seat belts are the goals of a unique cooperative traffic safety program announced by the Maryland State Police and Anheuser-Busch Companies, Colonel Larry W. Tolliver. perintendent of the Maryland State Police, recently announced the State Police Bureau of Enforcement's Support Services Division Training and Education Unit has been responsible for training over 2,600 state and allied law enforcement personnel since January 1992.

Since Governor William Donald Schaefer's mandate to the State Police to become the lead agency in the investigation of illegal drugs, the Training and Education Unit has become the national model for education for law enforcement in the areas of drug enforcement.

Colonel Tolliver stated, The Training and Education Unit developed a training catalog which details all areas of drug investigations." ome areas are basic drug investigations, technical surveillance, financial investigations, drug diversion, drug interdiction, conspiracy investigations, convert investigations, and trial preparation/courtroom demeanor. Through a cooperative agreement with Governor Schaefer's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission and the federal government, the schools are offered at no cost to the student or agency requesting training.

Colonel Tolliver added, "In my 25 years of state service, I have never seen a finer group of men and women that have dedicated themselves to better serving the citizens of Maryland by providing new and innovative training to police officers.

Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Carr, chief of the Bureau of Drug Enforcement stated, "The Training and Education Unit is the bright spot' within the drug bureau and with a mandate from Superintendent Tolliver the about appropriate behavior: keeping hands and feet inside, sitting down, holding on, and obeying the ride operator's instructions. Parents should not hesi

Natural Resources Camp Open To Maryland Youth

Maryland youth are invited to attend an educational experience that will focus on food, nutrition, fitness and natural resources. This resident camp program will be held August 17-19 for Maryland youth ages 8-18 (by Jan. 1) years of age at the Western Maryland 4-H Center in Garrett County. The $25 cost includes lodging, meals and all class fees.

The camp program is sponsored by the 4-H program of the University of Maryland and the Cooperative Extension Service and is open to all Western Maryland youth. The Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age, or natural origin. During the three days. participants will choose eight different workshops to atgroup meal, and take time for tate to ask the ride operator to stop the ride if their child cries or shows signs of distress. Most importantly, parents need to rely on their knowledge of their child's capabilities to determine if a particular ride is appropriate for their child.

The commissioner acknowledged that state inspectors work hard throughout the summer to ensure the safe and enjoyable use of amusement rides. He noted that rides, including water slides and go-kart operations, at permanent amusement parks are inspected, at a minimum, annually, and rides at carnivals and fairs are inspected at each location. Last year, during the 1991 amusement ride season, state inspectors performed over 3,000 inspections.

Expect the Best!

When you make a trip to the doctor, what services do you expect? Courteous, prompt attention? Questions to determine your symptoms? A prognosis? Effective treatment which meets your health objectives?

What if you intend to purchase a home? What services should you expect from the real estate professional you choose'

Look for service that begins with an enthusiastic greeting, followed by an interested, helpful attitude. Achieving your ultimate objective - finding the right home - can best be accomplished when the agent listens closely as you describe your home buying

Expect a lot of questions too. The agent's biggest challenge is learning to think like you do, so that unsuitable homes can be passed over in favor of ones which meet your needs and fulfill your dreams. The questions are the agent's way of learning what is important to you, and what is

You play an important role in the question and answer process too. Open, straightforward answers to the agent's questions provide important feedback, allowing the agent to narrow down the search for your next home Expect assistance with financing too. Ask the agent to have you "prequalified" by a mortgage lender. This process, which occurs before you begin your home search, provides valuable information about the mortgage for which you will qualify. Once qualified for the mortgage, the agent will research the market for homes which meet your requirements, preview the homes, arrange to show them to you, and write the purchase contract

Finally, you may expect of all details related to closing the purchase of your home. A wide range of services are available to you as a home buyer. Ask for details, then give your loyalty to the agent of your choice At Coldwell Banker you can always expect the best. Please call our office at 387-5303 and we will be pleased to work with you

ALCOHOL SALES

Statistics are available which might persuade anyone to vote against Sunday sales of alcohol -- this vill be on the November ballot. Question -- will they read them and respond? Likely not. Thus another approach to the problem. Should we have another diy to buy alcohol? Just a little thought should provoke a resounding no-why? Think of these reasons.

We drink for happiness and become unhappy. We drink for joy and become miserable We drink for sociability and become argumentative. We drink for sophistication and become obnoxious. We drink for friendship and make enemies. We drink for relaxation and get the shakes and cannot sleep. We drink for bravery and become afraid. We drink for conversation and our speech become

We drink to escape problems and create more. We drink to cope with life and so invite death.

Consider your fellow man -- vote against Sunday sales. Give him and you one day without the sale of the greatest killer of all times. Drugs and alcohol negatively alter the mind and the abilty to think.

Named Recipient Of$2,000 Scottish Rite Scholarship

Frank W. Miller, chairnan of the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Scottish Rite Foundation, has announced the selection of four scholarship recipients for 1992. The purpose of the scholarship is to provide a financial opportunity for deerving students to achieve their full potential in an accredited college or university of their choice. With the large increase in 1992 applications, the Foundation increased its total number of $2,000 scholarships to seven.

Miss Gracie, a 1992 raduate of Southern Garrett High School, has enrolled at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn. to study engineering. For three years she was active as a community volunteer with the Greenpeace and the Adopt-A-Highway programs. In high school she was active with the girls' sports, the Mock Trial Team, and the Students For Environmental Awareness. Miss Gracie is a Maryland Distinguished Scholar, a member of the National Honor Society, and Student of the Month for science, English, and mathematics. She ranked in the top 5% of a graduating class of 199.

Extension Service Offers Advice On Mosquitoes

Persons planning to spend time in the great outdoors this summer will most likely have at least several encounters with one of warm weather's insect pests: the

Although mosquitoes in North America don't transmit diseases like those in the tropics do, their bites can cause an itching sensation that ranges from barely noticeable to unbearable, said Dr. Lee Hellman, an entomologist with the Maryland Cooperative Extension Ser-

Fortunately, there are strategies to follow in limiting the mosquito population and exposure to the insects.

One of the best control strategies on the home front, according to Hellman, is to have well-maintained screens on all windows and doors. These barriers effectively deny access to the blood-sucking pests.

While hiking, picnicking or just sitting out in the backyard, an insect repellent is the best defense. DEET, the active ingredient in such repellents, seems to disorient the mosquitoes so they don't know where to bite. Mosquito repellents remain effec-

AIDS Education Course Slated

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor an HIV/AIDS Education Course for any person interested in becoming HIV/AIDS educators.

The course will be held Tuesday, Aug. 11, and Wednesday, Aug. 12, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., at Garrett Community College in McHenry. An instructor training course for anyone not previously having the ourse will be held Monday, August 10, at GCC from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Persons completing this course will then be able to give HIV/AIDS education presentations to the public.

We have been living with AIDS since 1981 when cases of rare cancers and illnesses appeared in people whose immune systems were nearly destroyed. Society now lives with the growing impact that AIDS has not only on medical care, public health, employment and law, but on family and friends of people infected with the AIDS virus. If the spread of HIV infection is to elimited people must be educated," stated instructor

Cindy Kutchman. Kutchman said the goals of Red Cross HIV/AIDS eduition are: t ip prevent the spread of HIV infection and to help people respond in reasonable ways to HIV infection itself, as well as to the people who have it. "Red Cross instructors who accurately present the facts about HIV infection in their communities make a significant contribution to public understanding," she said. "Some research shows that people who don't know the facts are more likely to respond emotionally than those who do

The cost of the course is $28 per person. Any person wishing to register may do so by mailing payment to the Garrett County Chapter ARC, P.O. Box 524, Oakland, MD 21550. No medical background is necessary.

Hafer Criticizes State's Proposed Transportation Plan

District 1 Senator John J. Hafer recently claimed that Western Maryland has been short-changed in the proposed state transportation plan, since these counties will only receive $8,385,000 of the total $1.7 billion of expected revenues from the five-cent fueltax increase

In the 1993 budget, the preliminary engineering costs for the Maryland Rt. 220 relocation are identified as $3,454,000 and the Canal Parkway preliminary engineering costs of $4,931,000 are targeted for 1994. "Only two transportation projects are proposed for funding for Western Maryland, according to the five-year plan," said Senator Hafer. "These projects are for preliminary engineering only,"he continued. "Indeed, these projects are very important, but our local economy needs construction projects as priority --projects that will create jobs and put people to work. This $8.3 million represents only one-half of one percent of the total generated revenues of $1.7 billion. I don't call this amount a fair-share. The major portion of transportation funds has been allocated to the D.C. suburbs -- $516 million to Montgomery and Prince George's counties. Monies also have been diverted to pay for Montgomery and Prince Georges counties' share of the Washington Metro operating costs in addition to the $48 million that was transferred from the Transportation fund to help balance this year's state budget," said Hafer. "It doesn't matter whether an area supported the tax increase or not," he continued. "The bottom line is that everyone is paying the increase in tax now since it passed and everyone in all parts of the state should get theirfairshare. The western counties, Carroll County (receiving nothing) and the Eastern Shore, are being penalized." he said.

Hafer again emphasized his position against tax increases, saying they are unaffordable for people. There are additional taxes at the local level and these are very difficult times for everyone." he said. "With more taxes to pay, discretionary income is more limited and spending is decreased."

For this reason, the state is realizing less revenues than originally projected, according to Hafer, who also noted that about $75 million less will be generated for highway construction than expected from the five-cent per gallon gasoline tax increase, which could mean 3,600 fewer jobs and a decrease in the income tax that those jobs would have pro-

"Beautiful People" Nominees Being Sought For Award

It's time once again to nominate Maryland's outstanding volunteers for the sixth annual "Maryland's Most Beautiful People" awards, according to Pat Vetter, local coordinator for the project.

The theme for this year's contest is "Plant a Deed." " A tree is the perfect symbol for volunteerism because although it looks like a single object, it is really a network that reaches out and answers people's needs," said Governor William Donald Schaefer. "Trees are the key to the future. They dignify and beautify and promote life, but just like the good folks who volunteer their time, their value often goes unnoticed. It is important that we appreciate that value. Plant a deed!"

The project is highly dependent upon the coordination efforts of local governments. Nomination forms are available in many public buildings throughout the state and will be received by the county's government. All nominees will be honored at local awards ceremonies. One nominee from each county plus Baltimore City will be chosen to represent all nominees from their area at a statewide awards ceremony on November 4 in Annapolis, hosted by Governor Schaefer. The deadline for nominations is Septem-

Deer Park Man Injured In One-Car Mishap Sunday

A Deer Park man received minor injuries in a single-vehicle mishap Sunday and was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland,, according to a hospital nursing spokesperson. William B. Teter, 19, was transported to the local hospital following the 5:50 p.m. mishap that occurred on westbound Md. Rt. 135. According to Cpl. G.R. Chaney of the Maryland State Police, the accident occurred when Teter, operating a 1984 Lincoln Town Car, apparently fell asleep at the wheel and ran off the right side of the roadway. The vehicle then reportedly struck two trees.

Cpl. Chaney charged Teter with negligent driving.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland Friday, July 24

The Garrett County Chapterof the American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region, has announced its next Oakland visit of the bloodmobile will be Friday, July 24, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the National Guard Armory on Eighth Street.

The blood drive is an effort to maintain the Johnstown Region's commitment to the blood and blood product needs of patients in the 64 hospitals it serves in 40 counties.

"There is a continuous need for blood donors in order to meet the needs of area the Johnstown Region patients with cancer, leukemia, and other acute and chronic illnesses; as well as the emergency blood needs of accident victims. The only source of blood is healthy people who come out to donate at their local blood drive," said Lucy Burnett, Garrett County Chapter Blood Co-Chairman.

Burnett said that at the present time there is a need for type O in local hospitals. She explained that, because of emergencies or other circumstances, hospitals often experience a shortage of a certain blood type, most frequently type O. A type O donor can give to any blood type recipient, however a type O recipient can only receive type O blood.

Interesting Behavior...

It's fascinating to observe the human psyche at work during a presidential election year, as the various candidates vie for political office and staunch. seemingly crazed, supporters believe, for some unknown reason, that their candidate is the candidate who is special. No matter how many political promises are broken, year after year, no matter how many times it is proven that all candidates are fallible human beings, in every subsequent campaign, supporters are convinced that their candidate is different. The whole scene is really a farce that is repeated over and over

This scenario is taking place at the Democratic National Convention in New York City this week, where William Clinton is viewed by several thousand screaming delegates as the next best thing to Jesus Christ. The same thing will undoubtedly happen at the Republican Convention with President Bush.

We find it interesting that the Democrats, whose party supposedly represents the "common man," are spending just about twice as much on their convention this year as the Republicans. Nearly 40 million dollars are being expended for what really amounts to nothing more than a big party for the delegates and their candidate. In their numerous Bush-bashing speeches, the various keynote speakers have gone on and on about the poor and the jobless and the hungry people of our nation who will be far better served by a Democrat administration. We wonder what all those poor, jobless, hungry people think about the $40 million spent for an event that is being held to nominate a candidate who was technically already Granted, there is great value in an organized pep rally, as such an event can provide a real boost to any campaign. The locker room talk by the coach before the big game can truly mean the difference between winning and losing. However, it seems that such an event could be held for far less money. Evidently the Republicans will prove this point in a few weeks.

Another interesting characteristic of humanity is how radically the political polls can change literally overnight and why they do so. Just three days ago, for example, Clinton and Bush were about even in the polls (approx. 30 percent each), while Perot was just a few percentage points behind. This morning, the polls have Clinton as high as 45 percent, Bush still around 30, and Perot just over 20 percent.

The only thing that could have changed people's minds is the rhetoric of the Democratic convention this week. There certainly has been little substance as to specifically what the Democrats will do to make life better in America. Clinton has not even spoken yet!

It's frightening to realize how easy it is to sway the attitude of the general public. Of course, it did cost $40

To the Editor:

The revised proposal of graduation requirements for public high schools in Maryland was published in the Maryland Register on June 12, 1992. Included in the revised proposal is the recommendation that the graduation requirement for physical education be reduced from one credit to one-half credit.

This proposal was presented by the Board in April after overwhelming testimony last fall that supported maintaining the physical education require ment. If anything, all evidence supports daily physical education. Recent medical studies have reinforced the concept that regular, vigorous exercise may help to dramatically reduce many causes illnesses and prolong an individual's life span. Dr. JoAnn Manson of Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston, principal author of appeared in the Journal of the American Medical Association, recommends a 30-minute exercise period 3 to 4 times a week. Yet the State Board is proposing that after the ninth grade, high school students do not have to participate in physical education.

One cannot debate the increase in the academic credits that is proposed. However, in April 1992, The Association for Superv and Curriculum Develop ment stated "that a quality sequentially planned phy sical education program for students is vital to a comprehensive, well-balanced educational program. Physical education can make a significant contribution toward all educational outcomes.

As we increased the time students spend in academic pursuits, we also reduce their time for interaction among peers and leisure time activities during school hours. We expect students to sit in class for five to six hours a day and stay focused on learning objectives. One wonders why we have behavior problems and why students cannot stay on task. These problems can be reduced by presenting these students with increased opportunities for physical exercise to release the tension of rigorous classroom work In a close examination of the longer school day experienced by the high school student in Japan, one learns that the increased time is not spent in the classroom but is added to the recess and extra-curricular activities.

At the end of this month, when the state board finalizes the high school graduation requirements, I ope the members of the Board will reconsider main taining the one credit physical education requirement and not expect our students to do something that is impossible for most adults to do and that is to sit for five to six hours a day without an activity break. I wonder if the State Board of Education members would enjoy sitting through five meetings a day without a

COMPUTERS IN THE SCHOOLS By Dr. Jerome Ryscavage

(This week's update was written with the assistance of Chuck Trautwein, computer resource teacher.)

Thanks largely to Potomac Edison, Garrett County school students, especially at the elementary level, are able to use computers regularly in their studies. We have a total of 268 Apple computers distributed between 12 schools. Most of these computers are in a designated classroom we like to refer to as a computer classroom. Some schools, because of limited room, do not have a computer classroom, but have one or two computers in each regular classroom. Each elementary school has its own network which links the computers at that school

In our middle and high schools we use mostly IBM personal computers. Both Southern and Northern middle schools have a computer lab of at least 30 IBM computers. Northern and Southern High Schools have similar labs of IBM computers for general use. In addition, both high schools have a separate classroom of IBM computers which are used for the Career and Technology Education Programs at each school. We also have 20 computers in each Career and Technology Education Lab which are used primarily for teaching Business Data Processing courses. Finally, Potomac Edison provided Southern High School with a classroom of 20 Apple computers. These computers are the same type we use in the elementary schools and are used for math and science instruction

An application of the use of computers which is probably on the cutting edge of the way in which computers will be used in the 2000's is located at the Kitzmiller Elementary School. Kitzmiller was the first school to receive a computer classroom from Potomac Edison four years ago and the school served as a pilot for others in the county receiving the same classrooms. Since the first computer classroom was so successful, two years ago Potomac Edison placed a second computer classroom in the 4th/5th grade classroom at Kitzmiller. Mrs. Judy Burrell is the 4th/5th grade teacher at Kitzmiller and her classroom is the first regular classroom in Garrett County in which every student has his/her own computer and may be the first in the state. Mrs. Burrell's students use the computers for approximately 70 percent of their instructional time and serve as a model for other schools to follow.

Basically, our teachers use computers as a tool for instruction. Elementary school teachers at schools with computer classrooms have regular times to take students to the computer classroom for instruction. We have a wide selection of software for elementary school teachers to use to help their students achieve objectives and outcomes taught by the teacher. Each elementary school has a comprehensive math software package which models concepts in math, gives practice, tests, records, and reports mastery of each student's achievement outcomes. It is important to note that the instruction that occurs in the computer classroom is closely tied to activities in the regular classroom. Elementary teachers also have opportunities to use word processors, databases, spreadsheets, and graphing programs with their students. Again, this is closely tied to objectives regularly taught by elementary teachers in math, writing, science, and so on. Middle and high school teachers use computers in a similar fashion -- one difference being that all sixth grade students go through an orientation course where they learn about using the IBM computers and software available at the middle schools. In addition, sixth grade students are introduced to keyboarding concepts. At the high school level we offer half credit courses in computer applications and programming and a three credit career and technology education course called business data

Teachers are periodically offered the opportunity to attend workshops and other inservice activities in order to become more familiar with the instructional resources which the computer has to offer. This combination of trained teachers, up-to-date computer hardware, and meaningful software greatly enhance the instructional program of each youngster in the Garrett County schools.

Out Of The Darkness

Several new groups of dedicated men and women are making positive moves in the direction of stamping out the stigma surrounding the subjects of mental illness and those affected by it. Not only victims but family members, friends, neighbors and co-workers need to be educated and presented with facts rather than age-old myths and tales derived from

One of the leading organizations of note today is the Alliance from the Mentally Ill of Garrett County. Others include the Mental Health Task Force 2000; the state mandated Mental Health Advisory Council; and the newly formed Board of Directors of Lighthouse, Inc., Garrett County's only rehabilitation day program for the mentally ill. Lighthouse members, staff and directors are about to embark on an exciting and challenging adventure as a private, non-profit entity for the first time. The future looks bright, and AMI will be watching with special interest and concern, as will be our communities served by this county-

Identifying needs is of major importance. Coupling those needs and people with proper and timely care and services is a number one goal with all the aforementioned groups.

There is a vast support network coming together in our county of which we are very proud. No one has to face the fear and the unknown of any form of mental illness alone. But one does need to reach out.

Our next column will deal with where to find help, how to seek that help, how to admit the need for that help, and how to put aside fear and embarrassment.

It is very important to remember: There is no shame in mental illness. One in every four families is, has been or will

Deer Park Man Arrested On Theft Charge

A Deer Park man was arrested yesterday by members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on the charge of theft. Timothy Schrock, 37, was taken into custody following an investigation concerning the theft of 30 copper radiators taken from Dale Broadwater several months ago.

Dep. J. Sowers and Det. Murphy arrested the defendant and he remained incarcerated at press time, according to a sheriff's office spokesperson.

In other sheriff office news, an Oakland man is incarcerated in lieu of $10,000 after being arrested on the strength of a bench warrant issued by Garrett County Circuit Court. Robert B. Smith, 24, was convicted second degree rape in January 1991, according to the report, and probation was ordered at that time. He apparently violated the terms of the probation and was consequently arrested vesterday

The sheriff's office personnel is currently investigating two cases of theft as well

First United Notes Earnings, Declares Dividend

First United Corporation, multi-bank holding company headquartered in Oakland, recently announced net ncome of $1.41 million for the second quarter of 1992. Because of these earnings, the Board of Directors has declared a quarterly cash dividend of $.30 per share.

Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president, and chief executive officer for the Corporation. stated, "Year-to-date, First United has exhibited a 1.55% Return on Average Assets, resulting in net income of $2.70 million. "This is an 18.66 percent increase over the same period in 1991. I'm very gratified with these results, which place us among some of the top performing banks in the nation

Stanton attributed the strong earnings to "sound asset/liability management. continued commitment of the loan review process, and a unique Corporation-wide emphasis on cost control." First United Corporation plans future enhancements of this strategy, he said.

As a result of solid performance, year-to-date the return on average shareholder's equity for First United Corporation is 14.81 percent. This compares favorably with the 13.29 percent Return on Average Shareholder's Equity exhibited for the same period in 1991, Stanton noted.

Our shareholders continue to offer positive comments about the Corporations performance," he said. "As a matter of fact, considering the current interest rate en vironment, the dividend performance alone is attractive. Shareholders with dividend reinvestment have earned a 4.33 percent return on this investment in one year. This return doesn't even reflect the stock's increase in market value.

The recently declared dividend of $.30 per share will be payable to shareholders of record as of July 22, 1992, to be paid on August 1,

This dividend reflects the consistent dividend policy of the Corporation. The August dividend follows $.30 per share dividends paid on February 1 and May 1 of this Continuing his discussions on performance, Stanton stated, "Year-to-date net interest income was $8.45 million during the first six months of 1992. This repreents an increase of $.43 milon over the first six months of 1991. Loans were the main source of interest accounting for $12.47 million or 80.45 percent of the total interest income earned by the Corpo ration. Other time deposits for possible credit losses. posted at $.12 million for the second quarter of 1992. This compares with a $.23 million for the same period in 1991. Year-to-date, the provision for possible credit losses totalled a $.30 million versus $.47 million for the first six months of 1991.

Other operating income increased $.05 million over year-to-date operating income in 1991. Stanton said the increase was largely because of greater Trust department earnings and increased premiums from First United's reinsurance subsidiary, Oakfirst Life Insurance Corporation. At the same time, non-interest expense totalled $5.48 million, representing a decrease of .36% over the same period in 1991. Deposit growth continues to remain slow for First United, Stanton said. As of June 30, 1992, total deposits were $306.40 million, representing a .55% decline over year end 1991. However, net loans increased 1.50% over the same period. The increase in loans was largely because noted in a reduced provision of increases in mortgage vol-

> Stanton concluded, "Our successful performance has been made possible through the efforts of our dedicated employee base. They continue to give many hours of their own time in training programs. The result is a high evel of quality service given to our customers.

First United Corporation has two banking subsidiaries: First United National Bank & Trust and First United Bank of West Virginia, N.A. As of June 30, 1992, the Corporation posted assets of $348.26 million, total deposits of $306.40 million, and capital resources of $37.97 million.

Local Students To Attend Annual Forestry Workshop

The Garrett County Forestry Board has announced that three area students will be attending this year's Forestry Conservation and Natural Resources Week from July - August 1.

This year's students are Jason Friend, Oakland; Chris Meyers, Friendsville; and Bradley Hoover, Accident.

The week-long workshop is designed to acquaint high school students with forestry and natural resource management career opportunities. A variety of lectures, field trips, and meetings give participants a first-handlook into the fields of forestry, wildlife biology, fisheries, recreation, and the physical sciences. This year's workshop will be held at Camp Hickory Environmental Education Center, near Accident.

The camp is sponsored by the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards in cooperation with the Department of Natural Resources, Resource Conservation Service - Forestry DiState Park Summer Programs

Garrett Legion Team Falls To Posts 24 And 13

It was another tough week for the Garrett County Junior American Legion baseball team, as Coach Ed Wildesen's young squad was twice defeated by Farrady Post 24 of Frostburg and also lost to Fort Cumberland Post 13.

Garrett was topped by Farrady last Thursday at Frostburg State University, 8-5, was shut out 3-0 by Post 13 on Saturday at Donahue Field, and then fell to Farrady again on Tuesday at FSU, 7-2. The local hurlers will attempt to get back into the win column this afternoon when they host Cumberland at Garrett Community College. They will play Farrady again next Tuesday at Frostburg and then travel to Cumberland next Thurs-

Garrett took a 5-0 lead into the bottom of the fourth inning against Farrady last Thursday, but that's when the home team began to rally for its win.

farrady scored one run in the fourth and then tied the score with four runs in the sixth, as Rick Swanger led off with a single, went to third on a double by Larry Kennell, and scored on a ground-out by Jason Cutter. Kennell came home on an error and Carl Stevens and Tom Shaffer followed with

Soccer League Fall Enrollment Is Announced

The Mountaintop Soccer Association has announced it is in the process of initial registration for the fall

According to association president Carole Ann Lovett. families who have played in the organization previously will be sent registration materials to their homes this month. Players who wish to enroll must complete and return the appropriate forms to Secretary, Dave Spirk.

Registration has been set at $15 per player for the upcoming season and this year includes supplemental insurance for accidents that may occur while playing in organized games or practice sessions. This benefit is an enhancement brought about by the Association's recent decision to affiliate with the Maryland State Youth Soc cer Association (MSYSA), Lovett said. Players who submit their paid enrollment prior to August 1, will pay

We would like to know as early as possible what our participating level will be this fall so we can begin to plan for uniforms, fields, coaches, and equipment," Spirk said Virtually everything we do is dependent upon how many people come out to play. That's why we're offering the organization a discount for signng up early.

The organization is entering its third year of existence and officers are looking forward to growing in numbersonce again. The MYSL, as it was formerly known, experience a 50% growth in membership between the first and second years. With two off-season workshops held in May, they could well experience higher enrollment once

Spirk continued, "We have decided to expand the age brackets at both ends of the spectrum and that should open the game to even more players. Carole Ann Lovett

Mourning Dove Hunting Season Options Proposed

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced yesterday that the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife Division has announced proposals for the 1992 hunting seasons for mourning doves. The proposals consist of two alternative seasons, a comprehensive statewide season, or one dividing the state into east/west zones.

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Correy C. Brown, M.D., said, In recent months, we have eceived numerous requests from sportsmen who would like the opportunity to hunt mourning doves late in the winter on the lower Eastern Shore. Prior to initiating any change in dove hunting season dates from what we have enjoyed in recent years, we would like public input on the two options we have pro-

GIRLS' ALL-STAR SOFTBALL ACTION - The Oakland Junior Girls' Softball League All-Star game held recently at Broad Ford Elementary School field where the best players from the six teams played for an enthusiastic crowd. The first-, third-, and fifth-place all-star team (Frank Arnold, Beachy Lumber, and Oakview Motors, respectively) was coached by Bob Reese and Nick Brown, while the second-, fourth-, and sixth-place all-stars (Mountaineer Log and Siding, Ray Ban, and Buffalo Coal) were coached by Larry and Janet Tichnell. In the first inning, Reese's team scored one run and Tichnell's team scored 2p. That soon changed, however, when Tichnell's team scored three runs in the second inning and eight additional runs during the game. Reese's team picked up only one additional run in the game, resulting in the final score of 11-2.

Ways to Prevent Premature Skin Aging

Skin aging is a normal process that leaves the skin's surface smooth and unblemished. There is some loss of elasticity, and some deepening of surface markings, including wrinkles. Sunlight causes a type of aging -- called photoaging -- that may not appear until several years after excessive sun exposure. With photoaging, the skin is leathery, and skin color is uneven. Loss of elasticity is significant, and wrinkles are deep. Photoaged skin is more likely to become cancerous than is skin that has been protected against excessive sun exposure from child-

*INTRODUCING THE SHOP WHERE It's Forever Christmas Eve. *

We call it The Holly & Ivy. You'll call it a very different kind of Christmas shop. Walk from the heat and glare of midsummer into a cozy parlor that is brimming with the sights, sounds, and aromas of Christmas. In fact, it is Christmas Eve. At The Holly & Ivy, the clock is forever set at 11:15 pm, December 24th. Everything is in readiness for Santa's arrival...and yours. Fragrant punch, cookies, the whisper of snowflakes at the window, and the reflected glow of wonderful things. Here you can browse at your leisure. If you are pleased with a decoration's effect in our parlor, you can easily imagine its place in your own. Our selection is as varied and many-splendored as the celebration of Christmas. The Holly & Ivy is a work of love. The three of us...Julia Lubis, Debbie Savage, and Nancy Frost...have spent months selecting the kinds of ornaments, decorations, and accessories we love to display in our own homes. The Holly & Ivy opens its door on Saturday, July 4th. So drop by one of these warm summer days...and spend Christmas Eve with us.

We're located in the lower level at The Fort in McHenry, next to Savage Frost. Open seven days a week, from 10am till 6pm. Call us at (301) 387-9111.

Brennemans Celebrate 40th

Mr. and Mrs. Harley D. Brenneman were entertained with a party in celebration of their 40th anniversary on July 5 at the Bittinger Community Building.

The building was decorated in lavender and mint green, representing the color scheme used in the wedding of the Brennemans. The Brenneman children: Rick, Lynn, Ron, Brenda, Terry, Greg, Tammy, Pam, and Todd, presented their parents with a corsage and boutonniere and also entertained with a number of musical selections. Approximately 70 friends and relatives were in attendance.

Harley and Joyce (Killius) Brenneman were married at the Springs Mennonite Church in Springs, Pa., on July 18, 1952, by the Rev.

File Suit

Continued from Page A-1 structure," according to a memorandum dated January 2, 1990, from Robert Fousek county clerk, to Evans. The increments were to be given to adjust the pay scales in order to correct the determined deficiency. The approval of the two unpaid increments was apparently verbal, not written

The release from the commissioners states that the previous board of commissioners did recognize the flaw in 1990 and did agree, if fiscally possible, to adjust the base salaries of all non-union county personnel. But because of monetary shortfalls directly related to unanticipated funding reductions by the state which occurred during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1991, found that further adjustment in the FY '92 budget could result in the county government not having the necessary funds to continue operations without a reduction in the work force. According to the release, this factor was further reflected in the fact that all non-union personnel did not receive any salary adjustment in January 1992. The action was taken in legislation passed by the General Assembly to address the fiscal crisis facing the counties and state. Thomas B. Dabney Jr. attorney for the plaintiffs, explained Monday that the law suit follows over three years of discussion between the sheriff and the commissioners concerning the pay scale of sheriff's office employees. Dabney stated that the starting salary for the employees is below standard, as the deputies in particular must undergo a considerable amount of training to become officers and to keep upto-date on the latest policing techniques deputy trainee is $15,299. on the other hand, must be Within his or her first year of employment, the officer must complete six months of training at the Maryland State Police Academy. Upon the completion of training, the salary given is to be $19,185. Dabney compared the starting salary to that of a starting truck driver for the Garrett County Roads Department, which is $20,862.40. According to Dabney, truck driving is the most basic level of entry into the roads department. Persons in that position are not required to have a high school diploma nor a GED (general education degree), and they are not required to participate in any sort of continuing education for the certified in various areas in constant re-education processes, such as in firearms and radar re-certification.

"The sheriff's office has significantly different training demands than any other office," Dabney stated. The lawyer added that the pursuit of the plaintiffs is solely to attain the salary increments "promised" to them, and that officers are "not trying to be punitive." Lieutenant Paul Pratt stated that the deputies do not want to penalize Garrett County citizens in any fashion, and that the officers are not threatening to strike or to slacken in their duties.

Corporal Randy Sines stated that the officers have already withstood several setbacks in their jobs because of state budget cuts, including the loss of 12 holidays in the past year (some of which have been restored) and the absence of over-time pay since last September. He reported that morale is low among the officers. Pratt also noted the loss of off-hour usage of police vehicles. "A police officer is on duty 24 hours a day," the officer said. "It's difficult to do our duty from an unmarked car. The public needs to see the marked vehicles for security. We are not able to provide that security right now.

Dabney also reported that six or seven of the officers have second jobs, and that some would qualify for food stamps if they applied.

The reasoning for including the sheriff in the suit concerns the efforts of Evans in obtaining the approved increments

"We would have liked to see a more concerted effort on Sheriff Evans part in obtaining the funds," Dabney said. He added that during one discussion between Evans and the commissioners. the sheriff asked for only $750 instead of the previous ly-agreed upon amount of

The plaintiffs feel he is not fully supportive of the officers," Dabney said.

Sheriff Evans did not ablicly respond to the filing of the law suit, but stated that he was presently discussing the matter with his attorney.

The commissioners' rease stated that the elected officials believe their actions were "justified and non-discriminatory.

The plaintiffs in the case are Sines, Pratt, Charles P. Nolan, Middie D. Hoover, David M. Stoner, Michael W Stem, Jay Sowers, Donald W. Tucker, David Crossland, Christopher C. Feller, Jack Michaels, Jeffrey L. Green, Edward J. Livingood, John H. Smith, Johnny Ray Hershberger, Larry E. Gnegy, Dove E. DeBerry, Mark P. Proulx, Dale E. Harvey, Jeffrey D. Murphy, David E. ## Continued on Page C-6 Cabaret Theatre Returning For Second Season

The Front Street Cabaret Theatre is reopening its doors for its second season in Thomas, W.Va. This summer, the Cabaret expanded its offering to three weekends instead of two. All shows will start at 8 p.m. on July 24 and 25, July 31 and August 1, and August 7 and 8. It has also extended its performance space to include the black patio behind Coffman's Department Store, complete with continental style outdoor cafe tables, festive lighting and flowing spring fountain. Refreshments will be served.

Some new as well familiar faces will be featured in the performances this year which will include original presentations of music, drama, dance, comedy improvisation, mime, and storytelling, E. Reid Gilbert, Robin Lea Pyle, and Thomas Reese will return to form the Cabaret Players.

Each weekend the Players will be seen in Shake's Spirits, a "playet" combining various scenes from Shakes-peare's comedies which depict three well-intentioned but bumbling Shakespeare actors. The actors portray characters from A Midsummer Night's Dream, Love's Labor's Lost and The Two Gentlemen of Verona based on a text edited by Ms. Pyle with physical antics created by the players. Each weekend's version of Shake's Spirits will be unique due to its unpredictable nature of these comical characters. For the Cabaret's second weekend (July 31 and August 1), the Cabaret Players will be joined by dancersinger Ilene Evans from Chicago who will share numerous folktales and songs as well as performing her -woman show General Moses: Stories from the Life of Harriet Tubman, David Saadeh, a clown mime from Delaware who is currently touring Guam, will also appear that weekend perrming his clown show with unicycle and juggling clubs. Saadeh will do a special matinee performance for children on Saturday afternoon (August 1) with the time and location to be an-

On the third weekend of the Cabaret (August 7 and 8), Washington based actor Jefferson Cronin will join the Players to perform his one-man show West Virginia Hillbilly focusing on the life and writing of Jim Comstock. Mr. Cronin will be remembered as one of the original members of Mountain State Players, a theatre company directed by Reid Gilbert which performed a ten week season at Canaan

Valley in 1982. Interspersed among these featured pieces will be vari-ous tales told by Reid Gilbert, a dance solo entitled Lady Blue by Ms. Pyle, and all manor of comedy improvisation skits masterminded by Thomas Reese. Last summer's audience will be pleased to know that Stephanie Jump of New York City will return to join Mr. Reese in presenting the continuing improv-saga of Fannie and Syd, the English couple infamous for their creative rendition of the Monongahela Blues.

All of the performers are in the area to participate in a month long Mythic Workshop taking place at New-ground, (Gilbert and Pyle's farm at Red Creek), sponsored by Valley Studio, Inc., a non-profit arts organization which was originally organized in 1970 in Spring Green, Wis.

Cindy Sites To Sing In Terra Alta

Cindy Sites, a southern gospel singer from Petersburg, W.Va., will be appearing July 19 at 7:30 p.m. at the Whitedale Brethren Church, Terra alta, W.Va. Ms. Sites' professional when she signed a contract to record a southern gospel project with Tim Greene, of the Singing Greenes from Boone, N.C. Her first tape "A New Heart" had two single releases. "To Obey Him" and "Plenty of Time." Both have appeared on the Top 40 charts of many southern gospel radio stations, Her last two singles, "Thanks Again" and "Day of Praise," were equally successful, rising to the Top 20 charts on many stations

Her new single, "Where Are You Lord?" from her latest cassette, "God's Way, was released in March 1992.

She has performed in concert with some of the biggest names in southern gospel music, including Steve and Annie Chapman, The Greenes, The Perrys, The Bishops, The Down East Boys, The Spencers, The Wilburns, the Chuck Wagon Gang, Wendy Bagwell, and the Sunlighters and the Southmen.

Hergrandfather, Monzel Weaver, was a member of the Short Gap Quartet for over 25 years. When she was 5 years old her family established the Ullery Family Gospel Singers. By the time she turned 7 years of age, Cindy was playing along on the autoharp. She later moved up to the bass guitar, violin, and piano. She and her husband, Trent, are the parents of a

Local Students Attending ARC Honors Workshop

Two students from Garrett County are among the 47 attendees participating in the two-week Appalachian Regional Commission Honors Workshop at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory (ORNL) in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, July 12-25. The participating stu-dents are Marlin Wand of Northern High School and Ingrid Carlson of Southern High School.

The workshop, which is designed to enhance the math and science skills of students and teachers, is co-sponsored by the Appalachian Regional Commission and the U.S. Department of Energy.

During their two weeks at Oak Ridge, the participants will have an opportunity to conduct hands-on research in the Metals and Ceramics Laboratory at ORNL under guidance and assistance from research scientists. The Garrett County participants are part of a team of Appalachian students and teachers studying topics ranging from the synthesis, processing, and characterization of superconductors to laboratory growth of the world's hardest material -diamonds.

tipurpose research and development centers. It is operated by Martin Marietta Energy Systems, Inc.

In all probability, this diver is familiar with the dangers of a hazardous coastline and the perils of the deep. Therefore, difficulty is weighed with desire, and suited in knowledge and faith, the diver takes a soaring plunge as a bird into the boundless beyond.

We, too, must weigh difficulty with desire; yet, through regular worship, the knowledge of God's Word and our faith in His power allows us to assess each situation and to "take the plunge", as we trust our lives to the Almighty . . . and we soar!

ON NOT ACCEPTING CORRECTION July 19, 1992

Background Scripture: Zephaniah 3. Devotional Reading:

Psalms 51: 10-19. Often, it is bad enough that we sin, but many of us compound our sin by refusing to accept correction. This was the heart of Zephaniah's prophecy against Judah: "Woe to her that is rebellious and defiled, the oppressing city? She listens to no voice she accepts no correction" (3:1,2). Several decades ago, Richardson Dilworth was running for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania. He had been District Attorney in Philadelphia while I was in college and I admired the job he had done under difficult circumstances. In the midst of that gubernatorial campaign, Dilworth was asked about a decision he had made several years previous in the midst of a serious strike. Instead of hedging or fudging or brazening out his position, Mr. Dilworth acknowledged that he had been wrong in the decision he had made. "Wrong"? A politician "wrong"? How could that "I WAS WRONG!"

Mr. Dilworth paid dearly for this admission, for one of the sides in the labor dispute with whom he had originally sided -- became irate and vowed that they would prevent him from becoming Governor. And they did. Essentially, he lost because he admitted he had been wrong. I'm afraid he's the only politician I can remember losing for the sake of his honesty. Have you noticed that no one in public life -- and private life, too -- has ever done anything really "wrong?" Every public official responds to any ing with the explanation that he or she was misquoted, mis understood or maligned. How refreshing it would be to hear one of the present presidential candidates say, "Yes, I did do that and it was a mistake, a bad mistake!"

As the old saying goes, "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." If it behooves people in public life to be willing to accept correction and even to admit to mistakes and -- dare we use the word -- sins, what about us? How open to correction are we? How willing are we to consider that perhaps our actions are not as righteous as we might wish to b

I AM NOT GOD

Have you ever considered why it is that some people can never accept any correction or reproof? Contrary to what we might think, it is not because they think too highly of themselves, but not highly enough. If you are a secure person, cism is not devastating. If I feel reasonably good about life and my relationship with God, it does not destroy me for some one to suggest that I have acted unfairly or unjustly in a particular situation. It will not have been my first failure nor my last one. I can live with the knowledge that I am not God. It is only when one's confidence is shaky that correction appears so threatening. In other words defensiveness and self-righ teousness are often signs of vulnerability. The people against whom Zephaniah's prophecy was chiefly directed are not the kinds of people we might expect to be the subjects of blame: "Her officials within her are roaring lions; her judges are evening wolves that leave nothing til the morning. Her prophets are wanton, faithless men; her priests profane what is sacred they do violence to the law (3:3,4). These are not the normal malefactors of society drunkards, thieves, people of ill repute. God's greatest dissatisfaction is often with those of whom he expects more.

Grier took wife's advice and became a TV star

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

even before the first episode of Fox's Sunday-night hit "In Living Color" aired, David Alan Grier knew he had landed in something special. We did a pilot, and it took a lot of time for us to get picked up," he recalls. "But these copies of the pilot started circulating around Hollywood. and everyone had seen it Whenever I'd go do a job, they'd go, 'You were on that tape I saw. It is hilarious.' I've done a bunch of pilots, and the crew never stopped me on another lot and said. We loved that thing you did. Are they going to pick it up?' That's when I knew this was special.

Grier had met "In Living Color" creator Keenen Ivory Wayans through a mutual friend. Robert Townsend. Shortly after that, Keenen did 'I'm Gonna Git You Sucka,' Grier recalls. "I really wanted to be in that, because black films - African-Americans see these movies over and over again. So you know people will talk about you in your neighborhood for the next 20 years. But I didn't want to call Keenen up and beg for a part. Finally, at the last minute, he must have heard my psychic pleas. He called me and said, Look. I have this small cam-So I was in the movie, and after the movie was over, Keenen called and said, 'I'm doing this show; would you like Grier turned it down. "I knew it would be fun, but I didn't think the network would let us do the show that Keenen wanted to do. I said. 'We're just going to get squashed." Grier was talked into it by his wife, Maritsa, and their close friend Kim Wayans. "The women of my life, they persuaded me.'

They were right. Grier with his participation with Damon Wayans in the popular two sweet-natured but delightfully smug gay "critics" review everything from films to vacation spots. Grier's all-time favorite "In Living Color" sketch is the 'Men on Football" segment that he and Da-Super Bowl halftime show were so naughty.

This past season, Grier seems to have come more

"As it should be," Grier jokes. "But it balances out. The funny thing is my mother always calls me when I'm not on as many sketches as she thinks I should be on and goes" Grier's voice drops to a whisper - " 'Is everything all right? You just did one sketch. Did you have a fight with Keenen? I go, 'No, Mom. It just happens.' I anticipate (more) next year, too. Damon's left, which is sad, but we have to keep David Alan Grier is part of the sketch-comedy troupe of "In Living Color." The popular Fox series, which is about to enter its fourth season, airs on Sunday nights.

However, he showed no disrespect for his bloodthirsty character. fact, Lugosi was buried in his Dracula cloak, in accordance

To answer a question from H.C. of Bangor, Maine, Lugosi's given name was Bela Fe-renc Blasko and he was born in Lugos, Hungary, in 1882. He died in 1956. Lugosi, who was thrice married and had one son, Bela Lugosi Jr., was long rumored to have had problems with substance abuse, and a year before he died he admitted to having had a drug addiction. He appeared in 69 movies, of which "Dracula" was only his third.

Daytime Emmys had usual share of surprises

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

The 1992 Daytime Emmys have come and gone. Why don't they just change the name of these unfortunate yearly proceedings to "Surprises and Atrocities"? Here, rated from one to four stars, are the surprises of Daytime Emmy 1992, ranked on the basis of pure emotional impact.

win of "All My Children' Shockers! Slezak, who has played "One Life to Live" 's main heroine, Viki Buchanan, since 1971, had been shoved this year onto the story-line back burner.

While "OLTL" received publicity overkill from ABC Daytime this year, sister show "AMC" chugged along, quietly producing high-quality daytime drama. "AMC" had been nominated 17 times for this award in its 22-year history, but had never won Peter Bergman (who plays Jack Abbott on "The Young won last year, and that award was seen as retribution for his 1990 release from "AMC" after almost 10 years as bland good guy Cliff Warner. And he has been excellent on "Y&R." Still, this year's win was unexpected. It cannot be discussed without mentioning Bergter brawl with Eric Braeden who plays Victor Newman Braeden wasn't nominated but he did win the Best Actor Award in this year's People's Choice Awards.

** The Best Writing Award to "Y&R": What a shock, after e sterling year "Guiding Light" had! And after the intelligently beautiful scenes written by "OLTL" 's innovative Michael Malone! It seems im possible to get through an episode of "Y&R" without some character uttering the soap's infamous line, "My God, man . The 13th loss by Susan

Lucci as Best Actress: Not a surprise at all, considering that this wasn't Lucci's acting year. (For one big thing, her AMC" character, Erica didn't have a love interest!) But once again, Lucci emerges as a radiant winner from the whole Daytime Emmy mess. an ideal hostess for the show That standing ovation she received after losing the award to Slezak was heartfelt, because non-temperamental Lucci is an industry favorite. We've heard Deidre Hall, who plays Marlena Brady on "Days

Potomac Edison Warns Against Meter Tampering

The Potomac Edison Company is advising its customersthat tampering with their electric meters is not only dangerous; it's illegal.

"Diverting electricity is a serious matter," explains Nancy Neff, Potomac Edison's manager, Western Division. "Our first concern is the safety of our customers. Diverting electricity can be dangerous. It is also a crime and offenders will be treated Potomac Edison will prosecute anyone found tampering with his electric meter and will bill for the electricity that was diverted.

"We're taking this use quite seriously, and we want to make sure everyone else does," said Mrs. Neff. Potomac Edison has

It's never too hot to enjoy the irresistible flavor of deep, rich. real chocolate! These luscious "dips, drizzles and decadent delights" recipes from Baker's chocolate are ideal for summer. Each recipe is made in minutes, starts with the easy step of melting chocolate in the microwave and uses just one bowl.

The microwave melting method makes it simple for anyone to savor the real chocolate taste that Baker's chocolate adds to favorite recipes. This method is the basis for dozens of Baker's One-Bowl recipes because there's no mess and no measuring just unwrap the squares, place in a bowl and microwave on HIGH for about two minutes. Nothing beats the look or smell of warm, wonderful melted chocolate.

You can start using the microwave melting method by dipping this year's bounty of summer fruits in pure Baker' chocolate. Follow the Chocolate-Dipped Delights or Chocolate Plunge recipes and in no time, you will have a luscious snack or dessert that is perfect for serving to family or guests. Try them warm or chilled! Some fruits that taste scrumptious dipped in Baker's chocolate are strawberries, kiwi, bananas and oranges. You can also experiment with your own favorite fruits!

Chocolate is also the perfect complement to another summer classic-ice cream. Rich, decadent Fudge Nut Sauce forms a candy-like shell over ice cream. Use this sauce as the centerpiece on a "make your own sundae" table at summer parties. Store any leftover sauce in the refrigerator and reheat in the microwave. For a more elegant summer sauce, drizzle Regal Chocolate Sauce over fruit, angel food cake or

For a no-bake chocolate snack, try Chocolate Marshmallow Haystacks. Store these simple-to-make treats in the refrigerator for impromptu guests or summer snack attacks. Kids will enjoy mixing the ingredients and rolling the candies in coconut.

This summer, try these recipes from Baker's and dip, drizzle or delight in the decadence of real chocolate!

Northern High School's Student Council and the School Improvement Team were active in several fundraising activities leading to the construction of an illuminated signboard. The student council began raising funds several years ago.

The signboard informs the public about what is happening at their community school, involving athletic events, academic events, and theatre and band performances.

The student body started fundraising by collecting money in homerooms, collecting donations from school clubs, receiving individual and group donations, and putting on a raffle drawing.

After these initial efforts, the school asked area businesses and community organizations for donations.

Northern High School staff and students, the Northern High School Recycling Club, Fuel City, Chestnut Ridge Gas and Liquors, A & A Realty, Fox's Pizza Den, Hershberger

Agency, Inc., Guys Tire Shop, First United National Bank and Trust, Black Magic Chimney Sweep, Accident IGA, Radio Shack-Sports Unlimited, Braskey Law Offices, Billy Bender Chevrolet, Bruceton Ag Services, Inc., Garrett National Bank, Sisler Lumber Co., Inc., Inter-state Hardwoods, A.P. Hartman's Accident Amoco, S & S Market, Twila's Old Mill Grill, Micro-Integration Corp., Bausch & Lomb, Coca-Cola, Beachy Lumber, Otto Brick, and Deep Creek Concrete.

Some other community organizations and groups helpful in raising and donating funds were Grantsville Lions, Grantsville BPW, Grantsville Rotary, Friendsville Lions, Garrett County BPW. Parent volunteers were Scotti Houser, Bill Shomo, Bill Graham, Marjorie Fratz and Madeline Collins. In addition, John Clark and masonry students erected the base of the sign, Jeff Montgomery and building trades students erected the sign posts and constructed raffle items, Larry Deal and vo. ag. students landscaped the base of the sign, Larry Brenneman dug the ditch trench, and the sign was by Barry Domenick.

It was operated from 1923 to 1926 by two local pioneers, Delphia Brant and George Beckman. Delphia Brant, a coal miner all of his life, purchased a 40-acretract of land from John O. Thayer in the early 1920's. He and his family later moved onto the tract of land, building a two-story farm house which is located just below the mine. George Beckman, a local blacksmith and farmer, became a coworker in the mining adventure. After only three years of working in the mine both men acquired silicosis (a chronic disease of the lungs caused by the continued breathing of silica dust-sandstone dust) and died one year apart. Beckman died at the age of 52 in 1926 while Brant died at the age of 49 the following year.

The ranger staff at the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area has instituted a series of guided walks this summer to share the story of Delphia Brant and George Beckman with the community. "Just by looking how the mine is constructed, one can get an idea of just how hard these men worked," said the spokesperson.

The original mine shaft went back into the mountain about 500 feet while bearing slightly to the right. The mine FAMILY FOOT CARE

Looking into approximately 3/4 mile up the the mine entrance you will notice that it was shored up to about six feet in height. On the inside the mine the posts were wedged against the track crossties to prevent them from slipping inward at the bottom. For 50 feet, rough boards were placed behind the posts on the sides of the mine to prevent any rocks and debris from falling onto the track. Once the men got deeper into the mine they just used posts to shore up the ceiling. Wooden rails were used on the inside of the mine and in most instances the shaft was only big enough for the men to work on their

tions. Check your health insurance coverage -- Medicare doesn't provide coverage outside the U.S., but you can buy travel medical insurance. Pack medications in carry-on luggage, along with copies of pre-scriptions. Take along names of physicians, their phone and fax numbers. Bon voyage!

Joe Thule, Jr., was born in Brooklyn in 1920, the son of a vaudeville comic and a showgirl. He made his vaudeville debut when only 17 months old, and by age 15 he had appeared in 29 movies. By then, he had changed his name to Mickey Rooney. His series of "Andy Hardy" films and the musicals he made with Judy Garland were classics of the late 1930s and early '40s. In his 70s, Rooney wrote another book looking back on his film, stage and television career, and looking back on eight marriages. But he neither married nor romanced the woman credited with the greatest influence on him - Judy Garland.

The Buffer Zone!

Ever wonder where a real estate agent stands in the process of buying or selling a home? The agent occupies a critical piece of turf called the 'buffer' zone. This little known territory is the space that exists between buvers and sellers when negotiating the purchase or sale of a home.

Most agents represent the sellers of a home, acting as their representative in the transaction. The agent's responsibilities include marketing the home to attract buyers, negotiating on behalf of the sellers, and following up

Rarely do buyers and sellers come into direct contact during the course of events surrounding a sale. The sellers' agent places advertising, arranges showings for prospective buyers, and otherwise acts in the best interests of the sellers. Once buyers are identified, and have shown an interest in the sellers' home, the agent prepares an offer to purchase the home based on the best price and terms available from the purchasers. The signed offer, along with an earnest money deposit is then presented to the sellers for their consideration. The agent explains both the positive and negative aspects of the offer, leaving the final decision to

Facts

Throughout the negotiation period, buyers and sellers may never have any personal contact. The agent usually occupies this "buffer zone," relaying details of offers and counter-offers be tween the parties. By acting as a buffer between them, the agent relieves sellers and buvers of the emotional stress of negotiating, allowing both to make sound judgments based on fact. Although the agent represents the sellers, both parties are well-served by the agent's detached handling of details. Whether buying or selling a home, real estate agents play a vital role, filling the void

Tick Season Is Here, Says DHMH

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) reports 16 cases of Lyme disease so for this year, an increase of 10 since mid-May, and reminds citizens that measures can be taken to prevent tick-borne illnesses such as Lyme disease and the more serious Rocky Mountain Spotted Fe-

"May through September are the most common months for tick bites to occur and the months when the onset of Lyme disease and Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever is most often reported," said Jack Grigor, D.V.M., M.P.H., chief of the DHMH Center for Veterinary Public

"This is a wonderful time of year to enjoy Maryland's great outdoors, but be careful while doing so not to be bitten by ticks," said Governor William Donald Schaefer.

Not all ticks carry the Lyme disease bacteria and the percentage that do may vary from area to area and year to year. Although prevention or early treatment is best, it is almost never too late to treat Lyme disease. All stages of Lyme disease can be treated with antibiotics. While untreated Lyme disease can have serious complications such as neurological or cardiovascular illness, and arthritis, it does not lead of Lyme disease were not rec ognized or reported.

POTOMAC ENGINEERING DONATES MAPPING SERVICES - Potomac Engineering recently donated mapping services to the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area for use in their Yough River State Park, and trail brochures. According to Paul Durham, recreation area manager, the brochures were in drastic need of revision and the work could not have been completed without the assistance of Potomac Engineering. "One of the goals of the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area is increased cooperation and involvement with the local community in the services it delivers," said Durham. "In order to maintain the quality and level of services expected by the public, the ranger staff at the recreation area has had to turn to creative ways of doing business. This includes the use of volunteers, event sponsors, and the donation of services and goods by local businesses.*

In 1991, 22 cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever were reported in Maryland. There has been only one reported case so far this year.

The most common symptom of Lyme disease is a reddish expanding rash at least two inches across at the site of the tick bite. If often has a pale center. The rash may be accompanied by flu-like symptoms (headache, fever, chills, muscle or joint aches). If early signs are ignored, later phases of the disease can be severe. Anyone who develops the characteristic rash or other symptoms following a tick bite should see a doctor immediately Rocky Mountain spotted fever begins with a fever of over 101 degrees within two weeks of being bitten by a tick. Severe headache, fever, general discomfort, and deep muscle aches are symptoms of the disease. Sometimes a rash on the palms of the hands and bottoms of the feet will appear on the third day.

Service Says Crop Farmers May Need To Change Soybean Plans

Don't try to convince most commercial crop and vegetable farmers east of the Mississippi River this year of the global warming concept. Temperatures have been far below normal during most of the growing sea-

Sweet corn research by a University of Maryland horticulturist indicates that degree-days at the Wye Research and Education Center were only 65 percent of normal during the period from May 5 through June

As a result, commercial growers involved with a wide spectrum of crops may need to change plans to avoid possible economic disaster this fall in the event of early killing frost.

Those who plant soy beans after small grain in a double-crop operation are a prime example, according to representatives of the Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources (MIANR) in the University of Maryland Sys-

This year's wheat and barley harvest is running about 10 days behind normal, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics

So following planting of soybeans already has been delayed past the July 10 deadline recommended by agents of the Cooperative Extension Service, a part of MIANR.

Paul L. Gunther, director of the Cooperative Extension Service in Queen Anne's County, advises farmers involved with double-cropping on the Delmarva peninsula to plant a soybean variety this year from the middle range of the Group III list instead of a later-maturing Group IV variety that would be planted in a normal year.

Information on suitable varieties for various locations around the state can be found in the 1992 edition of Maryland Soybean Variety Tests (Agronomy Mimeo 32), available free from Cooperative Extension Service offices in all 23 Maryland

Gunther urges farmers to waste no time getting soybeans planted as soon as a wheat field is harvested. He calls to mind the longstanding rule-of-thumb: "Every day that planting is delayed past July 10 means a bushel-per-acre yield loss

And he reminds veteran farmers that the shorter maturity height of Group III soybeans being recommended this year is not the cause for concern that it might have been five years ago or more. Short soybeans can still yield well, he noted, and the floating or "flex" heads on modern combines

In contrast to hard, dry conditions of recent drought years, most Maryland soils contain sufficient moisture this year to make planting fairly easy.

Gunther recommends adjusting planter depth to achieve good soil-seed contact. On the upper Eastern Shore, this means a depth of about one inch.

Seeds from the Group III variety list should be planted at a rate of two to three seeds per foot of row if drilled in seven-inch row widths. Plant six to seven seeds per foot of row if using 17- to 19-inch row widths.

Ag Legislation Moves In Congress

Despite the pre-election congressional slowdown, legislation of importance to agriculture was on the move last week Farm Bureau-opposed trade barrier legislation passed in the House. American Farm Bureau Federation trade specialist Paul Drazek said the bill contains some provisions Farm Bureau would favor but "its overall thrust is protectionist and it could result in foreign retaliation against U.S. farm exports." Similar legislation is expected in the Senate.

Also moving in the House was the Farm Animal and Research Facility Protection Act, which was approved by a House Judiciary subcommittee.

The act would make it a federal crime to bomb or destruct animal research facilities. The committee also adopted a Farm Bureau-opposed amendment that weakened the act. Under the approved amendment the law would apply only to those labs that engage in research or are part $40-48.50; commercial to good, $40-47.50; cull cows,

The House on June 30 passed a $59 billion 1993 spending bill for federal $68-84; bob calves, $60 and agriculture and nutrition programs. One amendment adopted with this legislaturn to farm (100 to 120 tion cut $26 million from the Food for Peace market development program. Another amendment zeroed out funding for the wetland reserve program. President Bush had asked for funding of $49 million. A positive note was the inclusion of a six-month extension of the health insurance deduction for the self-employed in a House tax bill. The Senate Finance Committee also passed a tax bill with an 18-month extension of the deduction, which had expired June 30. GRANTSVILLE

Crop Protection Bill Introduced

A Senate version of the Minor Crop Protection Assistance Act has been introduced by Sens. Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii) and Richard Lugar (R-Ind.).

The bill (S. 2980) is nearly identical to the House version (H.R. 4764). The bills would preserve the availability of safe minor uses and encourage the development of non-chemical pest management tools.

The legislation is supported by the Minor Crop Farmer Alliance, made up of more than 100 organizations including the American Farm Bureau Federation. The alliance is working to ensure continued availability of protection chemicals for minor use

That availability has been threatened due to the 1988 amendments to the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act. pesticides registered before prompting manufacturers

Problems On Tomatoes

I have had several calls from gardeners concerned about the tomato leaves rolling up. This rolling seems to be coming more common each year. Several varieties of tomatoes, such as Better Boy, roll their leaves as daily temperatures rise. Leaves that have rolled usually remain this way for the entire season. It is harmless and does not affect the fruit set.

The second and more serious problem affecting the leaves is called early blight. This is a fungal disease that attacks the lower portions of the plant and gradually progresses up the plant. Dark spots develop on the leaves and stems. To control early blight, one must start early spraying about every seven days with a fungicide. There are several fungicides on the market. Two of the most popular ones used in the commercial area are Bravo 720 and Manzate

A Warning To Farmers The Department of Health and Human Services asked that I alert farm families of a hazard of immediate concern. Recently, in New York State it was learned that a female farm worker was scalped when her hair became entangled around the secondary driveshaft of a hay baler. Subsequent investigations identified four other similar incidents. All the victims were female, and each of the five entanglements involved hay baling equipment with a secondary driveline that powered a bale thrower at the rear of the baler. Each baler had a driveline that was covered above by a three-sided

The machines involved in all of these incidents were New Holland Model Number 273 balers equipped with New Holland Model Number 54A bale thrower. New Holland has introduced a plastic tube retrofit device for the secondary driveline that, when installed correctly with the existing shield, reduces the exposure to the entanglement hazard. If you use the above equipment without this extra shield, you should contact your New Holland dealer.

Potato Leafhopper You should be checking the alfalfa for leafhoppers. The leafhoppers have moved into the area. If you need assistance for determining the economic threshold for spraying, give

A court ruling that four widely used pesticides are illegal for use on crops that are processed into foods could mean the removal of valuable crop protection tools, according to Farm Bureau.

The federal appeals court ruling struck down an Environmental Protection Agency regulation that attempted to make two federal acts -- the Federal Food Drug and Cosmetic Act and the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act -- more consistent. The FFDCA's Delaney Clause prohibits use of any pesticide on crops if the pesticide residue becomes concentrated in processed foods and if there is any evidence the pesticide can cause cancer in animals or humans. It is based on a "zero-risk standard. Under FIFRA however, EPA is allowed to weigh the benefits of pesticide use and set less stringent residue tolerances for raw agricultural commodities.

The EPA policy was challenged by five parties, including the Natural Resources Defense Council, AFL-CIO and Public Citizen. The lawsuit focused on the pesticides benomyl. phosmet, mancozeb and trifluralin, which are used on tomatoes, grapes, grains, spearmint and peppermint.

Unless overturned, the ruling will prohibit the use of any cancer-causing pesticides, no matter how small the actual risk, if the pesticide is found to concentrate in processed foods. The ruling may impact additional pesticides beyond those cited. The decision is bad news for agricultural producers and consumers and brings no new protection to public health or the environment, according to Bruce Lear, an American Farm Bureau Federation assistant director of national affairs.

Since pesticides allowed under the negligible risk standard pose almost no risk, the only effect of the ruling will be to eventually standard.

tection tools that allow farmers to produce food in a costeffective manner," said.

Lear said the decision intensifies the need for Congress to remove the inconsistencies between FFDCA and FIFRA.

The FFDCA, written in 1953, and the Delaney Clause, written in 1958, did not anticipate today's scientific abilities to detect even the smallest amounts of risk or provide for the consideration of benefits when only a negligible risk exists

When these statutes were written, scientists could only detect residues in parts per million," Lear said. "Today, science can detect parts per quintillion. Farm Bureau supports efforts to replace the Delaney Clause with a negligible risk

Trucker Dies In Log Truck Crash On Backbone Mtn.

A West Virginia man died Friday night when he lost control of the log truck he was operating down Backbone Mountain at Bloomington.

Junior Arch White, 59, Augusta, was pronounced dead at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, shortly after the 9:45 p.m. accident that occurred on Md. Rt. 135, according to sources. A report was not made available to The Republican by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry. Other sources indicated that Sgt. David Danner investigated the accident.

Other sources also stated that White was operating the vehicle in a fast manner down the 3.095-foot mountain when he lost control of the rig and struck a guardrail. The force of the collision reportedly caused the truck to overturn, spilling its load onto the road and an adjacent

Education Board Discusses Smoke-Free Policy, Loch Lynn Repairs, Food Service

Lower Falls where the child was wading in shallow water at about

1:15 p.m. She apparently slipped on a rock, lost her footing, and

The Garrett County or leased by the public Board of Education held its monthly meeting last week and discussed a variety of topics including a draft policy for a tobacco-free environent, a change in the status of the Loch Lynn Elementary School reconditioning, and food service plans for the coming school year.

Tobacco-Free Policy

The draft of a new policy concerning the use of tobacco products on school grounds was distributed to the board members. The policy asserts that a tobaccofree environment will reinforce and support education efforts concerning student tobacco use. Therefore, the education board prohibits and other buildings owned school system. The policy would go into effect on November 1 of this year. The policy further states that because specific health problems have been directly linked to the use of tobacco, the sale and/or use of tobacco products on school grounds during the regular school day will be prohibited as well.

Before voting on the policy, Rodney Durst, board member, suggested that the policy go beyond the school day and be in effect during all school activities - a total ban. Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage was hesitant about the idea, stating lot of administration personnel who have to enforce the rule." In response, Durst said he felt any person who saw meone smoking at a school event would most likely inform the violator of the smoking ban.

Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer, was in attendance and noted that such a total ban has been done in other areas. He added that in a survey handed out to approximately 400 teachers, almost all answering thought a total ban would be "the right thing to do." He recommended discussion of the topic with the various bargaining units. Jim Raley, president of the Garrett County Teachers' Association, was present and suggested that the board "please consider offering a cessation program for teachers who currently smoke." He added that if such a program could not be given, then the board should consider providing the "best literature available" for those individuals. Bryan Paugh board member, noted that Archer had already informed the board that he would work with them in bringing about the policy and assist

Congressional Candidates To Debate At GCC

Candidates in the Sixth Congressional District race will address issues pertinent to Western Maryland in the first of a series of scheduled debates this Friday, at 7:30 p.m., in the Continuing Education Center at Garrett Community College.

Democratic candidate Delegate Tom Hattery and Republican candidate Roscoe Bartlett, both of Frederick County, will take questions from the audience to allow the voting public a chance to ascertain where each candidate stands on local and state issues.

Hattery defeated longtime incumbent Beverly Byron in the Maryland Primary Election, in what was termed a surprising upset. He manages a family farm near Mt. Airy with his wife, Debbie, a psychiatric nurse, and their two children, Nora and David; is the president of Lomond Publications, Inc.; and is the author/editor of Western Maryland: A Profile.

Bartlett, a farmer and teacher, has resided in Frederick County since 1961 with his wife, Ellen. They are the parents of 10 children. The public is invited to attend the debate and to participate.

THE PIPES WILL USHER THEM IN - The Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums will open the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's third offering set for tomorrow night (July 24). A "Celtic Celebration" is planned, featuring the talents of the local band that will begin the evening's performance with a 7:15 p.m. concert on the lawn of Garrett Community College. Led by Fred A. Thayer, the band will then serenade the audience into the GCC auditorium, where the group Friends" will take the stage at 8 p.m., presenting a "Scotch-Irish Sampler" of Celtic music. The pipe band was begun in August 1979 as the "Garrett Highlanders," organized by Charles P. "Chip" Evans and Thayer. The musicians' first appearance was at Wisp Resort's Summerfest in July 1980, with public performances continuing on a regular basis since that time, including a 1988 Rocky Gap State Park performances continuing on a regular basis since that time, including a 1988 Nocky Gap State Park performance to introduce Governor William Donald Schaefer. Officially adopted by GCC in 1989, the group is sponsored by the college, the Garrett County and Maryland State Arts Councils, and by the Westvaco Corporation. The band led the dignitaries, both local and international, at the 1989 World Whitewater Championship Opening Ceremonies at Frostburg State University. The band has served as host at the McHenry Scottish Festival for the past five years. Representatives of Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc., met this week with the Garrett County Commission ers to inform them of their new private, non-profit status (as of July), and to request their assistance in obtaining additional funding sources for the organization. Carol Cox, a member of the Lighthouse Board of Directors and president of the Garrett County chapter of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill, opened the meeting by explaining that the organization has only recently become autono mous, after having been part of the Garrett County Health Department.

'We would like to know how we can secure funds from the county," said Cox. who noted that another private, non-profit organization in the county, Appalachian Crossroads, receives a total of $37,000 annually from the county

"Could you explain how they got that much money and what we would have to do to get the same amount," Cox inquired.

Executive Director of Lighthouse, Inc., Debbie Jo Adams-Noroski, explained that the organization is a rehabilitation service for mentally ill adults in Garrett County, and currently receives funding through the state in the amount of $140,000 per year. #### Beautiful Person Committees Named By Local Chair

Committee members for the local nominee for the 'Maryland, You Are Beautiful" contest were named this week by local coordinator of the state project, Pat Vetter.

The original committee met Monday night and at that time, Vetter appointed the following persons to the nominating committee: Susie Scott, Sybilla Sharps, Jim Shaffer, and Pat Vetter.

Serving on the selection committee will be Lois Marin, chairman; Pam Ashby, Patrick Gregg, Betty Jo Swauger, and Pat Vetter.

The nominating process has already begun and applications for nominating persons who have contributed quietly and in many ways to their community are available at county offices and will be printed in The Republican next week. Applications will be accepted through August 31. The county's winner will be announced on September 18 and that person will be honored at a state dinner on November 4.

Persons desiring additional information about the program may call Vetter at the Garrett County Commissioners' Office at 334-8970.

Voelkel Named PT Director At Garrett Memorial

Mike Voelkel is the new director of the Physical Therapy Department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Voelkel is a 1984 graduate of the University of Maryland. His previous experience includes working at the Rehabilitation Hospital at York, Pa., being on staff at the Shock Trauma Facility at the University of Maryland, working with home health in the Baltimore area, and most recently he was the chief physical therapist at the Chesapeake Pain and Rehabilitation Clinic. In his most recent position, Voelkel worked with physicians and psychologists in providing services for acute and chronic pain patients.

Describing his experience so far at Garrett County Memorial, Voelkel states, "The present physical therapy staff at the hospital is great. They have made the transition period smooth. The quality of care is excellent. It may seem that you could get better quality of care in a larger area, but that is not true.

Smith Represents Maryland AFT At July Seminar

Sandra Smith, an instructional assistant in special education at Southern High School, was chosen to represent the Maryland Federation of Teachers by participating in a public speaking seminar at the George Meany Center, Silver Spring, from July 12 through July 15.

Mrs. Smith joined 11 other colleagues from all over the United States who were chosen through recommendations from local, state, and national AFT leaders.

The seminar was designed to train local and state paraprofessional school related personnel leaders in communications skills, persuasive speaking, speech preparation, topic selection, using aides, conducting workshop sessions, and participating in pane! discussions.

By completing the seminar, Mrs. Smith is now able to provide the AFT with organization assistance and make use of her skills at workshops and conferences in other locations around the country

Mrs. Smith currently is the treasurer of the Garrett County Federation of Teachers and a 17-year employee of the Garrett County Board of Education.

Charles Wesley New Operations VPForMettiki

Joseph W. Craft III, presi-dent of Mettiki Coal Corporation, announced yesterday the appointment of Charles R. (Charlie) Wesley III as vice president-operations for Mettiki Coal Corporation, effective immediately. Wesley was previously employed as general operations superintendent of Webster County Coal Corporation's Dotiki and Retiki Mines.

'Mr. Wesley brings a broad range of underground coal mining experience and a proven professional coal production track record to Mettiki," stated Craft.

Wesley began his mining career in 1973 as a general laborer. He initially worked for Webster County Coal Cor poration, a subsidiary of MAPCO Coal Inc., as a summer intern while attending the University of Kentucky Upon completing his mining engineering degree in 1978, Wesley became a section fore-man at Webster County Coal Corporation's Retiki Mine. In the 14 years with Webster County Coal Corporation, Wesley gained experience in mining and management by advancing through the ranks as a shift foreman, assistant mine superintendent, mine superintendent, and ultimately general operations superintendent of the Dotiki and Retiki mines.

Wesley is currently serv ing as president of Post 11, National Mine Rescue Association and president of the Western Kentucky Mining

The Governor's Gag...

Gathering information for a newsstory, rather than actually writing that story, is usually the most time consuming part of a reporter's job, and that task has been made exceedingly more time consuming, cumbersome, and in some cases, impossible, by our own governor, William Donald Schaefer.

Some three weeks ago, our flamboyant leader reached the epitome of irrationality when he invoked a gag order on all state employees, prohibiting them from speaking to all news media as well as to state senators and delegates. As stated in a memorandum to all county health officers from the office of Nelson J. Sabatini, secretary of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, "the governor's ban on talking to the press and state senators and delegates does apply to all local health department employees who are state employees and contractual employees in the state system... there should be no contact, either by phone, in person, or at meetings, such as advisory boards The same applies to all other state employees.

The governor's office prefers to call it a "directive" that is intended to make sure correct information is released to the media and to reduce duplication of information. However, this "directive" is greatly hampering and delaying news coverage efforts by the media.

In our office this week, even routine information that has always been cheerfully provided by local state offices and employees was simply unavailable. DNR rangers, for example, whom we contacted for totally benign, non-controversial information, would not speak to us about anything. Doing so would have literally put their jobs on the line. An employee from another state agency even refused to spell his name for us, because he was making the call for his boss who was, according to the governor's directive, supposed to make the call,

The governor's ban was evidently accompanied by a real threat of termination, because there is major paranoia among all ranks of state employees. One group of about 100 employees was told by their supervisor, "You're not to talk to anyone about anything. Not statistics, not anything. If you do, you'll be fired. If you explain why you can't talk, you'll be

The governor makes no bones about his disdain of the media, so we can only assume that part of his intent here was to hurt us. His "directive" is indeed making it difficult for us to collect information, but it has also provided great fodder for editorial columns throughout the state. Which - the governor or the media - do you believe will be hurt the most by this?

We also suspect that such a directive is downright unconstitutional. Surely no one, including the governor, can order state employees to refrain from speaking to their own elected state representatives! The whole idea is ludicrous.

The expense of this fiasco should also be considered. If it is in fact an effort at streamlining the flow of news, it is failing miserably. The loss of time and efficiency, as well as the extra expense for millions of additional telephone calls and paperwork, must be staggering. Meanwhile, our state's treasury is sinking deeper and deeper into the red.

We are willing to give Governor Schaefer the benefit of the doubt and believe that this whole thing was based on good intentions and is just a gross misunderstanding if he is willing to revoke his directive and restore the lines of communication that, in general, have worked quite well.

Letters to the Editor

Now that all the smoke has cleared, and charter government has been defeated, I, for one, would like to congratulate the members of the Charter Board, and those who brought the issue before the electorate.

Although I opposed it, I appreciate the hard work and effort which many sincere people put into the project. I am sure they believed in their cause.

They have a right to be proud for their accomplishment because, although the proposal was defeated, the fact that they were able to bring it to an election is, in itself, a considerate accomp-lishment.

I know from long experience in politics that a defeat such as this can be devastating. Often it can make one feel personally rejected in my view, the proponents of charter government need not hold such feelings, and there should be no bitterness attached to the decision of the electorate. The entire exercise was an outstanding example of the democration

I am writing this letter in support of the employees of Sheriff's Office. I feel it is about time they held the commissioners responsible for a promise made to them When the commissioners made the promise there was no problem with the budget and I think it is a "cop out (pun intended) for them to hide behind the recent cuts. commissioners were aware of the problem when they made the current budget. The Sheriff's Office took their share of the cuts made by Governor Schaefer According to a deputy spoke with, they lost all of their overtime and all but two holidays, which directly resulted in a $3000.00 cut in pay for him. Several of the deputies have to work a second job, not for a fancy car, a house on the lake or a boat, but to put food on the table for their kids. If they don't work a second job their wives have work a full-time job to make ends meet. I feel in the long run the losers in this situation may be the taxpayers. We have spent several thousand dollars for the training of these employees and when the Federal prison opens in Allegany County we will be lucky if they all don't leave. Another fact I was made driver in the county makes about $1,400.00 more a year starting out than a deputy would. The fact is, the truck driver is not overpaid, the deputies are underpaid. I guess this is what the commissioners meant by a 'serious flaw" in the salary structure. Don't waste our tax money on a law suit, give the employees what you

To the Editor:

In view of the failure of the present Republican Administration to balance the federal budgets, reduce the national debt and the uncertainties of the Democratic Party's admini strative potential, a third party, the "Loyal American Party" is proposed; with the ollowing candidates: Mario Cuomo for president and Lane Kirtland for vice

1. While Mario Cuomo has so far declined nomination for president, he has been a successful governor of New York, the most populous state in the Union for the past seven years. He is highly qualified for the

2. Lane Kirtland, president of the AFL-CIO, has absolute control of the American labor union's 17 million members, and could enforce the needed reductions in wages and salaries, to get American-made products competitive at home and abroad.

Together, with Congress, they could get the necessary legislation and taxes required, including appro-priate tax "donations" by our extremely wealthy citizens and business groups. If we fall into a deep depression, all would stand to lose everything they have, possibly their own lives.

Time is running short. If Mario Cuomo and Lane Kirtland could get together quickly, and get the "Loyal American Party" organized it might not be too late.

Three months -- August, September and October --would be available, and should provide the needed time, particularly with uncensored cooperation by the major news media newspapers, news magaradio, and TV

Respectfully submitted, D. Noel Obenshain Swanton

To the Editor:

Surprise! Surprise! The governor's revenue estimates were wrong. We need to cut the cost of government. It is time to t past the talk to action on this problem. Elected officials have for years used the working middle class as a cash cow to support the rich and the poor with Elected leaders need to acknowledge the private sector concept of diminish-ing returns. This concept in essence says that when the cow is milked too frequently it gives milk faster but less milk per milking until it goes dry.

Taxpayers and voters are a lot like cattle. They move in groups, they are easily stampeded, they give up their taxes easily, and when overtaxed local spending dries up.

It is clear that government workers have no interest in tax reduction. As their salaries and benefits increase so their ability to pay. There is no motive for a government worker to oppose tax increases. All governments are entirely supported by private sector taxes. Not one government employees con-tributes to reducing the national debt or even to maintenance of government services. Every penny paid is simply a give back, or aware of is a dump truck reduction in cost or understand it, picture a nation populated only by government employees. What do they produce that can be taxed? What do they manufacture for sale? What do they produce that has a market value greater than its cost? (Don't say education because the market value of today's education is not greater than its cost except in rare instances like prestige universities; and don't say police protection because the revenue from traffic tickets doesn't cover their cost, and only about five to 10 percent of damages due to crime are ever recovered.) Where does the money come from to pay their salaries?

If you don't believe this

The answer is that every penny paid to operate our government is generated by private industry. Without private industry no government can survive.

Has anybody reading this had a friend or a relative go through tough times lately? Do you personally feel better off than you were four years

If you have any concerns about your own future, the future of a friend or relative, or the future of our state and nation, please tell a politician. You can make a politician. difference.

Our governor and some legislators plan to increase taxes again. They will create a lot of public support for this by announcing cuts to police services and educational services just as last year. Their purpose, successful last year, is to stampede a fearful public into accepting tax increases as unavoidable.

If you are opposed to paying more taxes for any reason, please do yourself, your state, and your nation a favor and complain. In 30 minutes you can call or write brief notes to Mikulski, Sarbanes, Byron, Hafer, Edwards, Groves, Braskey, and Butscher telling them ow you feel. This very small investment in time carries no risk and can pay major dividends. For 30 minutes effort and a few dollars the payoff can be hundreds of

experts. After all, the meek will inherit the earth. I guess my question is who is going things don't change? Sincerely who is going to want it if

Once again the Civic Club of Oakland and the League of Women Voters would like to thank the citizens of Garrett County for their wonderful response to our call for another recycling effort - taking ir outdated phone books to the collection bins set up throughout the county by C & P Community Relations Team. Over one ton of books were collected! That's one ton less material that will be going to already over-capacity filled landfill

Our clubs were particularly gratified when an elementary school teacher called to ask if she could have 30 of the books to use in teaching her class how to use phone books. That's recycling at its best: finding future beneficial uses for today's unwanted discards

The Mind Wanders

Rude Dudes and Moods by Pam Ashby

Is it just me, or has the world gone mad with the wide acceptance of rude persons in the workplace, on the streets, in the schools, at community events, and every other darned place on earth? It's funny how more and more each day, I can almost justify violence in retaliation of such behavior.

Don't you just love it when you call a medical facility or an institution of higher learning and you ask for a particular person or department and the person who just answered the phone did it in such a manner that it might kill him/her. Then, they don't even say, "One moment, please," or "Please hold." You just hear this deafening click as they blindly switch you to another department. I usually amuse myself by saying into dead air, "Why thank you so much for being so damned pleasant today. Sure, I'll hold on. Don't you worry about being so rude. I'm sure you've been terribly busy today answering that telephone and pushing buttons. You shouldn't be forced to be polite or human to me. I'm scum, thank you." Of course, I usually get caught in the middle of this tirade by the other department that I was trying to reach in the first place and they usually know how weird I

Then, just last evening as I was driving to my sister's house, three chicks with attitudes proceeded to walk as close to my car as possible with incredibly belligerent looks on their preppie faces. What I did was keep moving over to give them their rude space. What I wanted to do was roll down my window and slap their snotty faces off their privileged faces. Thoughts of using them for target practice also crossed my deranged mind.

Hey, and what about the discourteous clerks in stores with "high hair" and long fingernails who not only can't thank you for your purchase which helps pay their blessed salary, but they find it much more important to finish pricing 3,000 candy bars before waiting on you in the first place. These chicks (and dudes) need a quick lesson in Pam Frantz economics, "Don't bite the hand that feeds you. You may get rabies, or at the least a green, oozing infection.

And what about insolent neighbors who make everything you do their business in one way or another. Give me a large, personal break. No? Then how about giving me a place far and away from the maddening crowds and judgmental bores who think my pathetic life is more interesting than

This former doormat is fed up with rudeness from the ghest offices in the land to the tots who, through no fault of their own, have not learned anything about manners. I'm tired of being forgiving to people who don't deserve the gum I'm forever scraping off the bottom of my shoe.

Now you can attribute my attitude to the fact that I quit smoking four weeks, three days, two hours and 16 minutes ago and that I might possibly be facing the "change of life, but I quite honestly felt the sting of rudeness since I was young enough to still be innocent yet old enough to know better. Maybe I do need to take a pill to calm down, but a few million other people need to examine more closely the way they treat others. Amen, darn it.

Two persons were treated and released from Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, Saturday following a twovehicle mishap, according to a public relations spokesperson from that hospital.

Arba D. Blevins, 50, and Lisa M. Kimbler, 27, both of Columbus, Ohio, were treated for minor injuries they received in the 1:30 p.m. mishap. They were both passengers in a 1990 Lincoln Town Car being operated by John R. Blevins, 49, Colum-

According to Tfc. A.S. MacLane, who investigated for state police, the accident occurred when Blevins was traveling on a ramp from Interstate 68 to turn onto the Chestnut Ridge Road. He reportedly failed to stop at a stop sign and struck a 1989 Chevrolet Blazer being operated by Robert W. Laird, 22, Cumberland. Neither Laird nor his passenger, Thomas C. Hoffman, 24, also of Cumberland, were reportedly injured in the mishap.

Blevins was charged with failure to stop at a highway entrance and yielding right of way. Northern Rescue Squad transported the injured to the hospital

The Garrett County Health Department announces that it will sponsor a safety belt program entitled "Strap and Snap.

Cody Godman, president of the Safety Council of Maryland, will present his popular message on Tuesday, July 28, at 9 a.m., and again at 10:30 a.m., in the health department Assembly Room.

Rex Archer, MD, MPH. health officer, reports that the program is free, and open to county residents, but that reservations are required.

This dynamic presentation is part of our continuing effort to increase public awareness of the importance of wearing safety belts. Nearly one-half of fatal and disabling injuries could be prevented by wearing safety belts," Dr. Archer stated

Recent observational studies conducted at five separate points in the county indicate that the compliance rate is below the state average of 70 percent. "Community programs of safety belt awareness and education are underway at the health department and hospital, and plans are being made to deliver the buckle-up message at the county fair and a local bank," Archer said.

The "Strap and Snap" program is being targeted at businesses and organizations that have employees who drive regularly in their work. Such agencies are theirfamilies, the spokesman being urged to send representatives to this training ssion, and may choose to schedule a future seminar for their own employees. But the program can be enjoyed by all," Archer said.

In addition to Godman's presentation, a film will be shown entitled "It'll Never Happen To Me." Myths such 'It's better to be thrown clear of the crash," and "I don't need them at low speeds or on short trips,' will also be addressed.

Anyone wishing to reg ister for the program should contact either Bill Crawford or Carol Brown at the health department, at 334-8111 or

GCC Offers 30-Hour Banking Diploma Program

A cooperative effort be-College and the Maryland chapter of the American Banking Institute has resulted in the development of a 30-credit-hour academic program through which students can earn both a banking certificate from the college and AIB general banking diploma.

According to Joan B. Crawford, director of enrollment development, this program has been designed for persons currently employed in the banking industry who wish to upgrade their skills, or for those who plan to enter the banking industry. Courses in the program will be given during the late aftermoon and evening hours to accommodate working

The program consists of 10 three-credit courses, six of which are GCC courses, and four of which are AIB courses specifically for the banking industry. In the fall semes ter, five of these required courses will be offered by the college during late afternoon and evening hours. They in-ffered in the program inude law and banking BUS295), economics for ankers (BUS296), market ing for bankers (BUS297), and consumer lending (BUS294). Although these courses do not currently ap pear in the GCC schedule, they will be offered on each semester so that students can take them in sequence.

Because this banking certificate/AIB diploma program is a Career Advancement program at the college, residents of West Virginia who enroll are eligible for in-county tuition rates in accordance with the reciprocity agreement.

Any person desiring further information about this program may call Ms Crawford at the college, 387 6666. Students may register for these courses at the Registrar's Office on weekdays, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

occur. But staying indoors is not an acceptable alternative for the many individuals who enjoy outdoor activities. Also, some sun exposure is healthy because it causes vitamin D production in the skin, helping to ward off osteoporosis. One way to avoid photoaging is by wearing protective clothing such as long sleeve shirts and wide-brimmed hats. Another way to prevent photoaging is to reduce the amount of sunlight that reaches the skin through the application of sunscreens. Sunscreens are rated with SPF values. The higher the value, the greater the protection. Some lip balms contain sunscreens to protect this sensitive area. GC Crime Solvers Meet: Various Items Discussed

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization held its regular monthly meeting on June 17 at Garrett Community College.

It was noted that during June, several groups and businesses donated funds to the organization. They were the First United National Bank, the Women's Civic Club, Demaree's, Highland Thrift Shop, and the Oak-land Lodge of Masons. Re-wards in the amount of $500 were given out during the month

Officer Larry Gnegy reported a breaking and entering incident that occurred at the Wilkes residence. He also noted the tampering of phone lines at the Whitewater Championships. A Maryland State Police repre sentative reported the theft of 30 vehicle radiators and an assault at Par-Matt

Crime Solvers received one hotline call in June. The number is 334-1975.

Those attending the meeting were Gerald Iman, Rebecca DeWitt, Gnegy, Ward Ashby, Susan Wolfe, and Don Sealing.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently searching for information concerning a breaking and entering of a residence located on the Maynardier Ridge Road, just east of Jennings.

David Wilt reported that an unknown suspect(s) broke into his residence sometime between February 26-29 and removed several guns, a new wormy chestnut gun cabinet, two Stihl power saws, and numerous electrical carpentry tools.

The suspects also removed a blue 1990 Honda four-wheeler that was chained to a porch post. The post was sawed off with the victim's chain saw so that the chain that secured it could be removed. Total loss in this case is estimated at $1,100.

formation about this or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Persons do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

A BRIEF MEMORIAL SERVICE and dedication of a dogwood ee in honor of the late Evelyn Olsen will be among the events of Friendsville Day '92 on Saturday, Aug. 1, in Friendsville Throughout her life, Mrs. Olsen, the former Evelyn Guard, interviewed and recorded stories of persons from generations past, and included information from persons such as Scott Friend tho had fought in Indian wars. She married Clarence Olsen and resided in California, but returned to Friendsville often to visit and continue recording information. Her notes were later published in a book titled Indian Blood. Mrs. Olsen, who died in May at age 92, was one of the organizers of the Friend Family Association of America. The dogwood tree that will be dedicated was planted beside the former bank building in Friendsville, which now serves as the Association's national headquarters. The service, to which all are invited, is slated for 10 a.m. Evelyn Olsen's notes and notebooks, which have been donated by her family, will be display in the Friend Library if they arrive in time, according to

WHAT IS YOUR CHILD SLEEPING ON!?

Chances are it's a cheap or worn-out-hand-me-down mattress made for an adult. But children are not little adults. Their tender growing bodies need support in areas like the upper torso and the head, not the hips like their parents. What they need is a sleep set that is especially for them. What they need is a Kingsdown.

If you want to promote good posture and healthy sleep for the little one in your life, see the Kingsdown sleep set at Fitzwater's. It's the right sleep set for growing children. After all, they only grow up once.

*INTRODUCING THE SHOP WHERE It's Forever Christmas Eve.36

We call it The Holly & Ivy. You'll call it a very different kind of Christmas shop.

Walk from the heat and glare of midsummer into a cozy parlor that is brimming with the sights, sounds, and aromas of Christmas. In fact, it is Christmas Eve. At The Holly & Ivy, the clock is forever set at 11:15 pm, December 24th. Everything is in readiness for Santa's arrival...and yours.

Fragrant punch, cookies, the whisper of snowflakes at the window, and the reflected glow of wonderful things. Here you can browse at your leisure. If you are pleased with a decoration's effect in our parlor, you can easily imagine its place in your own. Our selection is as varied and many-splendored as the celebration of Christmas. The Holly & Ivy is a work of love. The three of us...Julia Lubis, Debbie Savage, and Nancy Frost...have spent months selecting the kinds of ornaments, decorations, and accessories we love to display in our own homes. The Holly & Ivy opens its door on Saturday, July 4th. So drop by one of these warm summer days...and spend Christmas Eve with us.

We're located in the lower level at The Fort in McHenry, next to Savage Frost. Open seven days a week, from 10am till 6pm. Call us at (301) 387-9111.

In their latest endeavor, which took place July 12, they placed second and won the Top Amateur Team Award in a money tournament held in Indiana, Pa. Venom defeated many of the top-ranked teams in the country at these tournaments.

In five-man competition the games are played in a center flag format where the bject is to capture a centrally located flag and hang it in the opposing team's flag station. Players are eliminated when they are marked with a gelatin-based capsule filled with a water soluble bright colored dye. These capsules are expelled out of a high tech CO2 powered rifle that is constantly chrono graphed and adjusted so that no paintball is permitted to travel faster than 300 feet per second (205 mph). Players are required to wear proper safety gear including approved goggles and facemasks. The sport is presently growing at a tremendous rate around the world,

Central Garrett, Grantsville Earn Playoff Berths

Central Garrett and Grantsville Post 214 both earned playoff berths in the Bi-State Pony League playoffs, which will begin this Friday.

Central Garrett assured itself of a spot in the playoffs by rolling over league-leading Mount Savage, 11-2, on Friday at Mount Savage, while Grantsville grabbed fourth seed honors by defeating host Hyndman, 4-1, on Friday and then whipping visiting Central Garrett, 19-10, Monday evening. Central will go into the tourney with a 9-5-1 mark and Grantsville is sporting a 9-7-1 record.

Against Mount Savage, Central Garrett batters recorded 10 hits, with Todd Brenneman contributing a pair of doubles, Tim Sines and Jeremy Brenneman a double and a single each, and Chris Elliot, two singles. Jeremy Brenneman went the distance on the mound for Central, allowing six hits and striking out five.

Tim Burkett rapped a homer and Brad Nicely singled twice for Mount Savage, who dropped to 12-3 on the season.

In Grantsville's win over Hyndman, Mike Yoder gave up only two hits and fanned dozen batters, while Hyndman's Bill Hartung allowed just three hits and struck out 10.

Danny Butler stroked an RBI double for Grantsville and Craig Shaffer doubled for Hyndman.

Grantsville did all of its scoring in the first two innings, with two runs in each. Hyndman scored its lone run in the fourth in-

Garrett Legion Team Continues Losing Slide

It has been a long season for Coach Ed Wildesen and his Garrett County Junior American Legion team, which dropped to 1-11 in Mountain District play this past week with a 10-8 loss to visiting Fort Cumberland Poet 13 last Thursday and a 7-4 defect to host Farrady Poet 24 of Frostburg Tuesav evening.

Garrett County will attempt to turn things around this evening when they play at Fort Cumberland again. They will host the same team next Tuesday at Garrett Community College.

A game-tying solo home run by Garrett's Garth Glotfelty sent Thursday's game into extra innings, but Fort Cumberland's Jeremy Blank smacked a triple in the 10th to send home the winning an 8-7 lead with a run in the fifth, two in the sixth, and one in the eighth before Glotfelty's homer tied it at

Garrett loaded the bases with no outs in the bottom of the 10th, but a double play and a line out ended the threat.

Post 13 recorded 17 hits, but also committed 10 errors. Thomas smacked five singles for three RBI, Steve Milburn hit a homer and a single, Jason Holler doubled and singled, and Mike Pertko singled three times.

Alan Sebold had two hits and Dave Kurtz drove in three runs for Garrett.

In Tuesday's game against Farrady Post, Jon Winebrenner paced the Frostburg team's offense by ing four-for-five with two doubles and two singles. Greg Johnson and Tom Shaffer each finished with two singles in the 12-hit performance.

With the score knotted at 1-1. Farrady erupted for four runs in the bottom of the fifth to take the lead for good. In that frame, Todd

Local Sailors Enjoy Excellent Racing Weather

After many weekends of erce winds on Deep Creek Lake, the sailboat racers, and spectator boats were blessed with "lovely weather and a good breeze" for sailing this past weekend, according to a spokesman for the event.

Racing was held in three divisions: Laser Fleet, Flying Scot A Fleet, and Flying Scot B Fleet. The Flying Scot A Fleet is for experienced racers; the B Fleet is for newer

The efforts of all three of those people were heroic," Yoder said. "They did everything they possibly could to save her. I can't emphasize that enough." He also commended the quick response by the park rangers and all volunteers.

The family of the child was notified that afternoon after Yoder spoke with the Fresh Air Fund in New York City. The organization in turn notified the police department, and officers went to the child's home to inform the mother of the accident. Yoder said a list of the mother's friends was also obtained and several other people were notified of the tragedy so that they could offer support to the family.

DNR park rangers, Maryland State Police Medeac helicopter, volunteer fire fighters from Oakland, Deep Creek. Deer Park, and Friendsville, and members of the Northern and Southern Garrett Rescue Squads were all on hand for the rescue effort coordinated by Rangers Roger Riley and Lisa and Dave Baker, which continued at the river Thursday afternoon and evening with the 60-70 volunteers finally giving up at dusk. The search resumed at daybreak

Friday, and two represen-tatives of the Fresh Air program, including program director Pam Galehouse, arrived in the county at

Thousands of children come to Maryland and several other states every year through the Fresh Air Fund. Andrea Kotuk, spokesperson for the Fresh Air Fund Pub-Relations Office, stated that the program will "absolutely continue" despite the accident

We are of course horribly stunned and saddened by this tragedy and are doing all we can to help Violet's family," she stated. "But we do feel that the program will remain strong

The Fresh Air program is over 100 years old, begun in 1877. Approximately 1.6 million New York City children have benefitted through the program, Ms. Kotuk said, by having the opportu-nity to spend "happy summers in beautiful rural surroundings. The spokesperson said she understood persons' concern that the tragedy may interrupt or discontinue the program in Western Maryland, but again affirmed that the program would endure. She praised the local community's efforts in the rescue attempt and also expressed gratitude to Yoder, who acted as the main contact person

The Western Maryland host families gathered Saturday at Rocky Gap State Park to conduct a memorial ser vice for the child, and the funeral service and burial is scheduled for this Saturday in New York, according to Ms. Kotuk.

Loch Lynn School Status

The current status of the Loch Lynn Elementary School was discussed by the education board. The state fire marshal has warned the board that the school does not meet state safety codes and must either be closed in a year or brought up to state standards. In previous months, the board had decided upon the installation of a sprinkler system at a cost of approximately $29,000.

However, Ryscavage brought new information to the board members concerning the upgrading of the school. He explained that in a thorough review of the code violations, he and other supervisors had ascertained that the cost of bringing the school up to the standards by way of wall, door frame, and door replacements would cost in the neighborhood of $8,000. The board swiftly agreed to rejecting the previous bid for the sprinkler installation and to proceeding with the reconditioning work. The work will apparently begin in the near fu-

Food Service Plans

Richard Buckingham, director of food service, presented a "plan of action" for the coming school year. The goal of the plan is to encourage more student participation in the school lunch

Buckingham first gave his estimate of costs to cover the approved six-week trial of new healthful a la carte items. He said his needs for the program will be one floor model soft serve yogurt machine and two counter models, four popcorn ma-mated the total cost at $30,600. Ryscavage then suggested that the order be reduced to one counter model vogurt machine and two popcorn machines plus the product. This brought the price down to approximately $15,000. The board agreed with this action.

Buckingham also noted that the food service will work on a ticket system this year. The entire school system will be using the ticket system wherein all students will purchase a lunch ticket to turn in for the meal.

An ad hoc committee will be formed to gather ideas on increasing participation in the school lunch program. Members of the committee will be John Bennett from the state department of education, the members of the Food Service Advisory Committee, two cafeteria managers, Dr. Archer, and two students from the high schools. The first meeting of the committee was to be held on July 15.

Buckingham wishes to involve students in making the cafeteria a more pleasant environment in which to eat. He also suggested the involvement of principals and teachers in marketing the food service program. The service will be using the first-time six-week cycle, suggested by the advisory committee. Buckingham distributed copies of the already-planned menu to all board members.

A separate item discussed at the board meeting concerned the piloting of an alternate educational program designed especially for students in middle and high schools who are on the verge of expulsion. A report on the new program will appear in next week's issue of The

Deer Park Sunday School Teacher, Homemaker Turns 98 With Pride

The Deer Park United Methodist Church held a birthday party for Laura Mae Flanigan as she turned 98 on July 19. This unique woman is still surprisingly spry, as she washes her clothes, hangs them to dry, and even teaches Sunday school each week. She has taught Sunday school for more than five decades.

Laura Mae was born July 19, 1894. She was married for the first time when she was 14 to Emanuel King. He worked at B & O for a small salary and farmed with Laura Mae so that they had enough money to live. The couple would transport fruits and vegetables to the Deer Park Hotel by horse and buggy along with eggs, butter and flowers. "We sold things for a lot cheaper then," she

After Emanuel's death, Laura Mae married Walter Flanigan in 1928. Two daughters, Betty Mae and Dolly

Louise, resulted from this marriage. Soon Laura Mae's house was destroyed in fire, and a new one was constructed through a joint effort by her three brothers and two sons.

Laura was 31 when electricity was introduced to Deer Park. "I never missed a bill. I paid them each month," she said, and she was 60 when she first saw a television. An Oldsmobile was her first car. "It was a big, long fellow," she

Teaching Sunday school has been a part of Laura Mae's life for more than 50 years. Renee Beckman, Laura's granddaughter-in-law, stated, "Laura Mae gets upset when her students are absent. She cares about them and worries when they aren't there." Laura Mae prides herself in taking treats to her students each Sunday. However, learning from a woman who has lived through nearly 100 years of history would be a special gift in itself

A Day In The Park With Elvis Proves To Be Success; Hundreds Attend Event

To celebrate the recent national accomplishment of resident Mark Stutzman, the mayor and town council of Mountain Lake Park sponsored "A Day in the Park with Elvis" on July 11 complete with a parade, a "key of the city" presentation, food booths, pony rides, face painting, and live music. Stutzman achieved national fame several months ago when his image of Elvis Presley was chosen by the country to appear on a 1993 U.S. postage stamp. Hundreds of people attended the event, anxious to get Stutzman's signature and to seize the chance to talk with the artist about his recent experience. The sun was kind and predicted storms didn't materialize, giving all a day to enjoy. Photos by

THE FIRST EVER "KEY TO THE CITY" was presented to Stutzman by Mountain Lake Park Mayor David Turney at the opening of the event, and the United States Postal Service gave the artist a large reproduction of the famed Elvis Presley stamp design. In a short speech, Stutzman expressed his thanks to the town and event organizers as the television cameras from WJAC-TV, Johnstown, Pa., rolled. The station reported on the event during Saturday evening's 6 p.m. news. Another "first" at the event was an Elvis and Priscilla Presley Look-Alike Contest. Three people joined in the contest, two of which are shown above right in their Priscilla outfits. Brianne Meyers (left) and Megan Mahaffey tied in the female portion of the contest, and

SIGNATURE WAS HOT COMMODITY - Stutzman was literally swamped with requests for his signature, and he indeed signed his name hundreds of times during the afternoon. Items autographed by the artist ranged from the McDonald's "Batman Returns" cups to newspaper clippings to even a pair of shorts. Event organizers finally had to interrupt the line of signature seekers to give the guest of honor a break. One person in pursuit of the Stutzman signature and who stood in line like everyone else was none other than Ginny Stutzman, pictured at right, the first place in the Elvis category. The winners received a special certificate prepared by Stutzman that bore the likenesses of both Elvis and Priscilla. (Ivan Stutzman is shown in the foreground giving his rendition of "Hound Dog."

A PARADE IN THE PARK - For the first time in decades, a parade was held in Mountain Lake Park complete with a marching band and lots of spectators. The artist and his family were transported down the street in a 1947 Lincoln Continental convertible, owned and driven by Jack Coleman, Berlin, Pa., as the crowd of spectators followed along, waving and cheering. The Southern Garrett Band, shown below, began the parade with a short concert in front of the Stutzman's home.

James 3: 1-5. This letter, 1 Timothy, has ometimes been used as a prooftext to support an emphasis upon doctrinal correctness. Actually, it is just the opposite. The writer is concerned, not with how people articulate their ideas about Christ, but how they live their lives as a result of what they believe.

There have been too many times in my life when someone has attacked me because I do not formulate the expression of my beliefs in just the same way he or she does. Many years ago, when I was an adult advisor to an ecumenical Christian state youth council, another advisor squelched our plans for cel-ebrating Holy Communion together because he was certain that we did not believe about Holy Communion what he did. Unless we believe the same thing, he said, we could not kneel together at the Lord's

"O.K.," I said, "why don't you tell me what you believe and I'll see whether that's really different from what I believe." So, he explained rather concisely what his denomination taught concerning the Lord's Supper. When he was finished, I said, "Well, that's what I believe, too." Oh no you don't," he insisted. No matter what I said, I could do nothing to shake his conviction that he could not commune with me because we believed differently.

Extensive coverage of the 1992 Summer Olympics airs daily on NBC through Aug. 9. and the women's and men's gymnastics competitions will be featured heavily in prime time during the first week of coverage. On the women's side, both the team and the individual competitions are expected to be the toughest in years. And the U.S. team may be the strongest ever.

You can't call them the favorites," says Tim Daggett, an Olympic hero in 1984 and a commentator on both men's and women's gymnastics this year for NBC. "The former Soviet Union is undoubtedly the favorite for both the men and the women. But the United States women do have a chance to win.' The other team that is expected to be in the thick of the medal fight is Romania. "They will not be easy to beat in Barcelona," says Daggett. "Also, China's very strong. They could be in there for the bronze. And there's an interesting team from Australia."

As for individual athletes "Kim Zmeskal (the 1991 world champion) and Shannon Miller (winner of the U.S. Olympic trials) are the two names to watch as far as the Americans are concerned," says Elfi Schlegel, who is covering the women's gymnastics for NBC. In addition, she suggests keeping an eye on Tatiana Gutsu (CIS), Christina Bontas (Romania) and Henrietta Onodi (Hungary). "Svetlana Boguinskaya (CIS) would have to be one of Schlegel. "But I don't think

Still, Boguinskaya, 19, a gold medalist from the 1988 games in Seoul, has placed in the top three in the world champion ships every year since then, a remarkable achievement in a sport in which women tend to peak at the age of 15.

"I can't remember too many Russian athletes who have carried over two years, let alone two Olympics," says Schlegel. "They used to dispose of them as quickly as they produced them.

On the men's side, the CIS team is an overwhelming favorite, and three CIS athletes are expected to dominate: Vitali Scherbo, Igor Korobnchinski and Vileri Belenki.

"If I had to pick now, I could pretty much pick one and two, the former Soviet Union and China," says Daggett. "Third is going to be a dog fight. There many, Japan, South Korea and the United States falls into

Finally, George Stevens directed the enormously sweet and entertaining "Alice Adams" (1935). A real testament to Hepburn's all-out charms, "Alice" is about an insecure but determined wrong side-of-the-tracks girl who finds herself outside the social whirl but enamoured with one its elite players (Fred MacMurray)

· "Conspiracy of Silence" CBS, July 26 and 28) has its American premiere. An entire Canadian town for 16 years abetted four murderers by covering up evidence that the young men were responsible for the brutal, stabbing murder of a local 19-year-old Cree Indian in 1971. Though a Royal Canadian Mounted Police Officer was finally able to prose cute the men, only one of the four was actually convicted in the murder. "Conspiracy" taps into the depressing, endemic racism that valued the four white murderers' freedom above a Cree woman's life. • The trauma of child sex abuse is tackled in the "P.O.V." documentary "Promise Not to Tell" (PBS, July 27: check local listings), which concerns a Salt Lake City, Utah, case of sex abuse. "Promise" is a by-thebooks, talking-heads documentary with a hefty reliance on psychologists and legal figures defining the mired nature of abuse, countered by local townspeople's refusal to acmarried man (Robert Young). ly, that rapists exist at all.

ing, women's gymnastics, track and field, canoeing and men's volleyball. In all, NBC has a whopping 69.5 hours of programming scheduled for this week, all of it "plausibly live." In plain English, that means it's all taped. But given the fact that the games are being played in a time zone that is six hours ahead of the U.S. Eastern time zone, the concept makes sense Plausibly live means that the timing of what is seen on American television will reflect the progression of the day in Barcelona. That is, morning events (which will actually be taking place in our early a.m.) will be seen here in the morning, likewise afternoon and evening events. • On Sunday, July 26, ABC airs live coverage of the final round of the U.S. Women's Open golf championship in

THIS WEEK

OH Brother!: It's a family affair on the Family Channel when three sets of siblings play three sets of sibling outlaws in the Old West shoot-'em-up "The Long Riders." David, Keith and Robert Carradine play the Younger brothers: James and Stacy Keach play Jesse and Frank James; and Dennis and Randy Quaid play the Miller brothers.

David Carradine The 1980 movie airs Saturday, Aug 1. • On Sunday, July 26, "An Evening at Pops" has singer Tony Bennett and composer Michel Legrand (Oscar-winning "Summer of '42," "Windmills of Your Mind") joining forces for an evening of balladry on "Tony Bennett and Michel Legrand." • At the midway point between the Democratic and Republican conventions, PBS (check local listings) airs "Keeping America #1: Business and Presi dential Leadership" on Friday, July 31. The discussion of the roles of government and business in protecting the nation's industrial base is moderated by Linda O'Byron, executive editor of "The Nightly Business Report," and Marshall Loeb, managing editor of Fortune magazine.

SOAP SCOOP

Being a soap opera fan at this time of year affords stars. Summer is when soaps are just kicking off their frequently teen-oriented summer story lines, in which they introduce new and exciting young faces. Here are some of the newcomers we're keeping

• Ingrid Rogers (Taylor, "All My Children"): Isn't Taylor a great young vixen? The earnest, yet deeply emotional, characters comprising the Frye family — Terrence (Dondre Whitfield), Livia (Tonva Pinkins) and Lucas Barnes (Richard Lawson) have long needed a catalytic char-

yet another "ATWT" child with unknown parents. It seems that everyone over age 35 on this show has discovered that he or she has a previously unknown child.

. Monti Sharp (David, "Guiding Light"): Here's a rare actor who generates so much electricity that it was apparent after just his first few scenes that he was going to be a big, big, star. Sharp has expressive eyes, exquisite dic tion and just exudes command. vealed secret that will undoubtedly complicate the lives of his newlywed sister Gillie (played by Amelia Marshall) and her husband Hamp (played by Vince Williams) • Eric Close (Sawyer, "Santa Barbara"): It's hard to make sense out of what's happening days. But Close is charismatic and has quite a bit of natural

• Ryan Philippe (Billy, "One Life to Live"): His story line, concerning Billy's emerging homosexuality (not daytime's first!), was so widely pre-publicized that the poor inexperienced kid had hardly played his first scene before the glare of the spotlight was on him. So far, however, Philippe has been quite good. Let's hope "OLTL" will have the patience to let the actor and the story garner future acclaim on their own, without the hype.

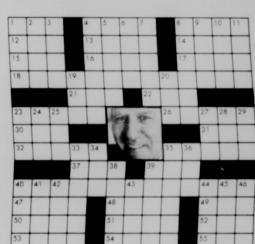

· Brent Jasmer (Sly, "The Bold and the Beautiful"): No. you're not hallucinating Jasmer does look exactly like Sylvester Stallone. But as bartender of the soap's new hot spot, the Bikini Bar, Jasmer is

On Saturday, Aug. 1, Austin, Texas, becomes Margaritaville, as Jimmy Buffett (pic tured) joins host Jerry Jeff Walker in a special hour-long edition of "The Texas Connection" on The Nashville Network. Of course. Buffett performs such hits as "Mar garitaville," "Railroad Lady," "Come Monday" and "A Pirate Looks at Forty,"

isn't up to the level of Brooks' zany classics of the 70s ("Blazing Saddles." Young Frankenstein"), but it's a lot better than its performance at the box office last summer would indicate. Brooks stars as a self-centered mogul who makes a bet month with nothing finds life on the streets a lot tougher than he ever anticipated. It premieres Friday, July 31, on Showtime.

Department of Health and

and the State Highway Administration (SHA) have joined forces with the Maryland State Police and local law enforcement agencies in a cooperative effort called "Operations Buckle Down. 'Operation Buckle Down" is a multifaceted project which, among other things, encourages police to enforce the occupant protection law. The child passenger safety law is a pri-

which means parents may be stopped by police if they are seen transporting a child under 10 who is not prop-

Buckle Down" have been beefed up throughout the

Imagine all of the creative, fun recipes you can make with berry blue gelatin! New Jell-O* berry blue flavor gelatin was created because kids will love the delicious taste of raspberries and blueberries in a brilliant blue color. Eye-catching treats depicting sky and water themes and recipes with a patriotic flair will add FUN to family meals, children's parties or everyday snack attacks.

Start your berry blue adventure with Edible Aquarium, a super simple recipe that's as fun to make as it is to eat. Kids will love placing gummy fish into partially set gelatin. For a party, make Edible Aquarium in small plastic cups and serve as a colorful dessert or snack.

Another delightful, easy-to-make recipe that the whole family will love is Shooting Star, which features berry blue gelatin layered with whipped topping "clouds." For a crowning touch, let little ones top the dessert with a marshmallow "star."

Two recipes that feature the delicious variety of gelatin flavors are Gelatin Lollipops and Rainbow Dessert. Children can help make their own play time snack with Gelatin Lollipops. Rainbow Dessert will be a big hit at a summer

Adults can use the Edible Aquarium and Shooting Star recipes to open educational discussions with youngsters about the sky and the ocean. The eye-catching presentation of each dessert is sure to capture kids' imaginations.

Try any or all of these recipes and you will see that with Jell-O berry blue gelatin, having the blues is FUN!

Jell-O brand gelatin, any flavor 1-1/4 cups boiling water

4 (5 ounce) paper kitchen cups

6 plastic straws, cut in half Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Let stand to cool for 15 minutes. Pour into

. Refrigerate until firm, at least 3 hours.

Peel away cups. Using a knife dipped in warm water, cut each gelatin cup horizontally into 3 round slices. Insert straw half into each gelatin slice to resemble a lollipop. Makes 12 pops

Rainbow Dessert

- 2 packages (4-serving size) Jell-O brand gelatin, any red flavor packages (4-serving size) Jell-O brand orange flavor gelatin
- packages (4-serving size) Jell-O brand lemon flavor gelatin packages (4-serving size) Jell-O brand lime flavor gelatin packages (4-serving size) Jell-O brand berry blue flavor gelatin
- 6-1/4 cups boiling water Frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed

Dissolve each flavor of gelatin separately in 1-1/4 cups boiling water. Pour each flavor into 8- or 9-inch square pans. Refrigerate until firm, at least 3 hours.

Cut into 1-inch cubes. Arrange rows of different color cubes to form a rainbow on a large flat tray or cookie sheet. Double stack cubes, if desired. Garnish with whipped topping clouds for dipping. Makes 15 to 20 servings.

NOTE: To use remaining cubes, spoon 1/3 cup thawed non-dairy whipped topping into dessert glass. Using back of spoon, make a depression in center and spread topping up side of glass. Place gelatin cubes over topping.

Shooting Star

- 1 package (4-serving size) Jell-O brand berry blue flavor gelatin
- 3/4 cup boiling water
- 1/2 cup cold water
- Ice cubes cup thawed non-dairy whipped topping
- Additional thawed non-dairy whipped topping
- 4 marshmallows
- Colored sugar

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Combine cold water and ice cubes to make 1-1/4 cups ice and water. Add to gelatin, stirring until gelatin is slightly thickened. Remove any unmelted ice. Refrigerate until gelatin is thick enough to softly mound.

Spoon thickened gelatin into dessert dishes alternately with spoonfuls of whipped topping to form clouds. Refrigerate until set, about 1 hour. Garnish with additional whipped topping; then marshmallows, cut into star shapes; slightly moistened and sprinkled with colored sugar, if desired. Makes 4 servings

Edible Aquarium

- 1 package (4-serving size) Jell-O brand berry blue flavor gelatin
- 3/4 cup boiling water 1/2 cup cold water

Ice cubes Gummy fish

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Combine cold water and ice cubes to make 1-1/4 cups ice and water. Add to gelatin, stirring until slightly thickened. Remove any unmelted ice. If mixture is still thin, refrigerate until slightly thickened.

Pour thickened gelatin into 4 dessert dishes. Suspend gummy fish in gelatin. Refrigerate until set, about 1 hour. Garnish with additional gummy fish, if desired. Makes 4 servings

Administration Officials Say Action Near On Wetlands Manual

Edward Madigan told Farm Bureau leaders meeting in Washington last week that the White House is moving closer to a solution on the wetlands issue, including the release of the wetlands delineation manual.

The manual, used as the guide for wetland identification, has been in the revision process for several months. A lengthy public comment period ended in January and the administration has been reviewing those comments, which numbered more than

"What we're pushing for is not to put this thing off until after the election,' Madigan said in his address to Farm Bureau's annual Council of Presidents. "We want it done this year and we want it done in a farmerfriendly way.

controversial manual was issued in 1989 by the Environmental Protection Agency, Soil Conservation Service, the Army Corps of Engineers and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service without opportunity for public comment. > Farm Bureau is opposed to such a delay, but EPA Administrator William Reilly, who also addressed the Farm Bureau meeting, said the NAS study would help the process.

> "If we cannot resolve the issue of delineation ourselves within the administration in a way that the scientific community accepts, perhaps we should let the National Academy of Sciences make some judgment on this question, Reilly said.

> The EPA chief said it was his goal to resolve the issue. "We're going to try to fix this problem, to create a delineation system that is predictable, that is clear and that doesn't take several hours -- as is apparently necessary under the '91 manual -- to make a wetlands delineation call,' Reilly said. He also noted his sup-

Farming In Maryland .....Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor 'Let there be no doubt, President Bush and I fully support ethanol," Reilly said. "We view the ethanol market as one more area where agriculture and economic and environmental interests all converge. The bottom line is that ethanol will be used in reformulated gasoline both in the summer and winter months." Sen. Richard Lugar, (R-Ind.) ranking member of the Senate Agriculture Committee and an advocate of USDA reform, also spoke at the Farm Bureau meeting

Lugar said the agricultural industry will have a stronger position to bargain from in government budget negotiations if the USDA tightensits belt. He has proposed a thorough examination of USDA management and allocation of resources pointing out that the department was created in 1862 when 25 percent of the population lived on farms and the needs of people it erves are now different.

The solution to the farm credit problem forged by farm leaders and Congress several years ago is a positive example of how to solve problems facing agriculture, Lugar said. "The Farm Credit System was in very great trouble" before the problem was resolved. Similar foresight by the savings and loan industry could have prevented its collapse.

People are yearning for examples of big agencies' doing their own policing and cutting back, Lugar said, noting that he is "an advocate for agriculture" but there must be better management in order for USDA to have credibility.

Brookings Institute Scholar William Frenzel, a former Minnesota congressman, presented his views on Congress. He predicted that "almost no important legislation" will be passed in the remainder of this session because of the upcoming election. The next Congress will have many new faces, by some estimates as many as predicted that this change will not be drastic in relation to party affiliation. He said the Democrat-controlled House would likely gain a few Republicans while the Senate may lose a few Republicans.

According to Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation President Dan Poulson, who testified on behalf of the American Farm Bureau Federation, dairy producers have lost millions when processors have gone bankrupt.

'Dairy farmers are traditionally paid for the milk they produce one month after it has been received by the handler," Poulson told the subcommittee. "This leaves them financially vulnerable if the company that receives the milk experiences financial difficulty."

The bankruptcy of Finevest Foods, Inc., and its subsidiaries in the Southeast illustrates the problem, Poulson said.

Finevest filed for Chap ter 11 bankruptcy in Jacksonville, Fla., last year. Among its subsidiaries were Land O'Sun Dairies, Inc., distributors of Pet brand milk products, and several other dairy processors. The unannounced bankruptcy caught Land O'Sun's milk suppliers, which included more than 570 dairy farmers and several cooperatives, by surprise. They were owed an estimated $14 million for their milk.

Poulson said the absence of a payment security program meant some of those dairy producers received only 10 cents on the dollar as a settlement.

"It has taken three years for payment to producers and cooperatives to be made, with many farmers not receiving the full value of their milk," Poulson said.

He pointed out that dairy producers in some must wait as long as 45 days after delivery before being paid by milk processors. "Part of it has to do with the way we finance and the very fact that we use that raw milk as collateral for a loan," he said.

Poulson said the lending arrangements that exist between banks and handlers jeopardize a dairy farmer's ability to get paid for the milk produced. Some handlers use up to 30 days worth of milk -- which is not paid for and is therefore a debt -- as collateral for loans.

This means if a handler has a financial failure, the bank is positioned to be first to receive payment, leaving the farmer to turn to bank. ruptcy proceedings to recover what he can for his milk," he added

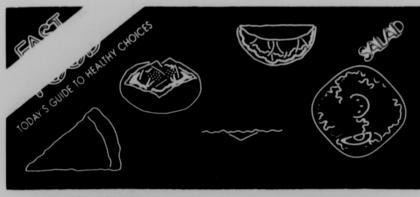

Poulson called for enactment of a trust provision whereby at the point of default or the inability (of the processor) to pay, immediately the farmer falls in line to be paid for his delivered, and as yet unpaid, product.

Federal dairy producer security legislation would limit the use of accounts payable (milk delivered but not paid for) as collateral by banks and handlers involved in such financial arrangements.

The issue also is complicated by the fact that 38 states have different payment security programs, which provide varying coverage to producers whose milk is shipped across state lines. Legislation is needed to encourage uniformity among the states, Poulson said. Many states with existing programs have encouraged a federal program such as this, since it would make their efforts more ef-

Farm Bureau is calling for legislation to enact a producer security payment program patterned after the livestock trust provisions of the Packers and Stockyards Act. This would provide a priority lien position for dairy producers by establishing a trust on milk product assets, sales and inventories, at the time a handler

guarantee milk checks. The issue has been addressed a number of times in the past, but has never been resolved. Language to extend the automatic trust provisions provided by the Packers and Stockyards Act to dairy had been included in the 1990 farm bill and in last year's attempt at inventory management legislation. Neither effort resulted in passage, according to John Keeling, an AFBF assistant director of national affairs. There are indications from several subcommittee members, however, that legislation may move forward next

Farmers, Scientists Exchange Information

Scientist Dr. Douglas Spilker is trading in his white lab coat for jeans and boots as part of the American Farm Bureau's Adopt A Scientist Program. Dr. Spilker will be spending the week of July 20-23 on a 700-acre farm in Calvert County

The Adopt A Scientist Program was developed to improve communications and the flow of information between scientists and farmers. The exchange program places leading scientists on farms across the United States and provides the host family an opportunity to visit the company's research facilities. The program opens a dialogue between scientist and farmer which promotes a better, more practical understanding of one another's

The 700-acre host farm is owned by J. Allen and Pat Swann. Their family raises fruits, vegetables, tobacco and small grains. Dr. Spilker is a State Regulatory Affairs Specialist with Miles, Inc. in Kansas City, Mo. He has advanced degrees in plant pathology, state and federal regulations and biological control. The Adopt A Scientist Program was developed in 1988 with eight scientist/host family exchanges completed. Last year, 23 scientists from eight companies completed the program in 16 states. Adopt A Scientist is a program of the American Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

Wilson, who operates a

Is agriculture really "killing the world?" That question clings to the fibers of John Charles Wilson's mind like stubborn seeds inside a Tennessee cotton

The Tennessee farmer found himself asking that question after reading a blanket indictment of agriculture by Jay Hair, head of the National Wildlife Federation. Leaping from page 15 of "Progressive Farmer" magazine was Hair's statement, "This big, booming business, agriculture, is also killing the world. I mean that literally.

Wilson had heard similar statements before, but why, he wondered, were people making such charges about his chosen vocation one that feeds and clothes the world? In wrestling with the question, he discovered proof was lacking. Wilson wanted answers.

He began talking with other area farmers about how best to tackle the question from a farmer-up, grassroots level. An active conservationist, Wilson presented the dilemma to soil conservation officials in his and neighboring counties, and a plan sprouted.

We decided to try to find out just how agriculture is impacting our environment," he says.

If agriculture-related runoff has a negative effect on the environment, many agree it certainly would be in Wilson's area of West Tennessee -- where 80-85 percent of the soil is classified as highly erodible, and one of the main crops is cotton, a crop that requires a higher level of chemical inputs.

Today, descending the banks of a drainage ditch separating two of his cotton fields, Wilson puts his hands on part of the Beaver Creek project -- a model project described as the most intensive field-scale assessment ever conducted of agricultural runoff's environmental impact.

"If we find out that we have a problem, we are going to correct it with best management practices (BMPs) -- terraces, reduced tillage or other conservation practices -- or whatever the appropriate technology might be," Wilson says. "If we don't have the problems we are being told, or in the magnitude we are being told, we are going to be able to make some statements about that.

This project was started by production farmers. We had the idea and it grew from there. It did not start from an agency coming to the farmers, but the farmers going to the agencies. That is one of the real important parts about this project. Farmers have concerns about what we are doing to our environment. We want to know what we are doing.

The Beaver Creek project is named for the 95,450-acre watershed in which it is located. The project is composed of a halfdozen computerized monitoring sites in the watershed. Samples of field runoff are collected at five minute intervals throughout the duration of a rain storm. Compared to monitoring methods used elsewhere, Beaver Creek's intensive scientific assessment has reduced probable errors in calculations of sediment, nutrient and pesticide transport by a factor

Survey (USGS), the Soil Conservation Service (SCS), Clemson University, Mem phis State University, the University of Tennessee, the Tennessee Department of Conservation and the Tennessee Department of Agriculture, to name a few.

"I think this is the beginning of research that will tell us finally what the significant facts are about agriculture and the environment," says AFBF President Dean Kleckner, who farms in Iowa. "I think we have to do this in a number of other places around the country so we can form a national outlook -- something of national significance. This is going to tell us a lot.'

Even with endorsements and all its multiagency credibility, the Beaver Creek project hinges on the voluntary cooperation of Wilson and a number of his neighboring Tennessee

We are telling USGS what we are applying to our land, as far as pesticides and nutrients, in what rates, at what time and to what crops," Wilson explains. "They are looking for those pesticides during a storm event. They are also looking for sediment load-that we are able to cover all

Stephen Klaine, an aquatic toxicologist at Clemson University who helped design the research project while at Memphis State University, now is overseeing a portion of that analysis. He says it is too early to come up with conclusive results, but he expects the project to help answer the question of agriculture's impact on the environment, and how specifically-prescribed BMPs positively affect water qual-

Farmer participants in the project such as Wilson will be able to put their heads on the information and, if possible, alter their practices accordingly.

"The concept of technology transfer at the grassroots level is really exciting tome," Klaine says. "I think previous work in agricultural source pollution has always been from the (topdown) regulatory level.

"We have found large amounts of sediment are exported out of this water-" Roman-Mas says. 'Perhaps sediment is the most single important problem in West Tennessee.. in particular the Beaver Creek watershed. Certainly we need to devise BMPs -- to avoid soil erosion.'

Some of this sediment is due to ditch bank erosion caused by "hungry water" a phenomenon that occurs when clean field runoff takes on sediment after it reaches the ditch. As BMPs reduce field erosion and runoff becomes even cleaner, lower levels of field sediment could be offset somewhat by more sediment from ditch erosion.

Roman-Mas says pesticide transport at Beaver Creek "is almost a chance situation.'

"If you have an intensive rainfall event right after application of pesticide you get some export," he says. "However, if you don't have that event, certainly you will not export that much, if any. There's an effective use of pesticides within the fields.

"We have found that most of the nitrogen is exported in the form of suspended organic nitrogen (in plant material). While the nitrogen export is significant, it is not associated with think it has already the application of fertilizers. Phosphorous exports from the fields is negligible.

Overall, Wilson and other farmers in the watershed are encouraged by these trends, and are eager to see some final conclusions. The project's next step is to assess the effective ness of specific BMPs and how they benefit the watershed environment.

Klaine sees a need for information beyond Beaver Creek. It is important to scientifically assess the ac tual presence of water quality problems before solutions are prescribed and implemented

I think that by using the Beaver Creek project as a model, similar projects around the country could initiated," he says. 'Again, grassroots -- one farmer, one soil conservation district -- and it is not impossible to do. If we can show we have made an impact or we have made a change in water quality from the Beaver Creek project, maybe other projects around the country will also be initiated and also have impact. It may seem like a small step, but one watershed at a time is going to make the difference in the long term.

"We have noticed that the water coming out of my no-till cotton was probably 20 to 30 shades clearer than the water coming out of my conventional-till cotton," he

Wilson and other farmers are hopeful the Beaver Creek project will clear up some misconceptions about agriculture and the envi-ronment. They believe preliminary results indicate agriculture is not "killing the world," but they also know "preliminary" is not good enough.

We want to be able to make a statement about agriculture that can be backed up by facts, in black and white." Wilson says. That is the reason we got into this project. We do not want someone to go out and make a statement about agriculture which cannot be backed up by facts.

"Jay Hair's statement was a sensational-type statement. That is what he meant it to be. I am sorry he made it. I know this project will prove him wrong. I

Doctors, Hospitals Not Keen On Government Involvement

The need to shift health are costs to other patients not responsible for those osts is a trend that disturbs physicians and health trend caused largely by mandates in governmentsponsored health plans.

Health care officials, speaking at a recent health are issues conference conducted by the American Farm Bureau Federation, view the necessity of costshifting in their operations as a sign of how the U.S. government would likely mismanage the health care system under a national health insurance plan.

A representative of the Mayo Clinic told the confer ence of Farm Bureau volunteers and staff members that standard fees at his institution could be reduced 15 percent if cost shifting was not needed to balance financial inequities.

Bob Smoldt, a member of the Rochester, Minn. based clinic's board of trustees, outlined several reform proposals supported by his institution. Smoldt said the public needs greater control over medical costs. He said Mayo's reform proposal includes the estab lishment of a basic level of insurance for all citizens. It would include the individual freedom to purchase services above the basic insurance level, with options to seek services outside the existing coverage plan. In addition, the Mayo proposal would include: incentives for efficiency and quality of care provided; greater emphasis on wellness and better information on when to use technology to extend life; adequate funding for education and research to ensure future improvement in health care; more emphasis on quality assurance and ethical standards; and cost control steps such as malpractice reform to reduce defensive medicine actions improved testing of mew technologies to determine when patients actually benefit, limiting state insurance basic levels and uniform claim forms for all players.

Dr. Jane Orient, executive director of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, bases her lack of enthusiasm for national health insurance, in part, on cost shifting.

Orient, who practices internal medicine, said it is incorrect to believe that health coverage for all will cure the ills of the U.S. system. She said the main problem is that we "have too much insurance." That insurance, however, is not really insurance, but instead a system of "pre-payment for the consumption of what we call health care.

Although she was quick to recommend early intervention for illnesses such as hypertension and breast cancer, she also contended early intervention practices cost more than they ultimately save and should not overed by insurance

Insurance is for things that you don't want." she explained. "You don't want our house to burn down. You don't want somebody to steal your car and you don't want to die early.

She was also critical of the care priorities extended by health maintenance organizations (HMOs), saying HMOs "provide more and more of these good things

During the recent sign house burns to the ground.' up period for the program 30 landowners in nine pilot states (California, Iowa, Louisiana, Minnesota mississippi, Missouri, New York, North Carolina and Wisconsin) told their Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county offices they were in terested in offering 466,000 acres for enrollment. Mark Maslyn, an American Farm Bureau Federation assistant director of national affairs, said that over the next 60 days the Soil Conservation Service and the Fish and Wildlife Service will develop restoration plans for the acreage offered. He said the plans will serve as the basis for landowners to submit bids to the ASCS for enrollment

The House, declaring that it wanted to assess producer interest in the program, voted June 20 to eliminate wetland funding for the next fiscal year Madigan said USDA will proceed with wetlands enrollment with the $46.6 million available this year, and will seek to restore funding 1993. The Senate has yet to act on this measure

The 1990 farm bill authorized the wetlands re serve program and established a goal of acquiring easements and restoring up to one million acres by 1995. Under the program, USDA will pay landowners easement costs for accepted acreage, plus 75 percent of costs for work approved to restore the land to healthy wetlands condition. Enrolled acreage must be kept permanently as wetlands, under the supervision of ASCS. Farmers who are ac cepted into the program this vear will receive annual payments despite questions about funding for future acquisitions, Maslyn said.

SCS Reviewing Conservation Plans

The Soil Conservation Service has begun comparing the operations of the farmers' conservation plan to verify that they are imple menting the erosion-control measures they scheduled when they developed their plans

Although 'status reviews' were conducted last year, 1992 is the next progressive step toward imple mentation," said Robert Klumpe, state conservationist. "In 1991, our objective was to help the producers understand their plans. In 1992, we have to assume that producers understand their plans when actively applying them according to cisions or practices identified in the plan.

Klumpe continued, "SCS personnel are conducting status reviews on five percent of randomly selected farms in each county. Farmers who received variances last year will have their perations checked again this year, as well as, farmers who are not implement ing their conservation plans. Anytime we become aware that a producer is not actively applying a plan, we must conduct a status review. Producers have until the end of the calendar year to get back on schedule in their plans or we have no other choice but to refer them to ASCS as not ac tively applying their plan. Provisions of the 1985 and 1990 farm bills state that farmers with highly erodible land must: 1) De velop a conservation plan, 2) Apply the plan according to its schedule, and 3) Fully implement the plan by 1995 in order to remain eligible for most USDA programs. "Successful implementation of the farm bill respon sibilities is our highest priority." Klumpe said. "SCS must take this responsibility seriously to monitor the progress made by produc-

Gov. Schaefer Announces Reorganization at MDA

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced a streamlining of functions at the Maryland Department of Agriculture designed to improve efficiency and services during these difficult budgetary times.

"Using ideas from employees, Secretary Robert Walker has done a good job of utilizing his staff and improving the visibility of his program," Governor Schaefer

The changes at agriculture involve the consolidation of functions by creating a Marketing Team as part of the Office of the Secretary, combining Aquaculture De velopment and Seafood Marketing and reassigning Egg Inspection and Grading Services to the Animal Health unit which is now called Food Safety and Consumer Ser-

Earwigs -- Population Explosion I am now getting several calls a day about a black bug with pinchers. The Earwig is a common insect in the garden and around the home. Their most common characteristic feature is the pair of pinchers at the tip of the abdomen. They are reddish-brown and about 3/4 inch long. Earwigs have a varied diet. Some are primarily predators, feeding on aphids, insect larvae and snails. They also eat plant material such as seedling vegetables, flowers, fruit and foliage. Earwigs are considered a nuisance pest, and only cause significant damage to plants when populations are high. To minimize Earwig problems indoors, keep ares close to the house clear of debris and hiding places. Earwigs can be controlled by spraying with malathion, methoxychlor or diazinon. If you prefer not to use an insecticide, the Earwig can be controlled by persistent trapping. A simple trap can be made using a tuna or cat food can. Add 1/2 inch vegetable oil and place them around the area where the Earwig are living. They will fall into the can and drown. Another trap is a moistened, rolledup newspaper. Earwigs will go into the paper. In the morning, shake them into soapy water to kill them. Continue this procedure until you're no longer catching them. Crop Notes

A "close cousin" of the European Gypsy Moth that we are familiar with has jumped ship in the west coast parts. It's the Asian Gypsy Moth. However, compared to its Asian cousin, the moth common to our area may be a wimp. The Asian moth is more dangerous for several reasons:

The female Asian moth is capable of flying up to 20-40 miles and does so before she lays her eggs. The European moth is incapable of flight.

\* The Asian moth eats a much wider variety of food, about  $500\,\mathrm{species}\,\mathrm{of}\,\mathrm{plants}.$  This could spell doom for the northwest timber industry. The Asian Gypsy Moth is hardier than the European, known to over-winter in the extreme cold of Siberia.

* There is a possibility that some of the Asian moths may be resistant to B.t.

The Asian Moth was not brought here intentionally; they hitched a ride on ships out of the Russia area. The Federal and State officialS in Washington, Oregon and British Columbia are making a concentrated effort to eliminate the

The goal of the White House Council on Competitiveness is to strike down private property rights, the unnecessary regulations that impede economic growth, its director told Farm Bureau leaders in Washington last week.

The council, chaired by owners. Vice President Dan Quayle, has the responsibility of reviewing old and new regulations and plays a role in general policy development as a subcommittee of the president's Cabinet, David McIntosh said in a speech during the Council of Presidents meeting. McIntosh said, "Many regulations in the past 20 years have had a dramatic effect on private property. He said the council has five principles it follows when reviewing regulations.

The first principle is to protect the free market. econd, if the marketplace doesn't work, it must be appropriate for the government to step in, McIntosh said. Third, when government intervenes to address a problem, it is important to reduce the cost to all involved. The fourth principle is that where possible the government should use market-based approaches. Protection of private property rights is the fifth principle 'Today many of the government activities never take physical use of the land. Economic use is denied just as much as in a physical taking of the land, RANGER RIDE ALONG PROGRAM is an educational program offered at Deep Creek Lake Recreational Area to high school students aged 16-18 years who are interested in the field of natural resources or the work habits of a park ranger. Participants accompany a park ranger in the normal performance of his duties at Deep Creek Lake. This includes involvement in such activities as maintenance, patrol and enforcement interpretive programs, water quality monitoring, and research studies on Deep Creek Lake. Pictured is Shawn Sternberg of Oakland, the first participant of the program. Shawn spent his day working with Ranger Richard Sines on a variety of Lake Management activities, Persons interested in participating in the Ranger Ride-Along Program may call the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area Office at (301) 387-5563 for more information.

An effort is underway by people in the Aurora area to focus on breathing problems. Members of the Eglon Southern States Advisory Board. in conjunction with Union Ambulance and the Aurora and Mt. Grove volunteer fire departments, have asked Preston Memorial Hospital (PMH) to conduct breathing tests on July 29.

Breathing problems affect many in North Central West Virginia, and PMH is home f the only hospital-based black lung and breathing center in the state. The respiratory experts at PMH say that not only miners, but farmers and people in other may need to stay aware of their breathing capacity They said they were "very impressed" by the efforts of a community group in Union District, led by Rose Ina Harsh, to study breathing problemsoffarmersandother workers.

Dave Reckart, director of respiratory therapy at PMH, will bring special equipment. to the Aurora Fire Hall on that Wednesday evening to give people "baseline spirometry" readings. He is supported by Carolyn Tichnell, director of the Northern Mountaineer Black Lung and Breathing Center.

"I can tell from being around people who spend a lot of time in barns that our community has a high number of respiratory problems, said Mrs. Harsh

Mrs. Harsh did something about her concern by calling a meeting of interested people in the community last year. She had experts on agricultural air quality speak to the group. One brought along an air tester which discovered high levels of air contaminants in a barn.

The Eglon Southern States Advisory Board then picked up the issue as a project and had Dr. Mario C Battagelli, director of the Institute of Occupational Health and Safety at West Virginia University School of Medicine, speak

"Dr. Battagelli suggested e have this spirometry clinic," said Mrs. Harsh. "He thinks that people at risk of having respiratory problems, such as farmers, should have a baseline test.

In addition to the tests. there will be information available on respiratory prob lems. The Preston County Chapter of the American Can cer Society will also have ar information table

The event will start at 7 p.m., at the Aurora fire hall For more information, persons may contact Rose Ina Harsh at 735-5709 or Jean Winters at 735-5763. Preston Memorial is willing to discuss conducting similar testing clinics in other areas. Those interested should contact Phil Schenk at 789-6420

Support Group Forming In TA

A support group for divorced, separated, or persons working on a troubled marriage is being organized in Terra Alta. The group will be meeting each Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Terra Alta Church of the Nazarene, located along the Brandonville Pike. Discussions will be led by Pastor Rick McCartnev. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

Father Of Steel Drum Is Member Of WVU Faculty

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. Steel drums, increasingly popular instruments among azz and pop musicians, are being produced in Morgantown -- by the man who invented them on the isle of Trinidad in the early 1940s.

Known among percussionists as the father of the steel drum, Ellie Mannette, oined the faculty at West Virginia University last semester and has a studio deep in the school's Creative Arts Center -- far enough from violin and piano rehearsal rooms so that the thunderous sound of hammers pounding new steel drums into shape won't distract other

Mannette is the first international percussionist in what Professor of Music Phil Faini envisions as a WVU World Music Performance Center. Faini has been the university's percussion studies expert for 31 years, and he has done considerable re search on music of other cultures and wants to make WVU a center to promote international music At 65, Mannette is preoc cupied with perfecting the steel drum into a consistently tuned instrument that can take its place among such orchestral standards as tympani and marimbas. He hopes to tap the research capabilities of WVU, working with scientists to perfect the instrument's physical and metallurgical properties to improve its tonal qualities. Meanwhile, he'steaching students to build, tune and play these instruments, which are still made from 55gallon oil drums

His search for legitimacy for his invention may have roots in his childhood experiences on Trinidad. In fact, if young Ellie Mannette hadn't been ridiculed by neighbors and chased by the Trinidadian police when he and his friends took up bang- eryone was so impressed," he ng rhythms on garbage cans, the steel drums may not have become what they are today

In the early 1940s, he and his young friends were considered outcasts and renegades; disdained and shunned by neighbors be cause of the raucous sounds they created. Today, Mannette is a well known and respected authority on steel drums with clients across the untry, including the U.S. Navy Steel Drum Band, who have commissioned him to tune and build the instru-

From the time I made my first drum, I wanted to see the instrument become part of a symphony," Mannette said. "It really gave me a thrill - I don't know why, it wasn't beautiful at that

In fact, the first steel drum music wasn't at all what it is today. Steel drums were simple rhythm instruments when Mannette and his friends, as he describes them "wayward boys," were making a racket all day and all night

But the instrument, which Mannette calls "pan" evolved. At first, he and his friends pounded garbage can bottoms outward with broom handles into a convex surface. As the boys played, they noticed that dents in the surface produced notes. "One guy finally got four notes -- not pitches," Mannette recalled. It drove me crazy. Then he played Mary Had a Little Lamb. Then, I got really crazy and said to myself, I have to Mannettecausedthenext evolutionary step that fashoned the modern steel drum. He bent the metal down, not out. This made the instrument tunable and has led to many incremental improvements since then. In 1946, at an island musical event, he played portions of Brahms' Lullaby" on an instrument he had tuned, at the same time introducing the next improvement. He used a large, 55-gallon drum.

this new drum. Mannette likes to point out the inaccuracy of the notion the instrument was invented after World War II when the U.S. Navy left behind petroleum drums. 'That's junk," he said, although he admits using pe troleum drums acquired at a nearby naval facility.

1951, Mannette de buted with a steel drum band in London, and the instrument gained international attention. He came to the U.S. briefly in 1963 to work with the Navy steel drum band but left with a vow never to return because of the rac ism he experienced.

He returned, however, in 1967 at the request of Murray Narell, the father of the popular jazz steel drummer Andy Narell. He worked with the Narells to build drums for an inner city youth program. After working with community groups for five years and starting steel bands, Mannette worked with the New York City Board of Educa-

Admissions Applications For Fall

While many colleges in sions," said Associate Dean the Baltimore/Washington area are experiencing a drop in applications, admissions staff at Frostburg State University are smiling. In the past five years, the college has seen a 30 percent increase in the number of students applying, as well as an increase in the academic quality of students seeking enrollment.

This is a very health thing," said David Sanford, Dean of Admissions. "Not only are we seeing more applications, but types of student are academically better prepared.

According to Sanford, part of the increase in interest in Frostburg State is due to "having a higher profile. No longer are we hearing people ask, 'Where's Frost-major impact on education, said Sanford. "The schools that people had once looked at automatically, more families are taking a second look. Our competitors are sometimes two to three times more expensive, but the academic programs are comparable.

The continual increase in tuition at many private schools and larger institutions, is having a positive impact on many smaller, less expensive schools, he said.

'Costs are having a significant impact on all admis-

Miller Awarded Two Scholarships

Melissa Elaine Miller, Grantsville, has been awarded both an Allegany Community College Presiden tial Scholarship and a Mr. and Mrs. P. Terrence Burke Office Technologies Scholarship for study at the college this fall, the ACC Foundation announced. She will enroll in the office technologies curriculum's medical secretarial option. After graduation, she plans to further her education by becoming a medical assistant. Miss Miller is a 1992 graduate of Northern High School, where she was an honor roll student. Involved in extra-curricular activities during her middle and high school years, Miss Miller was recording secretary of the National Honor Society chapter and historian of her se nior class. A standout athlete, she received a three letter sports award in 11th grade. In her senior year, after knee injuries, Miss Miller managed both the cross country and track teams and was statistician for the girls basketball team. She also was a peer counselor and served on the Western Maryland Youth Corps Steering Committee, and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. She is the daughter of Paul and Lovorna Miller.

COUNTRYKIDS by Danielle DeBerry

The July meeting of the Country Kids was held at the Pysell residence after we had taken a farm tour of five different farms. At these farms the 4-Her's gave a demonstration on their animal(s) they were taking to the fair. Afterwards there was a brief meeting held at the Pysell's house followed by a picnic. We are to be thinking of ideas for the float and for the booth.

Bryan Barnard gave a report on 4-H camp and Danielle gave a report on state speeches. Those giving demonstrations were: April Clemnings on rabbits, Scott Watkins on trimming lambs feet. Danielle DeBerry on showing a steer, Jamie DeBerry on grooming a steer. Aurther Pysell on sheep and pigs, and Sarah Pysell on sheep and goats and Jamie Lewis on sheep.

Bartlett, Hattery Debate Various Issues In County

Questions were fielded concerning a myriad of political issues Friday evening as Sixth District Congressional candidates Delegate Tom Hattery (D.-Frederick) and Republican Roscoe Bartlett, also of Frederick County, met at Garrett Community College Friday in the first of a series of debates planned throughout the Western Maryland region. The candidates began the forum by introducing themselves and briefly explaining their platforms. They were then each given a specified amount of time to respond to questions from the audi-Western Maryland, the state, and the nation.

The candidates were first asked to reveal their positions on reproductive choice. and Bartlett responded by saying that "abortion has gone too far, and should not be used for sex selection and birth control."

Later in the debate, he reinforced his position by saying that the "unlimited application of Roe vs. Wade is not what the average American wants."

Hattery prefaced his reonse by stating, "It's very difficult to tell where he is on this issue because he has changed his position several times." Hattery then said, "The government should stay out of this issue. It is a decision that should be based on

Friendsville Day Schedule Of Events Is Finalized

Friendsville Day '92 with the theme of "An Olympic Summer" will be held this Saturday, August 1, on the grounds of the Friendsville Elementary School. This annual homecoming event will offer entertainment and several activities, as well as a variety of food.

The event will begin Friday evening, July 31, with the kick-off at 7 p.m. The King and Queen Contest will begin at the same time, followed by an hour performance of the Tailweavers, which will begin at 7:30. The Mountaineer Square Dancers will close the evening's events with a performance scheduled for 8:30-10:30.

Saturday will begin at 1:15 p.m. with Opening Ceremonies on the school's outdoor stage and the lighting of the Olympic Torch. A performance by the Country Express band from Salisbury will follow at 1:30 (and again at 5 p.m.). Other events and times are as follows: A talent show featuring local talent will be at 3 p.m.; gospel concert at 6:30 p.m.; and Misty Dawn and Southern Breeze from Fairmont, W.Va., will perform at 7 and 9 p.m. A magic show will be presented at 8 p.m.; and the Closing Ceremonies with the extinguishing of the Olympic Torch will begin at 10 p.m. Fireworks Extravaganza at 10:15 will end the day, according to event organiz-licking British comedy by Brandon Thomas, will be the next offering of the Garrett productions.

Set in late 19th century England, the play is a delightful farce about Victorian social propriety that forbids young ladies and gentlemen from enjoying one another's company without a chaperon. When two college students, Jack Chesney and Charley Wykeham, invited two young ladies to luncheon thinking that Charley's aunt will be there to provide the necessary supervision and the aunt is delayed, a major problem arises. Using their best powers of persuasion, the two young men convince their pal Lord Fancourt Babberly to portray the old lady, leading to a hilarious tangle of mistaken identity. The imposter aunt is courted by two older gentlemen before the real aunt arrives and all ends

Wiseman Pleads Guilty To Robbery; PSI Is Ordered

Terry J. Wiseman, 36, Oakland, pleaded guilty to the charge of robbery last week in Garrett County Circuit Court. Judge Fred A. Thayer accepted the plea, revoked the bail, and ordered a pre-sentence investigation for the defendant. Wiseman is accused of robbing the First United National Bank and Trust in Oakland on January 7 of this year.

Two other charges against the defendant that were not prosecuted were theft and assault and battery. Wiseman reportedly entered the bank at approximately 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 7, and handed a note to teller Gretchen Rush. The note read, "I have a gun. I want $6,000 now or you die! According to the court document, Wiseman said to Mrs. Rush, "I mean it, you'll die." and "I have a gun."

The teller laid a stack of money on the counter, later determined to be $3,950, and the defendant took the money and left the bank. The money contained a packet of "bait money," which is a series of bills with recorded serial numbers. Photographs were taken of the defendant during the robbery, and were published in The Republican on the following Thursday. According to the report, several persons contacted the Garrett County Sheriff's Office shortly after the paper's publication and tips led Lt. Donald Tucker to the

Deborah K. Hershman reported to the police that Wiseman, her boyfriend, had come home that Tuesday afternoon and appeared to be nervous. He also immedithat the Boiling Springs Road bridge over the Little Yough River in Deer Park will be closed for a period of approximately three weeks beginning on or about Monday. August 3. The scope of the project includes repairing the exist ing substructure and instal lation of a new superstruc ture. During the time of road closure traffic will be detoure through Garrett Road to Rt 560 or Fricks Crossing Road depending upon the driver destination.

Roads Department offi cials anticipate that the project will be completed within the three-week frame however, delays caused by weather conditions will in crease the time required to complete the work.

MANY LOCAL EYES will be glued to their television screens this weekend Olympic coverage turns to whitewater racing, an event in which Jon Lugbill, pictured above, is favored to win a gold medal. Lugbill, who is a Maryland resident, is well known in Garrett County, as are many of our nation's top paddlers, because the Olympic trials and World Whitewater championships have been held on Garrett County's Savage River over the past several years. David Hearn, also a Maryland resident, is also among those favored to win a medal in the slalom compatition.

Annual Garrett County Fair Set For August 9-15

Olympic Whitewater Events To Draw Attention From Many Local Viewers

Asmembers of the Adventure Sports Institute at Garrett Community College make final preparations for the first class of students to enter the new Adventure Sports academic program this fall, their attention will turn this weekend to the NBC tele vision coverage of the Summer Olympic Games in Barcelona. Saturday evening, August 1, and Sunday, August 2, are the dates scheduled for the whitewater slalom competition, an event with which these GCC officials are quite familiar.

It's a long way from the Savage River to the town of La Seu d'Urgell in Spain where the Olympic white-

Bradley Manor Plan To Be Discussed At Public Meeting

The mayor and town council of Oakland will hold a special public meeting on Monday, August 3, at 8 p.m. in the town hall. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the proposed plan for the Bradley Manor area.

Mayor Asa McCain indicated that the plan is the result of several months of discussion and meetings between the town, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the Oakland Associates (which consists of several Baltimore area businessmen), among others. The various groups were ordered by a Baltimore court judge to come to a fate of the Bradley Manor area. The plan was to be formulated in a way that would satisfy all parties involved and would provide affordable housing in Oakland.

The mayor noted that the plan has been formulated for some time and has been discussed at several town meetings. This public meeting will most likely be the last time it is discussed, McCain said.

The proposed plan includes a community area with basketball and tennis courts, as well as several middle-to-low income housing units. A complete report will be given at the meeting. All citizens are urged to attend.

structed, but the people who were responsible for the U.S. Canoe and Kayak Team Olympic Trials in May feel a strong link with the 15 athletes who made the U.S. team during that competition.

As Don Storck, chairman of that event, says, "Seeing our whitewater athletes compete for Olympic gold on the world stage provides a rewarding climax for all who gave their time and support to selecting this winning team at the Olympic Trials on the Savage River.

Members of the Departent of Natural Resources, the Maryland State Highway administration, the Mary land National Guard, other local agencies and businesses who worked with Storck and members of the Adventure Sports Institute on the Olym-

Finzel Family Escapes Burning House Monday

A Finzel area family escaped from their burning house without injury early Monday morning after a blaze broke out in the basement of their Gravel Hill Road residence

Mrs. Charles Rosenberg told Eastern Garrett VFD Chief Marsh Smith that she was awakened shortly after 1 a.m. by coughing by her husband and teenage son. Mrs. Rosenberger awakened them and she and her son escaped the house via the door and porch, while Mr. Rosenberger exited the house through a window.

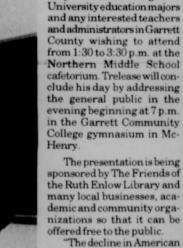

Eastern Garrett, along with Shaft and Frostburg fire fighters, were alerted at 1:06 a.m. Marsh said that most of the fire was confined to the basement area and appeared to have originated on top of a hot water heater There was damage in a bathroom area and the ceiling of the basement, while the kitchen area sustained some heat damage

Frostburg Area Ambulance also responded to the scene. There were no injuries reported. Fire fighters remained on the scene for about two

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES DEBATE THE ISSUES -- A debate was held last week at Garrett Community College between District 4-A Delegate Tom Hattery (D.-Frederick) and Republican Roscoe Bartlett, also of Frederick County, who will each by vying for the Sixth District Congressional seat in the upcoming General Election. (Incumbent Beverly Byron was defeated by Hattery in the Primary Election.) The candidates responded to questions from the audience, who wanted to know the candidates' positions on everything from the economy to reproductive choice. The forum was the first in a series that is currently being held throughout Western Maryland to give the voters of the district an opportunity to learn more about the candidates. Bartlett is shown above left, and Hattery is pictured to the right. (See separate story.)

The decline in American literacy."Trelease declares, is due in large part to the fact that two-thirds of our children no longer want to read. No player in the NBA vas born wanting to play basketball. So, too, the desire to read must be planted. It is a fact that reading aloud to a

A HUGE CHECK, physically and financially, was presented is past week by the Garrett National Bank to the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library. The check for $8,644.25 represented proceeds from the GNB's annual charity golf tournament, held at the Oakland Country Club. Making the presentation to Jack child is the oldest, cheapest.
